"Longwood at a Glance"

T. C. DALTON

Director of Special Services

Curry Dormitory, Longwood's first "high-rise", opened for the fall semester. Construction is well under way for the second high-rise, due to open in September, 1970. This new dormitory will be named in honor of Longwood's third president, Dr. Robert Frazer. . . . The official groundbreaking ceremonies for the new home economics and faculty offices building took place the second week of October. It will be called the Coyner Building, in honor of Mr. Boyd Coyner, former professor at Longwood, and his wife, Ruth Harding Coyner, the first executive secretary of the Alumnae Association. . . . Joyce Fay Linhart of Newport News, a member of Longwood's 1969 freshman class, was the recipient of the first Becky Godwin Scholarship, awarded by the Virginia Education Association. Governor Godwin presented the scholarship in June. . . . On September 19, District "D" of the VEA met on the Longwood campus. Approximately 3,000 teachers attended. At the afternoon delegate assembly speakers included Dr. H. I. Willett, Jr.; Mr. T. Preston Turner and Mr. Richard Pulley of the VEA; and Mr. William Wall of the Town of Farmville. . . . Dr. O. Carolyn Wells, professor of biology, has been named to the newly established post of Assistant Dean of the College. Dr. Marvin W. Scott, associate professor of biology, has been appointed chairman of the Department of Natural Sciences. Dr. Scott has replaced Dr. Robert Brumfield who resigned the position to devote full time to teaching and research. . . . All administrative offices have been temporarily re-located and the Rotunda closed off in preparation for the renovation of Ruffner Hall. Joan of Arc has been moved to the Gold Room of the Lankford Building for "safe-keeping." She will return to the Rotunda when the renovation is completed, tentatively in the spring of 1970. . . . A meeting of the council of the Association of Longwood College Alumnae was held on campus September 27. After the meeting, Dr. Willett, Col. John Carr and Mr. T. C. Dalton took the ladies on a tour of Curry Dormitory. . . . The first Sophomore Parent's Day was held on October 5. More than 300 parents and students took part in the day's activities which included a luncheon, a skit in Jarman, a tea in Lankford Building, and an open house in the four dorms where sophomores live. The day was part of a continuing effort toward closer communication between the College and the parents of our students. . . . Members of the administrative staff, student leaders, and several faculty members took part in a "Retreat" prior to the opening of school in September. Important issues involving the entire student body were discussed. . . . The Richmond Alumnae Chapter held a coffee at the VEA Convention for alumnae members and friends. They had the largest off-campus gathering in the history of Longwood College; over 200 friends and alumnae came by. . . . Geist, the leadership group which is the successor to Alpha Kappa Gamma, sponsored "Oktoberfest", October 24-26. A record number of parents and alumnae attended this gala affair. The Norfolk Alumnae Chapter brought a bus load of alumnae and prospective "Longwood Ladies". Several other alumnae chapters are planning to bring a bus load of friends and prospective students to May Day. Oktoberfest replaced Circus. . . . The VEA Leadership Conference will be held on the Longwood campus August 5-7. The Virginia High School Student Cooperative Association will also hold its annual conference at Longwood during the month of August. . . . The campus school, to be completed by September, 1970, has been named the John P. Wynne Campus School. . . . The following is a distribution of residences of Longwood students from cities and counties in Virginia that have at least twenty students attending Longwood during the 1969-70 school year: Richmond—81, Virginia Beach—70, Norfolk—57, Portsmouth—47, Hampton—46, Lynchburg—45, Newport News—35, Chesapeake—32, Alexandria—21, Roanoke—20, Henrico—143, Chesterfield—100, Fairfax—94, Roanoke—76, Albemarle—54, Prince Edward—51, Campbell—40, Halifax—37, Hanover—35, Mecklenburg—34, Nottoway—33, Pittsylvania—32, Augusta—29, Henry—27, Charlotte—26, Nansemond—23, and Cumberland—20.

Statement Of Rights And Responsibilities

Many American colleges and universities have chosen to establish a statement of the rights and responsibilities of the institutions and their students. These statements help to clarify the philosophy of the schools and also aid prospective students and parents in making their choices of an institution to attend. In keeping with this trend, representatives of the Longwood faculty and student body have drawn up the "Longwood College Statement of Rights and Responsibilities." In order that all parties involved could discuss this statement, it was on the agenda at the "Retreat" held prior to the opening of school with faculty members, student leaders, and administrators, and voted on at a fall faculty meeting. This statement has been accepted by the Legislative Board and the faculty, and on November 7, it was officially adopted by the Board of Visitors.

LONGWOOD COLLEGE Statement Of Rights And Responsibilities

In a period of American history marked by major campus unrest, and even violence, the Board of Visitors of Longwood College views with great pride the positive attitudes displayed by the student body of the College. The Board wishes to commend the students for such actions as the pro-College demonstration held on April 24, 1969.

So that all may be aware of the feelings and the expectations of the Board of Visitors of Longwood College, this statement of policy is adopted on November 7, 1969. The adoption occurs after due consultation with faculty, staff, and student groups. It is recognized that no single statement is capable of covering all possible contingencies but it is hoped that this statement will convey the prevailing philosophy of the Board.

The objective of Longwood College is that of providing an education of high quality. In order that this might be accomplished, the Board of Visitors recognizes that certain rights and certain responsibilities must be incumbent upon the varied parties involved in the educational process. This includes the student body as well as the faculty and staff. Total effort should be expended to promote acceptance of the concept that all groups comprising the college have a common objective in securing such an education of quality.

The student body has the right to expect that the fundamentals of due process will be accorded to each and every student just as these fundamentals also must be accorded to all members of the college community. The Board of Visitors, therefore, adopts as institutional policy "The Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students" published in 1967. This document was prepared by a joint committee representing a wide range of student and professional organizations.

The Board wishes to note its concern that members of the college community have the privileges and rights accorded to other citizens. While the Board is concerned with individual rights so is it concerned with the responsibility of the college community to avoid taking advantage of membership in this community in order to further partisan political or other views.

Embodied in the joint statement is the concept that freedom and rights do carry with them certain responsibilities for all members of the college community. The Board of Visitors, therefore, asserts the responsibility of all involved to follow established and orderly channels of communication, inquiry, and dissent and to desist from any action which interferes with the rights of others to pursue their normal educational tasks.

Recognizing that the student body has certain rights and responsibilities, so, too, should it be observed that certain rights and responsibilities accrue to the faculty and staff of the College. The faculty and staff have the responsibility of establishing and maintaining open channels of communication through which student inquiry and dissent may be directed. On the other hand the faculty and staff have the right to expect that students will recognize student responsibility to peacefully direct inquiry and dissent through such channels.

The Board of Visitors can tolerate no activity which disrupts the normal processes of instruction, study, research, service, assembly, and incites others to disrupt the functions of the College.

The Schools And The Peace Movement

(Written in 1913)

This is the age of progress. The motto of this century seems to be, "Out with the old, in with the new." Yet the solution of this problem which stands before us today and which would mean such a step from the old order has been dreamed of by the greatest minds of times past—the problem of universal peace.

It is the duty, as well as the opportunity, of the public schools of this generation to help solve this problem.

The question before the schools today is not, "Shall we educate for citizenship?" but rather, "What kind of citizens shall we educate our children to be?" For whether it wishes to assume the responsibility of education for citizenship or not, the school has the responsibility thrust upon it. And so it is clearly the duty of the school to see that the citizen it produces be the best possible quality.

In the trudging school boy of today we behold the merchant, inventor, politician, or statesman of tomorrow. In a few years he will hold the power of this nation in his hands. It is, therefore, the duty of the school, which is one of the greatest factors in the child's development, to see that the power he wields will be for good.

The opportunities of the school for the development of the idea of universal peace are many and varied. There is scarcely a subject in the school curriculum which will not lend itself to the furtherance of this idea.

A debate, taking up some phase of this subject, could be arranged as a program for May 18, Peace Day. It should be kept in mind, however, that the question for debate should not necessitate either side to debate in favor of war. For if a person does not believe in the beginning in the position he has assumed, he certainly does before he finishes, and, therefore, it would defeat the aim of the debate to have one side a firm believer in war because of the debate. Also, an essay on a subject such as, "The Development of Peace" or "The Work of the Hague Peace Conferences," could be written for such a program.

As one of the great problems of universal peace and of the establishing of an international tribunal is to get some good practical plan that will be fair to and satisfy all nations, a prize might be awarded to the pupil who brought in the best practical plan. In this way not only the pupils but also the patrons of the school would be reached. The children of a family always get the rest of the family interested in any contest they are working on and so the attention of the parents would certainly be called to this great problem. If in this plan, that the children bring in, the countries are to be represented according to population, in the Geography class the teacher could have the children find out how many representatives each country should have.

The History class is full of opportunities for developing this subject. The effect of war on a race can be tragic. The fall of Rome was due chiefly to the fact that the highest type of Roman civilization was sent to the wars and killed, while the inferior type remained at home to have charge of affairs. It is also said that the average height of Frenchmen was reduced one inch by the Napoleonic wars. While the teacher should not under value the greatness of Caesar, Napoleon, and Washington, she should at least raise to as high a pinnacle such men as Luther, Jefferson, and Edison. She can show that civilization advances only in times of peace.

In the playground, the children could have a tribunal to settle their disputes. In this way, fighting would be done away with and the children would be putting into practice the principles learned. It would also teach the children self-control and submission to right rather than might. And certainly individuals must learn this theory before a nation should be expected to have it, because a nation is made up of individuals.

The teacher must be very tactful in the way she treats this subject. It should be kept in mind by the teacher in all of her work and touched upon incidentally whenever the opportunity offers, but it should not be harped upon continually lest the children grow not only tired but openly antagonistic toward it.

Today the nations are not ready for universal peace. They have accepted it in theory, but it will take education to make them proficient in the practical application of these theories. It is, therefore, the opportunity and duty of the schools to prepare the nation for the acceptance of this idea, so that it will not be many years before all nations will be living together in universal brotherhood and thus actually be fulfilling the highest plan of their Creator.

Visit Your "New Alumnae House"

In early December, Dr. and Mrs. Willett moved out to Longwood House which is now the college president's home. The Alumnae House is now in the beautiful large white house which has housed our illustrious college presidents for many years.

All Alumnae are cordially invited to visit your Alumnae House whenever you are in Farmville and to spend the night whenever you can. Plan a trip soon to visit Longwood and your beautiful alumnae "home on campus." Call Elizabeth S. Jones, alumnae director, or Mrs. Lucille Cabiniss, alumnae house hostess.

The Colonnade Club

Class prophecies seldom predict accurately the future course of a student's career. Had there been a prophecy for the Class of 1962 it would not have been likely to predict that seven years after her graduation, Mary Lee Warriner of Amelia would still be associated with her Alma Mater. This time in the unique capacity of president of The Colonnade Club, an organization of ladies on the faculty and staff of the College and the wives of faculty and staff members—an organization which Lee played an integral part in forming. Nor did Lee have any realization that within seven years she would be the wife of one of the academic department chairmen of the College.

Lee entered Longwood in the fall of 1958, expecting to become a medical technician after receiving her degree in biology. By her senior year, she had decided that she wanted to teach biology. The reason for this change? She had met Marvin W. Scott, a recent graduate of Hampden-Sydney who was working at Longwood as a research assistant in biology. Lee and Marvin were married in August, 1962. She taught for three years: one year at Randolph Henry High School in Charlotte Court House while Marvin began his career as a college teacher at Hampden-Sydney, and two years in Christiansburg while he went to VPI to graduate school to pursue his doctoral studies. Her teaching was interrupted by the arrival of her daughter, Kathryn Page, now age four.

Shortly after the Scotts returned to Farmville in 1966 when Marvin assumed a teaching position on the Longwood faculty, The Colonnade Club was formed. This Club has its roots in a series of informal teas which had been held monthly in the Alumnae House since 1965 with women in the various academic departments taking turns as hostesses. The idea for these teas had originated within the Social Committee of the College, whose members felt that with the growth of Longwood the women connected with the College needed opportunities to become better acquainted. Recognizing the need for an organization that would help develop a more meaningful relationship with the college by affording them the opportunity of getting to know each other in a wider variety of activities, a group of faculty wives began the difficult process of organizing by choosing officers.

During the first year, a busy year in which the organization was constantly searching to find the best way to serve its members, Lee served as membership chairman, participating in all events. The Club held several luncheons; a tea; a smorgasbord to which husbands or dates were invited; sponsored a panel discussion on "Contemporary Trends in Art, Literature, Music, and Drama," to which the Hampden-Sydney Hill Club was invited; initiated a discussion of festival customs, dress, and recipes in foreign countries by members of the Club of foreign origin; and presented two fashion shows. The fall show was in co-operation with Travis's, a local dress shop, and the spring fashion show a much larger undertaking was represented by Baldwin's, Esther May, The Hub, Leggett's and Travis's. As her major contribution to this varied program, Lee was coordinator of the Spring Fashion Show, a task that involved bringing together the models and the stores; the publicity, ticket sales, staging, decorating and programs. The first year ended with a family picnic at Holiday Lake.

The next year Lee was elected first vice-president in charge of programs. Among the programs for the year was a panel discussion featuring "A Spotlight on International Diversities" and a panel discussion on "Social Determinism versus Individual Freedom". The Club also held such social events as a tea, the family picnic, the smorgasbord, a square dance and a bingo party.

As part of the function of developing a community spirit among the ladies of the college, the Club has developed a number of interest groups including beginning and advanced bridge, sewing, singing, books and antiques.

This year, with Lee as president, the Club is continuing its enrichment of the community life of the College. On her executive board are a group of excellent officers: Mrs. Henry I. Willett, Jr., Honorary President, Mrs. T. Cullen Dalton (wife of the Director of Special Services), First Vice-President; Mrs. George R. Bristol (wife of the Director of the Physical Plant), Second Vice-President; Mrs. William L. Frank (wife of the chairman of the English department), Secretary; Mrs. Robert L. Banton (wife of Associate professor of education), Treasurer; and Mrs. Josephine Magnifico (Associate professor of Mathematics), Historian.

Mary Lee McKeever (left), of Chatham, and Linda Rumpf, of Clifton Forge, both students in French at Longwood College, assisted Wayne K. Nunn, acting chairman of the Foreign Language Department, in making plans for the "Longwood in France" tour. Here they are looking over some of the material in Nunn's office at the college.

"Longwood In France" Completes Its First Summer

"Longwood in France," a five-week program organized at the college last fall, has successfully completed its first summer in the Loire Valley of France. Six hours credit were awarded for courses in language, literature and civilization, at the Institute of Touraine of the University of Poitiers. Morning classes, taught by the faculty of the French university, were supplemented by study sessions under the supervision of Wayne K. Nunn, Director of Longwood in France and Acting Chairman of the Department of Foreign Languages of Longwood College.

Tours, the city chosen as the study center, is about 200 miles south of Paris. The population is approximately 120,000. During the month at Tours, weekend and afternoon excursions were made to the various chateaux for which the region is especially renowned. Wine caves were also visited, and one weekend was given to a visit to Mont Saint-Michel, off the coast of Normandy. Eminent scholars gave supplementary lectures on literature and civilization.

In addition to the study period, the group had two days in Paris, two days in Madrid and three days in Lisbon. Travel between countries was by Air France jet.

Longwood was indeed fortunate to have as Associate Director Mrs. A. Tyree Finch of Farmville who, as Mr. Nunn expresses it, "had the affection and respect of the entire group and sustained our morale at crucial moments."

We were also fortunate in having as Assistant to the Director David R. Riley, a student at Brown University. "Dave," who was very popular in the group, kept students informed as to policy and schedules and executed admirably the duties of travel assigned to him.

Compared to other Americans, the Longwood group was, according to Mr. Nunn, "assuredly superior; there was an admirable esprit de corps, and yet they, as individuals, found French friends."

Fourteen of the twenty-three participants will continue at Longwood as students in the fall. Two are graduate students and three are undergraduates at other institutions: Radford College, Old Dominion, Brown University, Appalachian State University and the University of Virginia. Two are employed as French teachers in the public schools of Virginia.

Sandra Lee Johnson, valedictorian of the class of 1969; two former presidents of the French Club of Longwood, Mary Lee McKeever and Susan DuPriest; and the current President, Kathleen Wyman, also attended. Other members of the group who made a special contribution were Deanna Bryson, Secretary of "Longwood in France," and Mary Lee McKeever and Linda Rumpf, Dormitory Coordinators in France.

"The summer of 1970 promises to be even better," says Mr. Nunn; "We plan to expand in number of students and in courses offered in France, Spain, Mexico and Germany will be added on demand, and friends of the college are invited to join us for travel and/or study."

Professor Earl Rubley of the Geography Department, and twenty-eight students bid farewell to Colonel John Carr, III, vice-president of Longwood, before beginning their tour of eight countries in Europe last summer. Dr. Charles Lane, far right, head of the department, joins in wishing the group a successful tour.

The Richmond alumnae chapter hosted a coffee for alumnae and guests during the VEA convention in late October. Left to right: Miss Ellen Lyon, Longwood sophomore, Mrs. Willett, Mrs. N. L. Negaard, chapter president, Dr. Henry Willett, and Miss Janice Austin, president of student government, enjoy the occasion which brought several hundred guests to the event.

Mrs. T. C. Coleman, Jr. (LeNoir Coleman), past president of Farmville chapter, presents scholarship award to Miss Ethel Statzer, senior at Prince Edward Academy, who is attending Longwood.

Dr. Willett and Dr. Catherine S. Sims, dean of Sweet Briar College, lead the procession into Jarman Hall for fall Convocation in November. Students, faculty and alumnae and friends attended the program and heard a most inspiring talk by Dr. Sims on "The Field is Won." Dr. Sims was introduced by Dr. Carolyn Wells, assistant dean of Longwood and professor of natural sciences.

The Martinsville and area alumnae gathered in the home of Mrs. Clyde Hooker, Jr. (Kitty Sue Bridgeforth), for a meeting and social hour. Enjoying refreshments are Mrs. Hooker, Dr. Willett, Mrs. J. H. Barnes (Helen Smith) and Elizabeth S. Jones, alumnae director.

YOUR CANDIDATES

First Vice-President:

Sue Yeaman Britton of Roanoke, was an outstanding member of the Class of 1934, and has served as president of the large Roanoke Alumnae Chapter. She is an active member of the Virginia Heights Baptist Church, and especially helps with the choirs and all the pageants and decorations. Sue's mother is an alumna and lives in Martinsville, and one of her daughters graduated from Longwood recently and is now teaching.

Second Vice-President:

Lillian Rosson Spicer of Abingdon, was president of her class of 1959, and taught for six years in Henrico County. She is most active in the Junior Woman's Clubs—past president of Westhampton Junior Club and has transferred her membership to Abingdon Junior Woman's Club. She enjoys being a homemaker—she and her husband, Lewis, are Methodists.

Directors:

Ann Jacqueline "Jackie" Pond, '57, of Colonial Heights, has taught in Virginia Beach, Colonial Heights, and is now a director of Guidance at Matoaca High School. She has her Master's in Education in guidance at the UVA, is a member of AAUW, Kappa Delta Pi, CEA, VEA and NEA. Ann is very Longwood spirited.

Helen Hardin Luck, '50, of Norfolk, is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and teaches Sunday School, a member of Junior League of Norfolk, and a member of the advisory committee of STOP Day Care Center. Helen has two children and is a member of Norfolk Alumnae Chapter.

Nancy Brown '67, of Richmond, teaches English at Manchester High. Nancy did graduate work in English Education at the UVa, and was an outstanding student at Longwood. She is a member of Southminister Presbyterian Church.

Evelyn Gray Harris, '64, of Hampton, has taught in elementary schools in Henrico, Chesapeake and Hampton. She worked on a preliminary curriculum guide for sex education for the City of Hampton, and wrote a chapter on the creative teaching of English in elementary grades for a book EDUCATION FOR EXCELLENCE to be published by Parker Publishers in early 1970. She is an active volunteer for the Tidewater Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, and has been a class alumnae news secretary.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

IT IS MOST IMPORTANT THAT ALL ALUMNAE NOTIFY THE ALUMNAE OFFICE IMMEDIATELY WHEN THEY CHANGE AN ADDRESS AND/OR NAME!

The Alumnae Association has to pay as much as 20¢ for forwarding and return postage, in some cases, and this is becoming increasingly costly. Tracing alumnae who have moved consumes time in the Alumnae Office which could be used to better advantage. Much time and money can be saved if alumnae will send a government or "moving company" postal notifying us of changes of address. Please add the ZIP CODE!

A luncheon attended by close friends and staff paid honor to Ruth and Boyd Coyner, as the Home Economics Building was named Coyner Building. The dedication ceremonies will be after the building is completed. Enjoying the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Coyner were: Mrs. Thomas J. Starke, of Richmond, Dr. Henry I. Willett, Jr., college president, and Mrs. Nell Griffin, chairman of the Home Economics department.

The Alumnae Fall Council drew many board members, chapter presidents, and college staff to the meetings; one of which was held in Jeffers Auditorium. Left to right, are: Miss Janet Bingner, council member from the faculty, Elizabeth S. Jones, alumnae director, Betty Jones Klepser, of Arlington, our national alumnae president, Dr. Robert H. Blackwell, academic dean of Longwood and council member, and Mr. Cully Dalton, Longwood's director of special services.

Following the morning session of the council, members enjoyed the coffee break under the umbrellas at cafe tables outside Lankford building.

Class News

Class of '98—Two recent memorial gifts to Belle Mears Burk Miller have been made to the St. John's Episcopal Church, Hampton—one a processional cross for Primaries, and a "Family Encyclopedia of the Living Bible" for the library are among many gifts made in her memory. Belle taught school for 32 years and was still in demand as a substitute till she was 87 years old!

Class of '03—Students have remarked of Miss Mary Peck, who died Oct. '68, an associate professor of History at Longwood for 17 years, "she truly made history come to life."

Class of '06—A fitting tribute to Elizabeth Kizer, an adventurer in teaching, was recently made by naming a very fine school in Lynchburg in her honor.

Class of 1914—Louise Pulliam Trucks of Arlington has led a most active life—and still does—from a ticket agent in Roanoke, a cafeteria manager to being a Resident Manager of a high rise apartment building.

Class of 1918—Irene Buckman Lineberger is a resident in the Lutheran Church Home in Hickory, N. C. She has been a capable leader and worker in the Lutheran Church.

Class of 1923—Mary George Bolen of Culpeper has won the Gold Key citation from the Columbia Scholastic Press Associates in recognition of her outstanding services and devotion to the school press. She is one of 16 to win this citation in the entire United States.

Class of 1925—Mary Grice Hall Duff has retired after 9 years as counselor at U. of N. C. Her retirement will be spent in Chuckatuck where she is a member of the Junto Woman's Club.

Class of 1928—Emma Haskins Rogers taught 27 years and retired to live in Farmville.

Class of 1929—Elizabeth Bowers Meredith is on a medical leave of absence from the Sacramento Unified School District after cataract surgery.

Class of 1931—Alma Garlick Jones is enjoying her department of Art in Culpeper junior and senior high school in which she has developed a new class of art stitchery which she defines as "painting with yarn".

Class of 1932—Louise Clayton was elected to the presidency of Iota State at its convention in April. A native of Portsmouth she is quite active in the life of the city.

Class of 1936—Catherine Chappell Shaw of Martinsville has received the Civic Leaders of America 1968 National award in recognition of outstanding service and leadership. Her name will be included in a book published by the Civic Leaders of America which will be placed in the Library of Congress. Elise Turner Franklin of Greensboro has helped Stokes County get its Historical Society started. Her husband, Cabell, is a direct descendant of the Stokes family. Dick Lancaster, husband of Carolyn Byrd Lancaster, has been named Engineer in charge of the State Dept. of Highways in Dinwiddie and Prince George Counties. A major project will complete a 22-mile portion of I-85 south of Petersburg.

Class of 1942—After 43 years as a school teacher (she received her diploma in 1926), Catherine Moffitt Walters will retire to take care of her husband and spend more time with her roses and scrapbooks.

Class of 1944—Mildred Droste has been named Dean of Students at Mary Washington College. She has been assistant dean since 1965 and a member of the faculty for 15 years. Mary Sue Palmer Parvin earned her Master's in Education from Northern Ill. University.

Class of 1949—Melbale Booth lives in Pacoima, Calif.—teaches in the Panorama Baptist Elementary School and says "each day I am gratified for the training and spirit which Longwood gave to me!"

Class of 1952—Margaret Munden Keister is among the contributors in "The Instructor Magazine." She is one of a panel of educators whose views are given on the question of helping parents understand the school program.

Class of 1961—Cecil Kidd is now a school librarian in Richmond and expects to try for a Master's in Library Science soon.

CLASS OF 1913

The familiar sight of Virgilia I. Bugg walking downtown sometimes two or three times a day to mail letters and to buy remembrances for many friends is sadly missed; for Miss Bugg was killed instantly when struck by a car in Winchester in August 1969. For many years after retiring as registrar, Miss Bugg worked in the Alumnae office giving unselfishly of her time and talents. Our sympathy is extended to her family and classmates, and to her friends near and far.

Right: Charles Caldwell Cake, son of Anne Caldwell Cake, '57.

Hello Thirty-fivers,

I'm filling in for Frankie who left for Europe when letters were due in for our magazine. I'm sure, though, were she here, she'd agree we thirty-fivers should mark with a bold red pencil the date of March 21, 1970—Founders Day and our 35th anniversary. That's hard to believe, isn't it?

Since Founders Day usually starts with coffee at the Alumnae House, why couldn't we have this as sort of a meeting place and then have lunch together. Bring along snap shots, citations, medals—and experiences; we've all had plenty of those, I'm sure. Somebody bring along an old annual to help connect past and present. And we'll talk about the future, too. Think Longwood's future is definitely on the up. Loved the demonstration of appreciation put on by the students for their new president—that's our college spirit all right! See you in March.

Weddings and children arriving for spring vacation kept most thirty-niners from making our thirtieth reunion. We missed you. I appreciated your letters of regret. It was nice hearing from so many girls. The faithful few who arrived in Farmville had a glorious time. We found it well worth the effort to go.

Gathered for dinner Friday evening at the Hotel Wyanoke were Nellie Putney Casten, Theresa Graft Jamison, Sarah Button Rex, Ginny Taylor Collins, Eloise Williams Draine, Eloise's daughter, and yours truly.

Eloise teaches at York Academy. Her daughter is a senior at St. Margarets. Ginny is a first grade teacher in Bridgeville, Del. She brought wonderful pictures of her attractive children and grandchildren. I enjoyed visiting Theresa and Anson in Roanoke en route to Farmville. Their home is lovely and is a garden-week attraction. Son John was home, and their eldest son was at St. Andrews School in N. C. Nellie is a high school counselor in Chesapeake. Sarah was excited over two weddings this summer for her daughters Betty Ann and Carol. Sarah is field director for the Girl Scouts in the Virginia Skyline Girl Scouts Circuit. It was Sarah's mother's sixtieth reunion and her daughter's fifth.

We were proud to have a classmate representing us as a member of the Longwood faculty. Beatrice Bland recently received her Ph.D.

LeNoir Hubbard Coleman teaches at Prince Edward Academy and is active in the local Longwood Alumnae Chapter. LeNoir and her daughter, who is a Longwood student, took Theresa and me on a tour of the lovely new buildings.

Now for news of classmates who could not join us in Farmville, but sent greetings.

Betty Von Gemmingen Bruce has moved to Dallas. Her son is a student at Southern Methodist. Mead Neale Kilduff is a high school guidance counselor. She has a son attending Davidson College and another son in high school. Mead sends the message that Northern Neck is a delightful spot, and her home is always open to all who care to come. David Terry Cave wrote from Camp Lejeune, N. C., that she was unable to attend our reunion.

Lina Willis Weiler of Phoenix, Ariz., wrote a gay letter with news that her mother (Carrie Hunter Willis) was visiting. She has two daughters at U. of Cal. and a son who is a U. of Colorado senior. Miriam Ficklen Howell teaches home economics in Waynesville, N. C. Both of her children are married. Her daughter graduated at Longwood. Elizabeth Burke is principal of the lower school at Collegiate Country Day School in Richmond. She asks to be remembered to all of you.

Elizabeth George Wilson Streitman has a son in Vietnam. Her daughter is a graduate of Longwood and will be married in July. Lib and Bob live at Virginia Beach. Selma West Moore is teaching and lives in Yardville, N. J. Her son is in Vietnam. Sarah Hayer Armistead spent several weeks with her husband, traveling in South America this spring.

Caroline Gwathmey Jones is principal of Towson Elementary School. Her daughter is a freshman at R.-M. W. C. in Lynchburg. Pattie Bounds Sells's daughter is a high school senior and an accomplished ballet dancer. Her oldest son graduated from Duke in 1967 and is married and attending T. C. Williams School of Law in Richmond. She has also a fifteen-year-old son at home. Margaret Stallard Wooling wrote from Virginia Beach that they have a daughter at Longwood.

Jane Fowler Olson's letter from Upland, Neb., was quite newsy. Her oldest daughter is a senior at Wayne State College. Her second daughter is a senior in high school, and she has two younger sons and a third-grade daughter. Army Butterworth Lewis has a Longwood daughter, and her son is practicing law with his father.

Elsie Dodd Sindles lives in St. Clair Shores, Mich. She has recently moved her mother into Imperial Plaza in Richmond.

Margaret Brittain Guerrina is living in Germany.

The class extends its sympathy to Virginia Epes Irby Smith whose husband died in March, and to LeNoir Hubbard Coleman whose "T. C." died in April.

Judson Franklin, son of Elise Turner Franklin, '36x, and his bride, at their wedding.

I feel just as if I were going to have two Christmases in 1969. One thing I look forward to at Christmas is receiving notes from friends that I seldom see. Hearing from you Farmville STC grads has been a real joy!

In order to gather news for this letter, my requests for information were sent to summer school enrollees, associate members, as well as June 1940 graduates. Some requests were returned because of an incorrect address. This means the Alumnae Association is out of touch with those persons; that made me feel sad! The number of replies seemed to be about par, and we heard from some who have not responded for several years.

A good place to start our newsletter is with A for Adams, Ruby Adams Struhs. Ruby sent two cute snapshots of her nine-year-old son, Pasco, who is a cadet at Linton Hall Military School at Bristol, Va. He ended the year a demerit-free cadet, and his company was cited for being the best drilled. Ruby's husband is with the Trust Territories of the Pacific Islands and spends much time at Guam, Yak, Truk, Saipan, and on other islands. Ruby lives in Manassas where she is a substitute teacher. She and Pasco spent last summer at the Mayan Dude Ranch in Banderera, Texas. She reports she can still ride a horse. (I never could and still can't.)

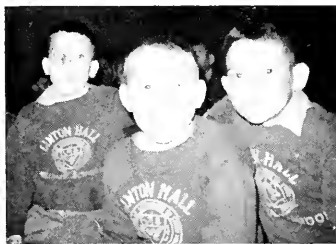

B is for Billups—Anne Billups Jones. Anne and her dentist husband, W. B., live in Virginia Beach. They import English built sailboats. This requires a great deal of work but affords them much pleasure. Their two sons, aged fifteen and thirteen, are sailing enthusiasts. They were in England three years ago; go to Florida during the winter months; and do boat shows in New York, Washington, and Richmond. They hope to make the Bahamas next year. How exciting!

B is for Virginia Boyd Hudgins who has two weddings on her schedule. Daughter Carolyn, a Longwood graduate, who taught first grade this past year, will marry in June. She and her "coach" will teach in West Point. Daughter Jeannie is a junior at U. of Ga. and is marrying a chemist from Wilmington, Del. Poor Dad Hudgins fell and broke his arm in two places and also his heel. They are trying to get him home from the hospital in time for the first wedding. Best wishes for a speedy recovery, Ray.

Susan Booker Christian writes that she has two married children and five grandchildren. She is now on the approved list of professional genealogists at the Archives Department of the Virginia State Library. She is a member of the Virginia Genealogical Society. I know many persons who would like to pose a question or two for you, Sue.

Another B is for Hazel-Wood Barbark Thomas. What an interesting account she gives of her family's activities. Bruce flies his own plane, and she raises and shows West Highland white terriers. Teenager Beth studies piano and makes most of her own clothes. Teenager Richard is a scout and studies guitar. Teenager George has an after-school job and keeps the family supplied with Brook trout. They spent last summer trailering in Maine. The summer of '67 they spent 2½ months in Washington State. The family has a grand time working on their three acres and jaunting around New England. When the snows come, they go into Hartford and attend travel lectures.

Pasco, 9, in the center, is the son of Ruby Adams Struhs, '40.

C is for Carrington, Cogsdale, Copley and Cunningham. Anita Carrington Taylor is justifiably proud of her married son who is working on his doctorate in math at U. of Wis. She has contact with Josie Lee Cogsdale Taylor. Josie Lee and Lloyd's oldest daughter graduated from Va. Tech in June. They will have three children in high school next year and one in the third grade. Anita and Josie Lee are making plans to attend our reunion in '70.

Bernice Copley owns a store in Kenbridge and finds time to pursue her hobbies, art and aviation. She recently won first and second places in an art show and is preparing for her private pilot's examination. We will expect you to fly to Farmville for our reunion, Bernice.

Mary Lou Cunningham Warren is busily engaged in civic affairs and was appointed by the Governor to serve on the Rural Affairs Study Commission. She is president of the Virginia Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs. These interests have taken her to Michigan, Puerto Rico, and Jamaica. She recently had contact with Marie Dix Moran at her home in Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Dorothy Davis Bowles lives near me in Henrico County. Her oldest daughter graduated from Longwood in 1965 and took a world tour last year. I had the pleasure of teaching her middle daughter, Marilyn, who was married in '68. Her youngest daughter plans to attend Mary Washington in the fall.

While visiting at Sunnyside Presbyterian Home at Massanetta Springs recently, I had a wonderful chat with Beulah Ettinger Cobbs. Her husband is the Administrator at the Home. She and her traveling family are going to Europe again this summer.

Dot Fischer Mangels is resting from her two years service as class secretary! Aren't you, Dot? She and Bill plan to visit son, 2nd Lt. Bill, Jr., at Fort Ord, Cal., this summer. Granddaughter, Kelly Ann, never lacks for a baby sitter. Dot and Bill, Sr., live the good life with good health, good friends, and a wonderful family. See you in '70, Dot. Incidentally, she recently has had contact with Emil Ellis Wood, Frances Alvis Hurlbert, and Pat Gibson Stewart ('41).

Mary Gill Clarke and her foster husband live in Charlottesville where she teaches in private school. They have two children: Bill, 16, and Kathy, 13. Family, teaching, and attending UVA, keep Marie busy.

Charlaine Hall Chapman's reply came from a story book address—Paradise Blvd. in Treasure Island, Fla. Her husband is retired, and they have two children and one grandchild.

Hazel Holmes Rouse is married to a U. S. Navy Commander, retired, and they live at Virginia Beach. She has contact with her roommate Marguerite Russ Lawrence, who lives in Rocky Mount.

Jerry Hatcher Waring is a mother-in-law for the second time. Tommy was married in Michigan on graduation weekend. He and his bride were graduated from U. of Mich. Linda is due home from Afghanistan after two years in the Peace Corps. Jerry is still "Avon Calling" and gardening. Olivia Stephenson Lennon and I see Jerry each August when we go to Roanoke to attend the Annual Home Economics Conference. We have a marvelous time, talking. Olivia has rejoined the ranks as a home economics teacher at King William. She went to Warrenton to help Carolyn Booth Saunders ('46) with her daughter's wedding last summer.

Helen Jeffries Miles reports that son Jeff will be married in August. He and his wife will be in VPI Graduate School next year. Bill, the youngest, will graduate from high school in June and enter Indiana U. in the fall. Married son, Hugh, III, is a banker in Richmond. Helen has been on a graduate teaching assistantship this year, while finishing her course work for a Master's in English. She will devote next year to writing her thesis and to the family. Helen included the news that Laura Morris Burrows' youngest son, who is married and has an infant son, was graduated from Tech this year. Laura's oldest son Morris has a son about a year old. Helen wrote also that Libby Robert McCann ('38) has a daughter Susan who will marry this summer. She and her fiancé are both working on doctorates at Duke. A note of sadness from Helen's letter—she had just attended the funeral of Anne Berkeley Williams Slaughter Brennan who died June 5 in Cal.

Philip, 7, and Anne, 9, children of Louisa Dawson Smucker, '46.

I saw Sara Keesee Hiltzheimer at the Iota State meeting of The Delta Kappa Gamma Society in Williamsburg in April. Sara was dividing her time between Iota State and the Librarians' State meeting. Their oldest son has orders for Vietnam July 8. He was commissioned at Fort Sill, Okla., last June. We are all proud of these courageous and patriotic boys, Sara.

Our condolences go to Anna Maxey Boelt who lost her mother this spring. Anna and Raymond's Billy plays baseball on the U. of Richmond team, and Judy is at Chowan College.

Mary Walker Mitchell Hughes writes from Atlanta that they are in the process of organizing an alumnae chapter for the greater Atlanta area. Best wishes! Mary Walker and her veterinarian husband have two children.

More M's—Katherine Moomaw Yowell is teaching, has three children, and finds time to be very active in community affairs. A special interest is the Community School of Special Educations. She reports having had recent contact with Irma Carpenter Craits. Katherine's family and Frances Steed Edwards ('39) plan to vacation together at Ocean Drive, S. C., this summer. The Yowells and Edwards and Pattie Bounds Sellers ('39) and her husband recently spent an evening together in Washington.

"School Marm" Lora Moomaw says that the alumnae letter always comes at the roughest time of the year for school personnel. Amen, Lora! True to form, however, the busy person took time to reply in full. Lora is finishing 30 hours beyond her Master's. She reports that she has done this in two years at a cost of $52—a far cry from the cost of her Master's Degree. In July she and Leona are off on a tour of Europe. They have already done a good job of touring the U. S. and Canada. Lora taught Mary Lou Shannon Delaney's ('42) child in the 7th grade at Woodrow Wilson in Roanoke.

M is for Moss, Nancy Moss Wolbrinck, who is widowed and the mother of three children. She reports that her health is better and that son Charles graduated from vocational college in June. Daughter Martha is a sophomore at Emory in Atlanta, and Carol Ann is a junior at Tazewell High. Take care of yourself, Nancy, we are looking forward to seeing you in the spring.

N is for Newman, Kathryn Bageant. It could also stand for the newsy letterer she wrote. Proud Mama reported that daughter, Sherry Kay, graduated from NCWC in Rocky Mount, spent a mini-semester studying in Mexico City, and will marry an economics major graduate of NCWC who is from N. J. Both were on the Dean's List. Kathryn has been busy in little theater work, is an active sportswoman, and during the last few years has traveled in Spain, Italy, Mexico, and England. Her son has one child, and the Bageant's youngest, Debbie, will be in the 10th grade next year.

Virginia Oakes Trainor and her husband are at Fort Belvoir. They have three children. Virginia teaches 2nd grade in Gunston Elementary School. Their oldest daughter enters college this fall.

Frances Bland Pope Tillar lives in Emporia and is a housewife and dental assistant. Daughter Terry is married, and Kay will graduate from high school next year. Frances reports that Sudie Dunton Brothers also lives in Emporia and teaches in the high school.

The last P is Powell, our own Jane Johnson. She is teaching and looking forward to a fall wedding in her family. Tom, the youngest, will enter Hampden-Sydney in Sept. Powell plans to attend a community college, and Rob will be in second-year graduate school at UVA. Jane, we look forward to seeing you in the spring.

Jane Rosenberger Dralle's husband is in Federal Civil Service. They have lived on Guam for the past 15 years. She is in Winchester this summer. Jane teaches and they have two children. Her recent travels have taken her to Japan, Taiwan, and Thailand. It's so good to hear from you, Jane.

Myra Smith Ferguson wrote from Johnson City, Tenn., where she was attending graduation of Warner T. Jr., from East Tenn. State U. He was commissioned a 2nd Lt. in the Army and will report to Fort Lee. They had dinner with Sis Strong's Crockett and her doctor husband, Doug. Myra's youngest son, Steve, will enter VPI in the fall. Myra and Harriette Haskins Eubank ('41) plan to attend the wedding of Sudie Dunton Brothers' daughter in June. Sudie's son Rick is married and is attending MCV in Richmond, after having been graduated from VMI in June '68. Myra is a PE teacher and plans to work with ghetto children this summer.

Shirley Stephens Clausen writes from Piedmont, Cal. She is widowed and has three children. Edwin Jr. is to be married in August. Her community activities include establishment of resident homes for MR women under the sponsorship of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. They plan to do a similar thing for young men soon. In the summer of '68 Mary Mahone Grannis visited Shirley. She lives in Lake Forrest, Ill. Shirley frequently hears from Pattie Smith Kaylor ('41).

Having no X Y Z's, we conclude our alphabetical newsletter with W. How nice to hear from our beautiful May Queen, Lula Windham Hannaway. Lula lives in St. Louis where she teaches. She has two children and sends greetings to all. How about flying to Virginia this spring for our reunion, Lula?

Sylvia Dannaunt Allen of Woodbridge has been awarded our International Scholarship by Delta Kappa Gamma with which she will complete her doctorate at George Wash. Univ. Jean Watts Poe has received her Master's from Miami of Ohio Univ.

The writing of this letter was interrupted by a trip to Boston where I attended the 60th anniversary of the American Home Economics Association. Had a wonderful time.

Incidentally the mailing list is not entirely accurate. Let's shower Liz Jones with postal cards containing our correct addresses and zip codes. Encourage others to do the same thing.

It has been fun writing this letter. It has taken 30 years for my turn to come. Will look forward to writing again in 1999. In the meanwhile, see you at Founders Day in 1970.

Dear Forty-oners,

I hope this has been a good year for you all. News is not so plentiful because fewer of you wrote letters. Time and postage become problems when I have to write you first to ask for letters because the deadline for this newsletter approaches quickly and at a very busy time of year. Do write me whenever you and your family have an interesting experience or whenever you see one of our classmates.

In February Caralie Nelson Brown and I had an unexpected meeting at the Duke Social Studies Conference. She is teaching history and Latin in Raleigh. We talked fast and furiously to catch up on all that had happened since our class reunion in '66, and then the weatherman pulled a big surprise by keeping us snowbound in Durham for an extra day! Caralie's daughter, Nancy, is a classmate at Duke of Linda Burcher, who is Marie Allen Burcher's daughter.

Jean Moyer Scorgie writes that her Linda has had a rugged time in Vietnam with the Red Cross. She has been on duty at a hospital where the wounded from the fighting areas are first brought; so she has seen the real face of war. But she seems to feel that what she is doing is both necessary and important. Neil, Jean's son, is a freshman at the U. of Miami; his interest is marine biology. Robin is a sophomore at Ohio U., and Cathy is a senior in high school. Next year Jean and Don will have three in college! Jean had major surgery last year and had an enforced period of idleness which was difficult for her!

Boo Barham Sions and her family had a beach vacation during the summer; last Christmas they visited a ski resort. Boo claims she prefers to sleep late and catch up on her reading while the younger members of the family take part in the more active sports. Martha Smith White and her husband had a European vacation last year. Their second son, Allen, was graduated from high school in June and now is a student at Hampden-Sydney.

Anna George Dashiell's older daughter, Linda, was married last fall, and Anna was as pretty as her daughters. Sue the younger girl, is a student at East Carolina. Florence Lee Putnam, bless her, is a faithful correspondent. Her letter this time came from Hampton where she had been called because of the death of her father. Our sincerest sympathy, Florence.

The Putnams have added another 140 acres to their ranch; so their land is close to 2,000 acres now. James Lee is a senior in a five-year engineering program at Washington State U. He has a grant from ROTC Aero-Space program and a campus job made available to only three engineering students. Fred was graduated from high school in June, where during this past year he served as President of the student body. Julia, 16, is active in many school organizations. She is interested in a career in social work. Florence also had major surgery last year; so she stayed in Virginia a month last winter to rest and to visit with her family and friends. She saw Jack Cock Ferraro several times while she was here.

Dor Menefee MacCammond and her husband enjoyed a winter vacation in Florida (wouldn't we all?). They are still in Christiansburg where he is rector of the Episcopal Church. Dotty Rollins Pauly and her daughter, Maggi, were making the college circuit this past spring to help Maggi choose.

In April there was a state meeting of local Supervisors of Social Studies (there are only 12 of us in Va.) in Williamsburg; as I was leaving the final session, I found Martha W'belchel Plummer waiting for me. That's the kind of surprise that brings joy for many days! We had a leisurely lunch together and talked madly. Both her daughters are married now and live out of the state, but Martha looks for opportunities to visit her little grandson! Her husband has a very responsible position with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co.; so to help him relax whenever he can get a few hours off, they have built a vacation cottage on Gloucester Point.

Charlotte Avery is working on her Master's degree at William and Mary. She is dean of girls at one of our high schools in Portsmouth.

My work keeps me busy, and the Social Studies field is really in the thick of things now. I work with eighty-five teachers in nine junior and senior high schools, and my responsibilities range from curriculum to materials, from building design to in-service meetings, and from the problems of integration to those of innovative teaching. Do you remember Dr. Jarman's chapel talk on master teachers? I often wish that some of our new teachers could draw inspiration from that speech!

I have served on the State Board of Education's Professional Committee on Citizenship Education this year. It was an interesting and, I hope, beneficial approach to encourage all teachers to assume greater responsibility for improved teaching in this area.

A group of us attended the spring luncheon of the Norfolk-Portsmouth Alumnae Chapter to hear Dr. Willett, our President of Longwood, speak. All of us were most impressed both with the work he is doing and with the lines of communication he has opened with the students. I have known and worked with him for a number of years, and I feel that Longwood will prosper greatly under his leadership. Did you see Caralie in the picture of the inauguration?

Do help me out by sending in news regularly. All of us like to keep in touch and enjoy a really newsy letter.

'43 Anne Fitzgerald had a wonderful trip to New England and returned via the Poconos and Catskills, in Washington Irving territory; this, no doubt, gave her good material for her writing and art. Margaret Kitchin Gilliam married off her oldest daughter, Harriet, on Maggie's and Charles' 25th wedding anniversary. Son Charles, Jr., is a freshman at N. C. State, and youngest daughter is in 9th grade. Stella Scott Bosworth and her husband have just finished building a new home which Stella is all excited about. Oldest son, Chris, finished at Hampden-Sydney last June, and married the same month. He is now going to MCV, studying medicine. Jeb starts to Hampden-Sydney in Sept. Eliza is 14. Stella wrote that Jane Scott Webb is in Nigeria. Her husband is with USAID, and they expect to be home this summer for reassignment. Lucille Johnston is Asst. Elementary Principal of Delaware County Christian School in Newtown Square, Pa. (suburb of Philadelphia). Lucille had a trip to England in late May and early June. She keeps busy, contributing articles to "Christian Teacher." Evelyn Breedlove taught school 43 years and is now retired. She got her degree with our class, after attending summer school and taking correspondence courses through the years. She is very proud of her many children she taught, several of whom are ministers, principals, etc. After 21 years of teaching, Ada Claire Snyder Snyder finally decided to be a full-time housewife! Ada Claire has done some writing which has been published in "Washington Post" and in "Virginia Wildlife." Husband, Bill, is now Asst. Supt. of Schools in Warrenton. Ada Claire also offered to help edit this column next year. Thanks! Would you believe it—we finally heard from Mary "Fiddle" Haymes! She celebrates 25 years with DuPont this July. She is now living in Paoli, Pa., and spends every possible moment at her summer cottage about 40 miles from there where she says she "fishes, gardens, and listens to the trees grow!" Susie Moore Cieszko has big plans for a tour of Europe this June with husband, Ed. Sons Martin and Ned will take over for their dad while he is gone. Ned graduates from high school and plans to go to N. C. State to major in architecture. Leona Moomaw visited in Sarasota and Venice and didn't even know I lived here! Last summer she toured Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island. This summer she is heading for a tour of 11 countries in Europe. She hopes to visit her old roommate Dreama Waid Johnson in Italy. Winifred Wright Heron writes that they hated leaving Reno to move to Lawrence, Kansas, but now that they are happily situated in a 100-year-old house with a studio for Winifred, the adjustment has been made easier for them. Daughter, Holly, finishes at the Univ. of Cal. next year. Son, Jim, enters Antioch, in Ohio this summer, and 4-year-old Charlie keeps the family on its toes! Last summer Betty Youngberg Ortesen had a vacation in Europe. Sit down girls, because this is going to really "get" you! Betty will be a granama in Sept! Helen Lewis Bishop and her husband visited Betty in January. Betty also was in Sarasota in Feb. These girls! Pauline Smith Robinson is one of the first two resource teachers in the city of Baltimore since 1952 and loves it. The Hampton crowd had a wonderful reunion in Williamsburg this spring. Present were Sarah Wale Owen, Cynthia James Riddick, Betty Harper Wyatt, Jerry Smith Shawen and Lilly Bec Gray Zehmer. These girls from Hampton met Shirley Turner Van Landingham, Frances Parham Jeanes, Agnes Patterson Kelly, Dot Childress Hill from Petersburg, and they all got together with Lucy Davis Gunn who gave them a guided tour of her two wonderful shops. It sounds exciting! Anne Rogers Stark has a nice, quiet, "tensionless" place in which to work—Christopher Newport College Library, which is a branch of William and Mary. That place will probably be flooded with applications for employment! Anne visited with Alice Seebert Godwin when she brought her daughter to William and Mary. Anne writes that Dearing Fannileory Johnston's husband has opened a brick plant in Salisbury, N. C. Our sympathy goes out to Ann who lost her mother in April. Edna Brown Lupton's Jan will be a Jr. at the Univ. of New Mexico next year, and Jennifer will be a Sr. in high school. Edna said when my letter came, she and husband "Sandy" got out the annual and refreshed their memories of "STC" days. Another one went through Sarasota in March—Frances Mallory Miller; Richard Palmer Van Doren was with her. They were visiting islands around this part of the country. Frances says that with both children gone, she has joined "the needlepoint and hospital volunteer group." Daughter, Sue, finishes her Jr. year at Vassar and son, Skipper, finishes his first year at Albany Medical College. Anne Covington Fulghum is very happy, and has every right to be, over the safe return of her son from Vietnam. He served as a line medic with the 1st Infantry Air Fighter Group for a year. He is in college now and making straight A's. We are all happy for you, Anne. Betty Bouchard MacIntire writes that they are trying to start a Longwood Alumnae Chapter in Atlanta. Betty wrote also that Anne Ware Smith died in October. Sarah Wade Owen visited with Betty last summer. Ella Marsh Pilkinton Adams' daughter, Sally, is a debutante in Atlanta. Sally goes to the U. of S. C. Lucy Davis Gunn and Betty Harper (Harpo) Wyatt see each other often in Williamsburg. From other reports, Lucy is "sold" on Williamsburg. Heard through Shirley Turner Van Landingham that Frances Parham Jeanes had a wedding in the family last Oct. when daughter, Fran, was married. Shirley also wrote that Mary Stuart Wamsley Hinson is a principal in Fairfax and that she ran into Helen Wiley Hardy Wheat in Richmond in March at a Conservation Meeting for Garden Clubs of Va. She saw Sarah Massie Goode Gregory at G.C.Va. annual meeting in Norfolk in May and says she gets better looking every year. What's your secret, Sarah Massie? Shirley says she just "worries with 3 big sons and their education." Alice Belote Carling's oldest daughter, Sharon, is now a Longwood graduate! Youngest daughter, Susan, was valedictorian in her high school graduation in June. Son, E. P., will complete his first year at V.P.I. Alice and family are planning a trip to Bermuda. "Adding a room project" was a family affair for Brookie Benton Dickerman and family last summer. It progressed so slowly that they had time to enjoy each stage. Brookie and Alice Seebert Godwin plan to get together in June in Lexington. They have two years to catch up on. Brookie also writes that "Bee" Reid Paradis will be coming to Staunton some time in August. "Bee" and family live in London now. Anne, 41/2, and William, 9, keep Brookie from getting bored. Ellen Hudgins Stephenson's daughter, Julia, has just completed her first year at Longwood, and Ellen writes that it has been like a "sentimental journey" for her every time she has gone back—that the floors even squeak in the same places! Her younger two are busy with high school doings; husband, Edgar, stays busy with his insurance agency, and Ellen stays busy trying to coordinate for the family! Catherine Gorney Moore has moved to Rock Island, Ill., where the family is living in husband's, Larry's "bachelor" apartment until they have a new house built in Davenport, Iowa. They are looking forward to moving into their new home which will keep her busy for several years. Larry is quite a rifle champion, and in August they will go to Ottawa, Canada, where he will shoot on the U. S. team in the Palma Match. We all remember Mrs. McCoy, mother of Elizabeth, who was in the Home Dept. of Longwood. Word from Elizabeth informs us that her mother died in April. Mrs. McCoy broke her hip in Jan. and was hospitalized until March. We all share your sorrow, Elizabeth.

Children of Catherine Bickle Hankla, '48.

Elizabeth is teaching in Monterey Elementary School and, in addition, is teaching two handicapped children in their homes. She finds this a most rewarding work. As for me, I am still in the Gulf, up to my neck at every opportunity. My vacation will be a trip to Maine in July. It was grand hearing from those of you who wrote. Just wish more of you had written though so that we could keep in touch with all of you.

Thank you so much for your wonderful letters.

From Glasgow, Scotland, comes news of Margaret Pattie, who is teaching and serves on the Western District Primary Committee of Educational Institute of Scotland. Last summer, she and three friends rented what had been a shepherd's cottage near Kyle of Lochalsh in N.W. Scotland. "The scenery there is really beautiful and the weather was lovely." This summer she and her mother plan to spend two weeks in a coastal village in S.W. Scotland, and then Margaret and a friend will go to Germany for three weeks. She likes Germany very much and goes there almost every year. During the winter she attends classes in German; this makes a visit to Germany more interesting and enjoyable.

Mary Ellen Hoge Sale writes from Virginia Beach that her daughter, Frances, will graduate from Longwood next March. Madeline, who will graduate from high school in June, plans to be married August 30; and Mary Ellen says the sewing room is full of materials for wedding gown, bridesmaids' dresses, etc. Bill will be a sophomore in high school next fall. Since the family is scattering, Mary Ellen and her husband, Bill, plan to sell their home and move into something smaller.

Louisa Dawson Smucker, of Flint, Mich., husband, John, Anne and Philip, 9 and 7, plan to attend Camp Alleghany during the June-July session. John will be the Chaplain; Philip and Louisa, "Jack-of-all-Trades"; and Anne, a camper. They hope to see Kitty Maddox Thomas whose daughter goes there. John is no longer an active clergyman, but has a position with a United Fund agency working with the deaf.

Page Cook Axson and family moved into their new home in Chesapeake, just before Christmas, and Page is delighted to be settled once more. Kathy, 17, is a cheerleader in high school and is active in school activities. Peter is 14 and Elizabeth, 12. One of the highlights of the year for the Axsons was attending the inaugural of President Willett at Longwood. Page said she has never been more proud of Longwood and its young ladies. In an ungraded school, which opened in 1967, she teaches Language Arts and Humanities to two different groups of pupils.

Mary Anne Loving Arbo writes from Honolulu that she has been on the move the past two years and will soon move again. Last year she lived in Rome while Paul was in the Mediterranean with his Destroyer Squadron. She took the children and put them in school there. They went to Honolulu last June when Paul was ordered to Saigon for a one-year, unaccompanied tour as Senior Advisor to the Vietnamese Navy. He will be through this June, and they will return to Washington for duty and living together once again. Their daughter, Mindy, graduates from high school this year and will enter Pembroke College (Woman's Div. of Brown Univ.) in Sept. Their son, Kit, who is 16, has two more years in high school.

Nancy Courter Bradshaw's daughter, Betty, is at Averett, in Danville, and son, Courter, is in college in Richmond. Betty plans to transfer to Longwood next year. "Mike" Shiblett Toomes writes from her ranch in Burns, Col., that her sons are now 14, 12, and 11. They ride 40 miles, one way, to school each day. "Mike" plans to fly to Va. in June to attend her niece's wedding. She taught five pupils—the first four grades—this past year. She and her family drove to Oak Ridge, Tenn., for Christmas in 1968 and got caught in a blizzard; this was quite an experience. Ruby Keeton, who lives in Victoria, is fine.

Virginia Lee Price Perrow of River Edge, N. J., is active in church work, Woman's Club, and P.T.A. Joey plans to enter Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pa., this fall and hopes to play soccer there. Virginia was in Roanoke twice this past year and both times had lunch with Mary Spradlin and Lois Lloyd Sheppard Lewis.

Mary Virginia Walker March writes that she and her family plan to move to their new home, located about one mile out of Suffolk, in June. She sees Margie Hewlett Moore several times a week and Shirley Cruser White whenever she goes to Norfolk. Margie's oldest daughter finishes high school this year. Last summer Mary Virginia saw Minnie Lee Crumpler Burger who looked as if she had just stepped out of a fashion magazine.

Virginia Treakle Marshburn and family moved from Hyattsville, Md., to Dillwyn when Earl accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist Church there. During the school year, Virginia taught a 5/6 combination at the Buckingham Elementary School. Sallie was a ninth grader during this term, and Marsha, a fifth grader. Virginia attended Founders Day at Longwood this year and saw many old friends. Ellen Bailey spent the weekend with her, and they had a marvelous time catching up on news of the past 16 years. Ellen is a Professor of Education at Bridgewater College.

Evelyn Grizzard Graybeal writes from Wilmington, Del., that she joined the Junior Board of Memorial Hospital last fall as a provisional member and has spent many hours since Nov., 1968, working there as a volunteer. Her daughter, Carolyn, is going to Smith College in Northampton, Mass., in Sept. David will be a senior at Friends School this fall. He is going to England and Scotland this summer for eight weeks on a study program sponsored by Friends School. Carolyn spent her junior year as an exchange student in Berlin and really enjoyed and appreciated Friends School during her senior year. Evelyn and Rosa Hill Yonce had a nice visit last summer when Rosa and her family were in Wilmington. Evelyn says Rosa's children are handsome.

Julie Messick Hurt of Richmond enjoyed some substitute teaching this past year at J. B. Fisher Elementary School. She said this was quite a challenge since her "field" had been Medical Technology. This past spring, while passing through Farmville, she saw Mr. "Mac" and Mr. Graham and enjoyed chatting with them.

Jean Anderson Clayton continues teaching English at Smithfield High School. Her oldest daughter is a junior and is planning to attend Longwood. She will be a representative to Girls State at Radford College this summer and was chosen "Miss Smithfield High School" at the beauty pageant this spring. Jean's other daughter is a freshman. Jean has joined the newly organized Alumnae Chapter in Isle of Wight County and attended a tea for prospective Longwood girls in the spring.

Lois Lloyd Sheppard Lewis of Salem writes that she is busier than ever with school activities and church work. She is also President of Friendship Garden Club this year. David will be a 10th grader at Andrew Lewis High this fall, and Betsy Anne will go to Salem Intermediate as a 7th grader. Lois sees Virginia Price Perrow once or twice a year.

Sister Maria Jude (Regina Portinaro), who is principal of Cathedral Central High School in Richmond, will be studying Biology-Chemistry in Maryland on an NSF grant this summer. She sends her best to all the class.

Nancy Broughman Terry and family are very happy in their new home in Memphis, Tenn. She has been busy this year with gardening, P.T.A., golf, and trips with her husband. While in N. Y. last fall, she and

Lyn, John, Susan,
children of Betty Romeo Wingfield, '49.

Miss Virginia Bedford, department chairman, teaches crafts, ceramics, and enamels. Here she presents some pottery examples for student examination.

Longwood's Department Of Art

For the second time in its history, the Longwood Department of Art will be housed under one roof with the completion of the Fine Arts complex in 1970. Its "one room" beginning (second floor Ruffner) was with the appointment of Miss Martha Coulling as Instructor of Drawing in 1887. Miss Coulling was granted a leave in partment sponsored. The Committee for the Purchase of Work by Virginia Artists. I mention this because it affords an annual invitational show by a Virginia artist from which a purchase is made as a permanent college possession. Mrs. Janice Lemen of the art staff has been chairman of this committee since its beginning. These works of art are used in all buildings that all college students and staff may enjoy them. A mosaic mural as one of these purchases will be installed in the new Fine Arts building foyer.

Continued study by all Longwood staff is encouraged. Many art staff members have studied in the states and three have studied in other countries. One member is now completing work toward a Degree in Art Education at Teachers College of Columbia University. Only one staff member is a graduate of Longwood's Art Department. The present staff include:

Miss Virginia Bedford, Prof. of Art and Dept. Chairman, appointed 1928

Mrs. Janice Lemen, Assoc. Prof. of Art, appointed 1944

Miss Annie Lee Ross, Assoc. Prof. of Art, appointed 1950

Miss Nancy Leitch, Assoc. Prof. of Art, appointed 1961

Miss Barbara Bishop, Assoc. Prof. of Art, appointed 1965

Mr. Walter Hathaway, Asst. Prof. of Art, appointed 1966

Mr. Paul Rouillard, Instructor of Art, appointed 1967

Mr. Homer Springer, Instructor of Art, appointed 1969

Let's look back to a modest beginning in 1887 with the idea that "all young ladies should have an opportunity to be involved in the Arts" as a part of undergraduate study with Miss Martha Coulling as instructor. That beginning grew with each year of her service and continues to grow with vitalized curricula, added enrollment, added facilities and staff to a recognition of art as the necessary part of all education.

ARTIST

It takes many long painstaking hours to create an impressionistic painting, as June Elder Reynolds, '54 well knows. Sometimes even the family cat wants to know how things are coming and must be held up for a closer look. June and her family live in Bremerton, Wash.

Painting is a rewarding and productive hobby for a Navy wife. Long absences by sea-going husbands create many lonely hours. June Elder Reynolds, '54 has sold over thirty paintings and has high hopes for further sales as a result of her one-man show.

AND DESIGNER WIN ACCLAIM

The Atlanta Chapter of Longwood Alumnae are so proud of one of its members, Elizabeth Tennent Gilliam, Class of 1944. In speaking with Liz's husband about her work and contributions, Mr. Gilliam very proudly remarked, "She puts her whole heart into it—she's a perfectionist." Coupled with this sense of perfection, this Longwood Alumna has outstanding skills as writer of children's literature and as a fashion designer.

Although she has been writing for some time, as of now she has nothing published in book form, but her success in writing is obvious by the demands placed upon her by civic groups. In 1967, Liz wrote "The Story of the Nutcracker" for the Christmas presentation by the Atlanta Civic Ballet. This piece rated much newspaper publicity for the civic group and greater enjoyment for Atlanta's youth who learned the story of the nutcracker. Most commendable was Liz's ability to publicize the contributions of every participant in the production of The Nutcracker Suite—from backstage hand to main characters. Her creativity and flair for writing have made her indispensable to other civic groups needing just "the right public relations" person. She served as publicity director for the Atlanta Opera of the Atlanta Municipal Theater and was responsible for the public relations work for this year's Atlanta International Film Festival.

Despite the apparent pleasure and sweet success she tasted from the publicity work, Liz's real love is fashion designing of the high fashion children's clothing type. As a housewife this talent certainly paid off, as she designed and made her own children's clothing. So "in" and "high fashion" were the styles, designs, and fabric selections that she was given display area in one of Atlanta's exclusive clothing shops. She could meet only a limited number of the orders received due to the items being handmade.

The Atlanta Journal gave her full-page special feature coverage for the excellence of her work and originality. Very soon thereafter Liz and her children appeared on the Don Barber daytime television variety show, where again she presented her designs and had her daughter and son model special selections. The intelligence and creativity displayed attracted widespread attention here and she was made an elaborate business offer in fashion designing, production, and marketing. At this time Liz has not proceeded with the business world opportunity, but she has definitely proven to us that she is a distinguished alumna.

Her husband, an Aetna Life Insurance Company agent, and Eliza and Archer know she's distinguished because she's his wife and their mother.

Ed enjoyed seeing Virginia Price Perrow. Nancy's son, Randy, will be a freshman at V.P.I. this fall.

I received a telephone call from Madie Hunter Armstrong, who lives in Richmond. She will attend Virginia Commonwealth Univ. this summer in order to upgrade her Certificate. She plans to go into special education and work with children who have specific learning disabilities. Madie has a son who will enter the U. of Va. this fall.

I am sure Frances Lee Stoneburner is quite busy these days, as "Mopsy" is getting married in June. Carl and I are so disappointed that we shall be unable to attend. His mother and father are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary on the same day.

Carl saw Lillian Elliott Bondurant's son, Tommy, the other day, and Tommy will be a counselor at Camp Virginia in Goshen this summer. He will be a Jr. at U. of Richmond this fall. Carl and I are looking forward to spending a week with Poague Massey Ellis ('45x) and her family at Nags Head in August.

Thanks again for your letters. Looking forward to hearing from you next year.

It was so much fun receiving your interesting letters. I haven't looked forward, so eagerly, to the coming of the mail since our freshman year and "Maudie K." Will you ever forget how terrified we were of her?

Jane Burchett Womack, who still lives in Suffolk, wrote that she was in the process of getting daughter, Betty, 11, and son, Clay, 10, ready for a trip to Tallahassee, Fla., to see twin sister Betty Burchett Almarode, who has a daughter Jane, 14, and a son Ricky, 12. Jane says her children will be busy this summer with tennis and swimming and tournaments in both sports. Jane's husband is a Trust Officer with the United Virginia Bank and is a Col. in the Army Reserve. Betty's husband still travels to exciting places like New Orleans, Canada, and Hawaii; sometimes Betty goes along, too. I would love to see those two again and enjoy a few good laughs with them. Wouldn't you?

Marian Gynn Varn writes that she married a Petersburg boy in '48, Bill Varn, and they have three children: a daughter 19, at the U. of Fla., and a boy in high school, and another in Jr. High. She sees her roommate, Lottie Hammock, who lives nearby and also "Charlie Hop" who meets with a group of alumnae for lunch.

Jackie Seymore Carter and her husband are both in education in Hampton. Jackie is a certified librarian and her husband, a principal. Their daughter, Gale, has another year in Junior High. Mildred Jones Griffith was Elementary Supervisor in Richmond and in Westmoreland County School Division for 9 years, after graduating from Longwood.

(Please note I didn't say STC; That dates you!) In 1957 she resigned to be at home with a sick husband. They are living in Kinsale, Va., Rt. 1.

"Peepsie" Brooks Howard and Johnny still live in Alexandria where he is Vice-President of the United Virginia First and Citizens National Bank. They have a 16-year-old son, John, who was "the tow" for his football team last fall, and a thirteen-year old, Bill, who played in the Va. State Junior Golf Championship last summer. As you can judge, Peepsie and Johnny spend a good deal of time among the spectators. Now for some real exciting news! "Hoor," Nancy Chambers Lair was married last year to a Ph.D. from Indiana Univ. They spent this last year in Europe where John did some research in Scandinavia, and "Hoor" visited book dealers in Northern Europe and England. Best wishes to you both!

Mary Lu Graham Page and Jim have four daughters of whom they are justly proud. Ellen, 20, is a junior, majoring in ballet at Tex.; Lucile, 18, graduated from Stuart Hall this spring and will go to Sophie Newcomb in New Orleans in the fall. Jane, 14, is in the Jr. Honor Society, takes piano and dancing, and sings in the school glee club and church choir. Then Sarah, 9, is an "A" student taking piano and dancing lessons. They live in Mt. Hope, W. Va., where Jim is Vice-Pres. of the New River Co. and Wind-ing Gulf Co.

Catherine Bickle Hankla and husband run a fabric shop in Staunton and have two little girls, Catty, 5, and Staley, 2. Hope Frank sounds as though she lives the "life of Riley!" She has built herself a new house in Cleveland, Tenn. From the sound of things, she has traveled up and down the east coast from one end to the other. Her title is Director of Home Economics and Consumer Relations.

Harriet Purcell Garnett is teaching Home Economics in the same school in which her husband, Lee, is Guidance Director. They have two boys. Ross, Jr., a junior in high school, and Lee, a pre-freshman. They enjoy their summer vacations at Myrtle Beach. Our hearts go out to Martha Anderson Rollings who lost her husband in Feb. She is teaching English and Spanish at Waverly High School. She received her Master's degree from William and Mary in '67. Congratulations, Martha! Her daughter, Faye, is in the 10th grade at Surry Academy, and their address is Dendron.

Millie McWilliams Hayes and William live in Newport News, and she has taken up the interesting hobby of archeology. She has been digging at an 18th century site and has turned up some buttons, clay pipes, dishes, etc. No hidden treasures yet! They have two children, Paige and Clairborne.

Katherine Whitmore Wray lives in Mc-Kenney where her husband Mac works with the button factory. Nancy Foscoe Hamner is still as cute and vivacious as ever. Doug, her husband, has a big title job in the Governor's office. He is director of the administration of the capital outlay budget for the Governor. He says the salary is not so "lengthy" as the title!

I see Joyce Hill Goodloe often since we live near each other, go to the same church, and have children the same ages, and are good friends. Our husbands have been best friends all their lives; so that makes it nice, too. Jack, her husband, has done well in the insurance world and is now Senior Warden of St. John's Episcopal Church. They have four most attractive children. This spring, they had a grand trip to an Insurance convention in Puerto Rico.

I saw Elizabeth Jeffreys Hubard and William at a W. & L. Alumni Dance, and they are both just fine. William is the new General Counsel of the Shenandoah Life Insurance Co. They have four little "tow heads" who were all beautiful the last time I saw them in Roanoke.

I was so pleasantly surprised and pleased to run into Anne Homer Brussels at a bridge party. She is as pretty and young as ever and is really enjoying the role of wife and mother. She lives in Richmond. I might add, she plays a good game of bridge, too.

Someone else I've enjoyed seeing fairly frequently is Norma Soyars Watkins, and her husband, Billy. They live in Farmville where Billy is Commonwealth's Attorney. They are so wonderful to us when we go up to Hampden-Sydney Homcomings and functions at Longwood.

Frankie Bell Prichett and family of Petersburg enjoy their cottage on the James River in the summer. Daughter Alice is a Jr. at R-MWC. Irving, III is a freshman at Hampden-Sydney, and son Lanford is a Sr. at Petersburg High. All three children are outstanding.

My Ernest is Circuit Court Judge in Chesterfield. During the annexation trial with Richmond he has been assigned to the courts of Bath, Botetourt, Craig, Clifton Forge, and Covington. I'm going with him for a week while my mother and daddy take care of our six children, ranging from 4 to 16. I plan to visit with some old S.T.C. oops! I mean Longwood friends—Betty Stoner Holt whose husband is Clerk of the Court in Botetourt at Fincastle and Polly Caldwell ('49) Driscoll in Covington and with anybody else I can scrape up. I have a sister in Eagle Rock, too, so I'm really looking forward to the trip.

Thanks for your grand letters.

Dear Friends,

Did you ever think it would come?? Our 20th reunion! Seems to me we used to do a little laughing about all the old timers whom we thought were "original founders!" Well, I just hope we'll all be right there together in Farmville for this momentous occasion this spring. Cab Overbey Goodman wrote to remind all to get their wheelchairs oiled, crutches tuned, etc.

Lots of news from all you busy girls—Suzie Bowie Brooks' two boys are at boarding school at Christ Church, the two girls at school in Williamsburg. Lots of teenage happenings in their home specially at holiday times. Robbie Cromar Rilee's daughter, Robb, is a student at Longwood.

Ruth Hathaway Garrison is teaching Jr. and Sr. High School Art in Chesapeake. Her daughter, Pamela, age 16 and a sophomore honor student, attended a 6 week summer program at University of Durham, England under auspices of the American Institute For Foreign Study. Ruth's husband, Jack, works for school system with Teaching Materials Center.

Shirley Hillstead Lorraine's daughter, Catherine, had been a student at Mary Washington College and was married this summer. Beth is a senior in high school; Martha is 14, and Kemp is 13. Kemper bought a farm and he enjoys working on it along with his store.

Janice Slavin Hagan's husband, Bob, is a Marine Engineer with Navy Dept. in Washington, D. C. Janice teaches typing one night a week at West Springfield High, is on P. T. A. Board and is a reporter for Rolling Valley Civic Assoc. Diane is 16, Jim 11 and plays trumpet in 2 bands, takes guitar lessons, and wins trophies in swim meets. John is in kindergarten.

Had Christmas cards from Tootie Buck Muse from Timonium, Md., Pat Davis Gray from Norfolk, Betty Lewis Shank Eubank from Roanoke and from Cab Overbey Goodman from Richmond. She has taken up the trampoline as a sport and has a student teacher from Longwood. Cab's baby is 2 already.

Lizzie Bragg Crafts writes faithfully from Falls Church, where she is busy with Cadet Scout troop and lots of other activities. Her daughter, Lynn, broke her left arm trying out for school basketball team. Hilda Edwards Tall and family have been stationed in Naples, Italy for over a year, and enjoying their tour very much.

Carrie Ann O'Laughlin had a trip to Ireland a year ago. She's busy as a school librarian in Miami, Florida. Katie Bondurant Carpenter had trips to Jamaica and Puerto Rico with Jim on business. She visited Suzie Bowie Brooks in Williamsburg and was in charge of Republican Headquarters in their county (Elliot City, Md.).

Harriet Ratchford Schach's daughters love ice skating, riding and ballet. Bill and Ratch vacation in St. Croix in Feb. and she goes to New York City occasionally.

Jane Williams Chambliss came from her home in Beaumont, Texas to visit old Norfolk friend, Frances Dodson White and Lelia Mae Perrett Leggett. Janie Richards Markson's 3 boys are growing up. She's Pres. of the Baltimore Alumnae Chapter and sees Katie, Harriet, and Judy Hughes Reynolds at meetings. Also chatted with Ann Nichols Wesler on phone.

Troxie Harding has 2 high school age sons and Ricky is in first grade. Troxie is working in Guidance Dept. Jane Hunt Gabelin Lindley went to Mexico for a vacation to visit Don's family. Hope she can come back from Crown Point, Indiana for our reunion. Oot Newell Phillips had 8 stitches in her forehead to show for trying to learn to play golf! So she gave it up. Busy running to baseball and football practices and games with son, Peyton. Oot saw Marjorie Boswice Michael at a party at Langley Field.

Eccie Rippon Ayres' children are Roy, Sarah and baby Thomas. Peggy White Crooks and Tom went to Hampden-Sydney to a football game, met our new Longwood President and various Deans, thought the town had changed a lot in 20 years. Haven't we all? Charlotte Flaughner Eddy's girls always dance in The Nutcracker Suite throughout the holiday season in Washington, D. C. Her husband, Bill, had been ill but was feeling fine the last I heard.

Card from Nancy Lee Maddox Carrington from Lynchburg. Anna Nock Flanigan, Joe and children spend holidays on their boat. They enjoy Ft. Lauderdale and Anna says Coleen Agee Rixey '47X and Bill live there also.

Shorty Long Eddy has a position as Head of the Claims and Customer Relations at The Carolina Soap and Candle Makers in Southern Pines, N. C. now that her boys have grown up.

Juanita Weeks Handy teaches The Pioneer Girls Youth Craft group at church in California. Their family took their annual snow trip to Yosemite. Norm reaches 7th and 8th grade Science as part of a team teaching group. Juanita got a new bike for her birthday and uses it more than the car for shopping. Norm bikes to school 4 miles most every day. They took a several weeks trailer trip to Oregon.

Mary Jean Miller is living at her mother's home in Washington, D. C. and is teaching at Gonzaga High School for boys. She plans to attend our reunion.

Am writing later than usual so we've already had our first snow. The children all took ski lessons last year so they are anxious to get started again. They all swim, play guitar, love all sorts of art lessons, etc. I'm the chief carpool arranger around as usually half the crowd is mine. I'm on P. T. A. Board again, Program Consultant, Troop Organizer and Unit Chairman for Girl Scouts, Hospitality Chairman for AAUW, active in church, faculty wives groups, etc. I go to New York City four times a year alone for a week to get my fill of culture in the form of museums, theater, etc. Saw "1776," "Plaza Suite" and "Forty Carats" in the fall. We go to the beach in N. J. in the summer and take advantage of all the New York state activities, Saratoga, Lake George, etc., very near us.

Hope to see you and you and, yes, even you at Longwood on March 21, 1970. Hope you girls who started off with us and left early for various reasons will join us for sure.

Rosemary Henry Thomas and family love the beaches of Florida; husband Ray, is aircraft maintenance staff officer stationed at McCoy AFB. Their new son, Charles Jonathan, was born in May.

Greetings, Classmates of 1951! Another year has gone by. It's hard to believe; but I fear that age is catching up with us, judging by the way time seems to fly. Anyway, it's always good to hear from classmates, and I'll pass on to you what news I have.

Mary Crowder White wrote that she has given up everything except trying to be an authority on teaching 5th grade. Mary attended the VEA convention in the fall and was disappointed not to see anyone from our class there. Helen Agnew Koonce wrote that her family had been busy with the usual family things. Helen says she and Arnold are trying to survive the teen-age syndrome and a three-year-old at the same time. Guess many of us feel like saying "you have our sympathy."

Frances Everett Brown wrote me a note with interesting news. Frances and her husband, Web, and the children, along with Jean Anderson Smith '50 and her family, spent a week at Sandbridge Beach. They visited with Catherine Stevens Chalk and Betty Baker Rhyne in Norfolk. Catherine has a lovely home and plans to build another on the water. She teaches English at Norview High and looks great. Betty has two daughters, 13 and 12, and teaches Spanish at Churchland High in Portsmouth. She went to Mexico City in August to attend a workshop in Spanish. Fran also heard from Dot Dunford who said she is studying this summer to prepare for a humanities program to be offered at her school in Chesterfield this coming year. She worked on the Fund Appeal, also. Shirley Bloxton wrote Dot that she has a new job, starting this July (1969), as assistant principal for curriculum and instruction at Norview High in Norfolk.

I was so delighted to receive a card with a note from Virginia Westbrook Kobeckis. Westbrook was remarried in May (1968) and is so very happy. Know we all join in best wishes to both of them. Jean Carter Watkins Saunders wrote that she and her family had a grand sightseeing trip to Fla. the summer of 1968. Enjoyed hearing from Betty McRee Hodges. She and Ralph have children ranging from 15 years to 10-months old. She said the baby has been spoiled by the other children.

Had cards from Fran Minter Whyte, Iris Sutphin Wall, and Ann Kemp DesPortes. No special news, but it's always good to hear from them. Fran, Bob, Laurie, and Robbie are living in Wilmington, Del.; Iris, Bill, Steve, and Bid live in Farmville, and Ann and Bill-Bill are living in Sarasota, Fla.

Hope that all of you will start thinking positively of our next reunion in 1972. Some of us were disappointed last time not only in the number that came, but what days we were going to be there and the fact that we really had no special place for our class to meet and talk. Before the next one, let's really do some advance planning and corresponding to see whether all of us can't be there for the same night. We could get a special place where we could have a real 1951 class reunion.

The past year has been good to my family. We are all well and enjoy an occasional trip for a medical meeting or to Suffolk or to Roy's home in Michigan. Can hardly believe that in Sept. our youngest will be going into the 6th grade.

You know my usual request—let me hear from each of you so that I may pass on to other class members the news of what you are doing. Have a Happy Christmas and New Year!

Kanner and family, of Madison, Wis., with friends spent Christmas on an 80-ft. sailing vessel in and around Nassau. The crew included 2 native Britishers; "Charlie, the cook"; and Capt. Roberts to steer. A highlight of the trip was time spent mousing around on rugged coral, searching for different species of snails. During spring vacation they flew to Miami and then to a cottage at Sugar Loaf Key. Shrimp boats, pelicans, Everglades National Park and the Nature Trail occupied her family's time, husband Al; Sue, 10; Jim, 9; Steven, 7; and Jeff, 4. A small sailboat, a bat, canoe, swimming team, Little League, piano and violin lessons keep everyone busy other times. She is planning to attend our 20th reunion in '72. How about the rest of you?

Betty Barnes Lampert teaches kindergarten in Norfolk. Her girls, Paula, 14, and Patty, 12, are active in Job's Daughters and attended the Grand meeting in Hampton last June. Their son, Ralph, 8, went to a Basketball Camp in South Hill. They enjoy boating and fishing in the Chesapeake Bay and are proud owners of a smart little dog, "Charlie Brown", who sings "Hot Cross Buns" and plays on the toy piano! May Henry Sadler Midgett writes that Frances Turner Widgeon and Johnny paid them a surprise visit during the winter. "B.B." Wilson Thompson's husband Bill was assigned to the Staff College in Norfolk part of last year; so May Henry and "B.B." practically lived together. Bill is stationed in Korea now; "B.B." and children, Billy, 10, and Beth, 12, are staying with "B.B.'s" mother in Farmville. A year ago Anne Moseley Akers, May Henry, Frances Thomas Pairet, and I met together at Alumnae Fall Council. Peggy Harris Ames continues to teach 6th grade in Norfolk and is active in Norfolk Alumnae work.

Romine Mahood Overbey and Bill live in Berryville where Romine is a librarian and Bill is director of instruction in Clarke County. Their daughter, Susan, is adorable and a freshman in high school. Shirley Livesay Armstrong and Phil live in Springfield where Phil is a counselor in the Fairfax School System. Shirley stays close to home, except for enjoying swimming. They have six children: Mark, 7; Barbara, 6; Teresa, 4; Paul, 3; Peter, 2; Patricia Anne, 6 months, also 2 dachshunds. Shirley is surely the busiest of us all. Betty Scott Borkey Banks has been busy as a P.T.A. President and is now on the Greensboro Council of Garden Clubs. She and family enjoyed some camping last summer. Chincoteague High School claims Sue Nelson Matthews as one of her finest teachers. Lisa, 15, and Eddie, 11, keep her and Ed busy with Glee Club, Little League, cheerleading, and mostly chauffeuring. They took a New England vacation last summer.

Elizabeth Rush Stumps leads an eventful and serviceable life. She received her M.A. in history from Longwood in June and was awarded a fellowship in the Humanities to attend the U. of Va. last summer. She is active in the VEA and a member of the executive board of the Geography Dept. in Chase City. Her family, husband and four girls, ages 8 to 18, are quite proud of her. Carrie B. Fitzgerald built a house in Buckingham in 1953, retired from teaching in 1962, but entered a busier career of knitting, crocheting, sewing, and doing numerous other things. She had a back injury in 1967 but, with a back brace, has resumed a normal life. That's what I call real spunk. Good luck, Carrie! Shirley Grogan Duncan writes that the Danville crowd get together often; Lucy Jane Perkins Angle and Millie Bright Hatcher. Shirley teaches the 6th grade and keeps busy with daughter Robin's activities, husband Fred's schooling at the Danville Community College, and the Garden Club. She received the honor last year of being initiated into Delta Kappa Gamma. Her family spent a fun summer of camping.

Another very busy class member is Flora Balloue de Hart. She served as President of the Louisburg College Woman's Club, completed a 2-yr. term as President of the Franklin Memorial Hospital Guild, was initiated into Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, was Chairman of Spiritual Life in the W.S.C.S. of the Methodist Church, and a member of the League of Women Voters. Last spring they had hundreds of visitors on their nature trail which has about 250 species of plants and a small lake. She and Allen took off to the Barter Theatre and did sightseeing in the Boone-Linville area of N. C. They also enjoy a beach cottage at Surf City, N. C. Flora attended a conference at Merrymont College in Alexandria in August, sponsored by the Regional Educational Laboratory. She is now teaching 2 experimental sections in English. I enjoyed seeing Flora at Dr. Willett's inaugural last fall when she represented Louisburg College in the academic procession. Ran into Ann Harding Hodges and oldest daughter, touring Longwood.

Richmond claims many of our girls doing various and exciting activities. Ann Neblett Grimsley has taken up tennis; Elsie Baker Tokarz teaches 1st grade at St. Edwards school, and her family had a nice trip to New York; Sara Lu Bradshaw Chenery is a great golfer, and her husband is principal of the new Watkins Elementary School; Mary Moore Karr Borkey has enjoyed teaching a special education class at Chamberlayne Elementary and spent a pleasant time at Virginia Beach last summer; Margaret Thomas Mayo is busy with Woman's Committee of Richmond Symphony and with many other civic activities. She did an outstanding job with Longwood's Fund Drive; Maria Jackson Hall has been busy with her 2 daughters, 1 and 4, he and Virginia spent their vacation in Cincinnati and Virginia Beach; Vera Marie Bryant Williams and husband, Bill, have recently moved to Richmond from Fla. Bill is in the Trust Dept. of First and Merchants Bank, and Vera stays busy watching 3-yr.-old daughter. Welcome to Richmond, Vera! Chris Davis Grizzard and Dot Gregory Morrison live near each other in Richmond; they worked hard on the fund drive, also. Chris enjoys her two girls, 11 and 6; husband, Tom, went back to school last summer at U. of Richmond. Gay Power Mitchell stays at home in Mechanicsville with two pre-schoolers; her husband teaches at Lee Davis High School. Gay has seen Joyce Humphreys Harris at East-Gate Shopping Center. Frances Ann Ramsey Hunter and Bill have a son who is interested in sports, and a daughter, 3. They live in Appomattox. Peggy Wilson Samson and T. J. have a big old farm and horses in Miskimon. They both enjoy teaching. Bootie Parch is in Ky, working on her Masters. Mary Crawford Andrews was visiting her sister in Richmond last Christmas, and Jane called us all over for a great visit with Mary, Maria, Helen Tanner ('53), Margaret Thomas Mayo, Anne Neblett Grimsley and myself. Nancy Garbee Domaas has received her M.A. from Montclair State College and lives in Hillsdale, N. J.

Longwood is truly doing great things, academically, and with building expansion and a wonderful student body. Please plan a trip to Longwood soon. Charlie and I spent a few days in the Poconos last spring; but summer found us and four children and dog sailing on the Rappahannock. Nancy Walker Reams, Bill, and family visited us for a great weekend. Good luck to all in the coming year!

Missed you at the reunion! I'm sorry to say that not too many of us made it; guess it was just a busy year for everybody. Maybe next one—our twentieth?

Patty Derring Coleman was one of those busy ones. Twin boys born last Sept. brought her total up to four, two of them girls. They moved into a new house also, just a few days before Christmas. Betty Irlin Saffelle has enjoyed visits from L. C. girls on their way to see "Six Flags Over Georgia", Betty's home being on the way. Claire Kreinbaum Hannan and family were there, and Mary Denny Wilson Parr, Wilton, and boys came over from Charlotte to join them. Lots of "Do you remember?" Betty said.

Pat Altwegg Brown has been in town several times for special board meetings at the college. She sent a darling color picture of her four children. Betty Lou Garrett Atwood and family left in Feb. for Spain, where they will remain for three years while Earl is stationed there. Ann Thomas Wicke sent her usual nice news letter, with each member of the family contributing. They all seem to love camping and look for any excuse to hitch up the trailer. Ann wrote a cute note to be read at the reunion. She and family just recently moved to Delaware. She is interested in compiling a list of addresses of the class.

Virginia Sutherland Knott is now at home, not in the classroom, as she has added her fourth little one to the family. Happy Home to Elsie Wente Bunch, who, with her family, moved into a new home of their own in Knoxville, Tenn. It is clear that Sylvia Reames Picardat's talented husband, Bob, is going to have to move over and share his laurels. Son, Scott, was the artist for their Christmas card this year; and it most certainly says, "Move over, Dad!"

In our family, Kip added golf to his sports agenda, and Lisa made the All Stars in her softball league. My station wagon express could find the ball parks and golf course with no driver!

The best to you all! Let me hear from you.

What an exciting time to be living! So many new and wonderful things are happening in our world today with space exploration, medical advancements, etc., that the changes are breathtaking. Thank you so much for taking the time to write me. From Joyce Pomeroy Hamer comes the news that she has retired temporarily to join the list of new mothers. Her son is now a year old. They were planning to attend a United Methodist Conference in Norfolk last summer, and she hoped to see Louise Minson while there. They were also planning a trip to Ohio to visit relatives in August after Marshall finished teaching in the summer session at Randolph-Macon Academy in Front Royal. Karen Spencer Westbrook is surrounded!—by boys: Steve, age 1; Mark, age 2; Spencer, 7; and Tom 16. She is teaching choral music at Fairfield Jr. High in Henrico County where her husband, Pete, is band director. Also from Richmond, Ernestine Johnson Delaney wrote that she had been doing some part time work while her daughter, Kim, was in sixth grade. A second letter came after she had moved to Charlotte, N. C., saying that she was getting organized in her new home. She did get to the Alumnae Picnic in Richmond before leaving. Jean Carol Parker Harrell, Jackie White Twyman, and Shirley Ward Patteson are all officers in the Chapter. Sounds like a Class of '55 Reunion to me!

Also in Richmond, Barbara Moore Curling is now an elementary school librarian and, in addition, has been able to take some night graduate courses through the U. of Va. extension. Otis is still with the C & P Telephone Company, and he and Barbara keep busy with their church responsibilities, PTA's, and civic associations. Cynthia is now a ninth grader and continues with piano lessons, choir, and the usual activities of a teenager. Del, in sixth grade, has become a violinist. The whole family joins him on the roller skating rink as well as ice skating in season. He and his dad find time also to fish on the Chesapeake Bay. Kevin adds to the family's band by playing the flute; so Barbara says that with a bird and two guinea pigs they must have the noisiest household in town! Sounds like fun! Helen W'aitman Wheeler now in Richmond with her two sons, David and Danny, and two daughters, Donna and Diane, wrote that she managed to get together with Jackie White Twyman, Jean Carol Parker Harrell, and Ann Carter Wendenberg Silver once in a while for a visit. (You see what they do with their time instead of writing me this year!) Helen has seen Buzzie Hartis Hall who now lives in Washington, D. C. We would like to have Buzzie's address.

I received several very interest clippings from the "Richmond-Times Dispatch" about the Barksdale Theater at Hanover Tavern in Hanover. This is a dinner theater of which Nancy Tanley Kilgore's husband is co-owner. As you might guess, Nancy is one of their star performers in addition to keeping up with four children. Productions run Wednesday through Saturday nights each week during the summer. A new baby was added to Nell Crocker Owen's family in Carrolltown last year: a little girl to play with 5-year-old Susan. Nell is serving as President of the Isle of Wight County Alumnae Chapter this year. Also joining the diaper changers is Nancy Nelson Diggs. A lovely little girl was added to her family of boys: Nelson, age 9, and Spencer, 4. They have moved into a new house there in Norfolk.

Still teaching Home Economics at Prince Edward Academy, Carolyn Watson Yeatts says her daughters are growing up—now 10 and 11. They are fortunate in being able to keep current with the activities at Longwood, attending the Longwood Players' productions, etc. She writes that the Campus space has doubled, the book store has so much room a person can browse around, and the library is so much larger with many reading centers, big planters, and so on. Remember, our FIFTEENTH REUNION is coming up in March 1970. SO PLAN NOW to go and see the changes for yourself!

Clare Davis Wallace leads a full life these days, keeping house for three lively boys and husband as well as doing the secretarial duties for Irving, who is in business for himself in Lynchburg. Nancy Taylor, who lives at Virginia Beach, visited Audrey Powell

L. to R.: Casey and Ann Hyatt, children of Mary Handley Hyatt, Beth Edwards and at her back Chip, children of Betty Davis Edwards; and Hunt Willson, son of Jane Bailey Willson, all of the class of '55.

Pittard in Halifax some time ago. Isn't it fun to try to get caught up on everything that has happened? Audrey has two sons: Ed, 8, and Tom, 5. Johnny is no longer keeping store, but has gone with Burlington Industries there. Audrey is busy with house-keeping duties plus some church activities, choir, and civic work. Their big house project this past year has been to transform a basement into a recreation room. Wilma Salmon Robinson is part-time teaching now that her baby is in school. She has also been taking one graduate course each semester. She and her family are still living in Norfolk.

From Danville, Judy Cable Funk writes that she keeps on the go with housekeeping and part-time work as Parish Secretary. Her son, William, is 15 and an avid golfer in addition to participating in many high school activities, such as public speaking. Judy and Bill were planning a trip to the Bahamas last spring. Bill has been coaching a Babe Ruth Baseball team and was also involved in organizing a Knights of Columbus Chapter there in Danville. He was given the honor of "Man of the Day" last fall, being nominated by the men who work with him. Judy writes that Dot Vadon Oglesby also lives there and is still teaching.

The Adams Family is now a family of 6. Donald is a year old and the charmer of the family, according to Jo Burley Adams ('62). Pat, her oldest, is a sophomore in high school; Kathy is a seventh grader, and Mike is in fourth grade. All of them enjoy camping and swimming, and Don has several fishing partners now. He is teaching at V.P.I., having finished the long part-time work he did to earn his Master's. Jo has taken a year or so out from teaching in Blacksburg to stay home with the baby. Joyce Hunt Henderson has received her license as a funeral director. For some time she has been helping her husband with his profession in addition to playing the organ for the funerals that are held in their Chapel. She is also pianist for their church and works with both the Adult and Youth Choirs in addition to helping as a teacher for the Young Adult Class. She is enjoying making clothes for herself and daughter. Cindy is 12 years old now and follows her mother in musical talent by playing the flute in her school's marching band. Joyce also has a son, David, age 10.

As we have tried to do every year, Becky Hines Bowling, Betty Jane Griffin Holland, and I along with our families (except for my girls because Judy celebrated Christmas with scarier fever) got together at the Hollands for dinner one night last December.

John now has his own farm which he runs in addition to working. They have three children—two girls and a boy—who keep Betty Jane busy enough to retire to full time housekeeping. Becky seems to keep busy doing everything from serving as chairman of the district cancer drive to taking feed to Farmville to be ground, to chauffeuring her daughter to piano lessons. She has three sons and a daughter. Ernest is working and farming—with Becky's help, she says—near Andersonville.

Marion Lowry Boone's son Ed is 3 and keeps her moving. She, Ed, and Ed, Jr., still live near Winchester, Ky. Mary Ann "Galax" Ward Deaton, Parks, and their three daughters—ages 11, 8, and 3—are living in Worthington, Ohio. She writes that she never seems to get caught up on her sewing, ironing, and hair combing. Sound familiar? Parks works with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. and is now Supt. of a Generating Plant. They usually get back to Galax several weeks during the summer and around Christmas time. Bev Taylor Newcomb ('56x) lives in Worthington also.

I had a delightful telephone call the other day—call any time—(412 823-6958)—from Donnie Devine Clark. She says she "never writes"; but after the time she had tracking down my telephone number, she just may start. She has recently moved to Charlotte, N. C., and seems to be in full swing with activities. She is Secretary of the Charlotte Panhellenic Congress and in the Alumnae Group of Zeta Tau Alpha. Donnie also served as President of the Charlotte Alumnae Chapter and belongs to the Childrens Theater there. She was so enthusiastic about the field of Creative Dramatics which I, too, find such fun. Her husband is with a furniture agency. They have two boys, Gus, 11, and William, 9, who are busy with little league baseball, etc.

Barbara Hough Miller is living in Winston-Salem, N. C., where Dusty, her husband, is in the Mortgage Loan Dept. of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and their 7-year-old son, Bobby, is a second grader. Barbara keeps busy in Garden Club, League of Women Voters, plays bridge, and is learning to play golf.

Betty Barr Gibbs' son is now in the fifth grade and, at writing, was looking forward to spending some time in Asheville, N. C., in summer camp. Bill is still employed by C & P Telephone Company. Betty had to have major surgery last year, but was recuperating well. She talks to Barbara Rickman Vought on the phone occasionally and wrote that Betty West Buchert helped with the alumnae fund-raising drive last year. She has been serving as President of the Virginia Beach Alumnae Group. Georgette Puryear Goode wrote from Savannah, Ga., that she visited Farmville last summer and was amazed at the changes. Her husband, Ben, was transferred from Kaiser Aluminum to Kaiser Agriculture. They are enjoying the historical spots in Savannah as well as the beach. They have a daughter, Beck, 11, and a son, Bill, 3. Pollyanna Martin Foard also found that "the third one is a charm." She writes that after two boys they have a little girl, Ellen, who is 5. Ben is 14 and Brian is 10. She and Don are still living at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; you may be sure Pollyanna still loves cats, too.

Another long letter came from Audrey Morse Tillett who is living in Knoxville, Tenn., while Burt is on duty in Southeast Asia. Audrey has a brother living in Bangkok, Thailand, so at least Burt has some family close enough to visit. Upon returning to the States from Okinawa last year, the Tilletts settled near Apple Valley, Calif., while Burt attended Jet training school. Audrey liked the experience of living in the desert, but doesn't think she would want to spend the rest of her life there. She is enjoying being in Tenn. where there are four distinct seasons, and Bruce and Scott are enjoying the swimming pool available with their apartment. Audrey had the pleasure of seeing Burt's gold leaves turn to silver as he was promoted to Lt. Colonel just before leaving for the Orient.

Jimmie Mills is working for Westinghouse at the Aerospace Division at Friendship, so the family is still living in Baltimore. Bobbie Assaid Mills ('54), as you remember, didn't graduate with us, but she and I still correspond at Christmas time. She is working on her Master's at Johns Hopkins in addition to taking care of her 4 youngsters—3 girls and a boy. Phyllis Powell Swerteger wrote on her Christmas card from Rhinebeck, N. Y., that she is still teaching there. At writing, they were contemplating a trip to the Dominican Republic for part of the summer. Phyllis has a son and a daughter. I hear also from Marion Webb Gaylor who is really a busy gal with 5 girls and a boy. In addition she has gone back to teaching near Hazardville, Conn.

I'm sure all of you join me in extending belated sympathy to the family of Barbara Southern Meeker, who was killed July 13, 1968, in an automobile crash in N. Y. Her husband, Dr. Richard K. Meeker, a former professor at Longwood, died a week later from injuries received. He had been an English instructor at Hartwick College. Barbara was a librarian at State University College at Oneonta, N. Y. They were survived by two sons, ages 12 and 9, who now live with Barbara's sister in Charlottesville.

As for me, life seems to be getting much more confused than ever with more to keep up with and to do. After two girls, first and third graders, we have a little son to add variety to our lives. Mel is now manager of the High Power Lab at the East Pittsburgh Works, Westinghouse, which means less traveling than before. His latest interest is sailing with the purchase of an International 505; so he is striving to develop a crew from among his family. Richard has to grow a little bit before qualifying, but Jan is beginning to enjoy it, and Judy is striving to learn to swim. Do have a wonderful year and be sure to write me all about it.

The East Coast lost two of our class this past year. Mary Davis Fischer and Bob left N. J. in Sept.; after much visiting and sight-seeing, they arrived in Bremerton, Wash., where they are located in base housing. They both are enjoying golf for recreation, and Mary belongs to a gourmet group. Mary reports that Washington is beautiful when it isn't raining, which isn't often!

After only fourteen months in the East

Loretta Brooking Gasswint is back in Cal. in the San Francisco area—San Mateo. Norm is Western Regional Manager for Alcoa Conductor Pro. Co., and Loretta is busy settling a new house and will become a Girl Scout leader in the fall. Another Girl Scout leader in Vista, Cal., is Ann Jones Mitchell who is also a Girl Scout Troop Organizer and Supt. of the Junior Dept. at church. She is so proud of Jim who will be a Lt. Col. in July, and her Jamie won a flute award at the band festival this year.

After one more quarter Helen Warriner will be back in Richmond, following a year in Columbus, Ohio, working on her Doctorate degree. Good luck on the exams, Helen. Liz Dettlaven Blair and Tom had two trips to the West Coast this year, one to San Francisco and one to San Diego when Tom won the Fuller Award at American Water Works Conference for Outstanding Water Utility Man of Year. Liz finds time, with four children, to be Treasurer of the Junior League and a member of the Women's Committee of Charleston, W. Va., Symphony.

In Chester, Sarah Jane Brisintine Mick cares for her little boy and is active in church and community activities. Gene Phillips Rhodes wrote from Franklin to say that she was back to diapers and bottles, since the arrival of her third daughter. From Brooklyn, N. Y., Dottie Rector Turmal sends word that she has become a lady contractor as she and Dick are doing the remodeling of a carriage house themselves. Dick is with Hayden Publishing, and take my advice and visit the Turmals, to see their house if you're ever in N. Y. They are very clever and talented people.

Suzanne Prillaman Lowry is in Ithaca, N. Y., where she had a new daughter in April. Nancy McLauborn Rhue loves the snowy winter in Yorktown Heights, N. Y. She and her family learned to ice skate last winter and hope to try skiing this year. Down in warmer sunny West Palm Beach, Fla., Ann Brooking Stelter tries to keep up with her two boys while Ted travels the Southeastern States, managing the development of sales for his Rohm and Haas agricultural chemicals.

In Charlotte, N. C., Molly Ann Harvey Childers is excitedly watching their new house start up after many months of planning it themselves.

Barbara Alays Harris is in Owensboro, Ky., where Bond has been teaching at Ky. Wesleyan College. She is taking graduate studies this summer at Western Ky. U. and will teach art at Davies County High School in the fall.

In Green Ridge, Penn., Carolyn Gray Abdalla has her own Ann Gray among thirty four-year-olds in her nursery school. She serves on her church vestry, and she and Peter enjoy Pro Basketball and Ice Hockey in Philadelphia. She plans a trip to Va. this summer and hopes to see Lou Wilder Colley and Lee Hayes. Lee is teaching biology at Richard Bland Junior College in Petersburg. Patricia Abernathy Casey is happily caring for one-year-old Mary Cloud in Avondale, Penn. Bob teaches and is working as a hobby for the CAP in Penn.

In Roanoke, Bettye Maas Sterzing delighted her two boys by giving them a baby sister in March. Bruce is managing Bill Battle's campaign in Roanoke County. Jean Ward is living in Luray and teaches Week-day Religious Education in grades three through six in four different Page County Schools. She and another W.R.E. teacher were able to include three special education classes and one home-bound pupil this year. The other teacher has two classes of educable children, and Jean has a class of trainable children and the home-bound child.

In Lynchburg Joyce Clingenpeel Bailey teaches piano and is loving her volunteer work with Head Start. Bob is assistant Principal at E. C. Glass High School. Though she isn't teaching this year, Shirley Blankenship McCain seems more than busy with substituting, church work, and holding an office in the Petersburg Jayettes. Her boys are playing little league baseball, and the family is learning to water ski since their recent purchase of a boat.

Ellen Thomas van Valkenburgh and Wood are returning to old friends and familiar places in Richmond this year. Wood has a fellowship for a year of study in rheumatoid diseases at MCV. Also in Richmond Shirley Adams Daniel still teaches Physical Education and Driver Education at Varina High School in Henrico. Lou Wilder Colley is chief spectator and chauffeur for her family. Don's team at Henrico Hi was Capitol District Group I A Champions and then Regional Champions, and Britt is playing in little league games.

Julie Moncare Moseley has been busy this year, helping with the organization of a Junior Garden Club called the Nottingham Junior Cloomers. In nearby Dewitt Elizabeth Sutherland Connelly teaches sixth grade social studies and has become active in a newly organized Dinwiddie County Chapter of Longwood Alumnae. In Smithfield Shirley Kemp Barlow returned second semester to teaching third grade. In the fall she'll teach high school science. Louise Turner Caldwell also teaches at Smithfield High School and enjoyed a recent visit from Jane Lohr Lee and her family. Harry has just returned from a tour in Vietnam, and they are moving to Omaha, Neb.

It was like a voice out of the past this spring when I heard from Jackie Marshall. She and her brothers are buying a house in Suffolk and would welcome any good tips on raising roses. She has just completed her M.S. degree and teaches reading at the intermediate level in Chesapeake. Also in Suffolk Dale Brothers Birdsong is enjoying her two boys and their sister of twenty-two months. Another Master's Degree last year was won by Helen Kelsey Breckinridge in Education from W & M. She teaches first grade in Newport News, and Charles works at NASA at Langley. Ginny Obenchain Cross keeps very busy in Newport News with five children and working in her yard. She belongs to a Garden Club and two Medical Auxiliaries. She enjoyed a visit this spring with Bootsie Miller Quinn.

Here in the Washington area Shirley Will-bide Jones was Residential Chairman for Mac who was Crusade Chm. of the Cancer Drive in Alexandria. Their efforts brought much success, and they went over their goal. Shirley is also President of a hospital auxiliary. In Manassas Nancy Hartman Welker taught first grade this spring but will go back to half-day kindergarten teaching in the fall. Phil earned his Master's Degree in English this year.

Ann Coleman Ross has three boys in school in New Carrollton, Md., two of whom are also taking piano and playing trombone. She and Left: Lisa, daughter of "Peanuts" Winder Grimsstead, '57.

Right: Michael, son of Kathy O'Leary Kirby, '58.

Don are busily involved in church work and being spectators for their son's ball games.

Phyllis and I are still living in Georgetown and working at Gulf General Atomic and N.I.H. I'm especially grateful to her for having our cards printed again this year and appreciate so much all the donations you sent to defray postage cost.

Please send any change of address directly to the Alumnae Office, and do let me hear from you again next year.

One further proof that we have reached the age where time flies is how quickly the deadline for writing our newsletter rolls around. Why, it seems like only yesterday that I was struggling over the 1968 letter; now it is time for news of 1969! Our news this year is scant—the Class of '57 either has settled down too much or else just overlooked helping me compose this letter!

Gale Branch Gillespie was delighted to walk out of church in March and see Mary Alice Powell Roberts, Mary Alice, Gordon, and their three youngsters: Mac (8), Alice (6), and Wes (4) had moved to Severna Park, Md., in February. They are only "30 seconds apart as the crow flies." A long blond-haired girl had joined Gale's family this year—in the form of a Golden Retriever!

Slippery Rock College, Pa., will serve as home for Gayle Peoples Shiner and her family come August. Bill has accepted an associate professorship there; so Gayle, with Jim and Beth, will be leaving Syracuse. Gayle wrote that Jim was playing the trumpet now. Is this another Tech bandsman in the making? Gloria Kratzsch Young, Dave, and Gar have a 17-foot fiberglass sailboat which they have put to good use on many of the lakes around Maine. They find it a wonderful, though sometimes challenging, family activity.

Would you believe Guam? Yes, after three years on the east coast, Lee was transferred to Guam. Ann Thomas Denny wrote that the heat and humidity are unbelievable, but they were enjoying the swimming and shelling at the beaches.

Jane Brugh Layman and John are kept busy by their brood in Blacksburg. John Eric is in his first year of school, Charles is in nursery school, and their twin girls are now three. "Peanuts" Winder Grimsstead entertained her family from Cal. last summer by sightseeing in such places as Gatlinburg, Asheville, Lexington, and Williamsburg. Little Lisa had a ball! Anne Caldwell Cate serves as a hostess at the Custis-Lee Mansion were, on special occasions, she has played the 1837 square grande piano. Charlie has been made an associate partner in his law firm. Martha Joyner DuLong is in Mich. with Perry who is again studying at the University in Ann Arbor. Sandra Dyer Hinson moved into a new home in November. Rea is enjoying kindergarten, and Marc— at 2—is into everything!

At the Richmond Chapter of Longwood Alumnae, I had "ole home week" with four others from our class. Eleanor Stradley Turner and her family have moved into a new home. In order not to have to bother with lawn care, they had bought several truck loads of pine tags, but alas, grass was still sprouting! Margaret Hadnall Miller and her husband recently welcomed a second little girl. Having moved to the capital city, Jane Wood Witt was enjoying Woman's Club work. Hazel Hanks Lewane was helping in the Henrico County library.

The grapevine has it that Evelyn Rowe Harper is raising pigs in her backyard in Kinsale. Jo Hillsman Winters and I often grocery shop at the same time; so we enjoy frequent chats. Though busy with two sons, Jo finds the time to teach a class at Virginia Commonwealth University. Last summer, Flo Soghoian and I had a pleasant encounter at Willow Lawn. Both of us had to agree that the other had changed very little. She is teaching just outside San Francisco and was visiting her mother in Richmond.

Mae Bennett Gurhrie's husband has accepted a call to the Oxford Presbyterian Church in Lexington. Allison (6), Holly (4), and Nancy Lynn (2) welcomed Buffy, a collie puppy, as the only addition to their family this year. The golf club has replaced Anne Wayne Fuller Patterson's hockey stick these days. A frequent partner is Jerry Edwards Mayhew (59). Johnny, in the third grade, fell in love with his student teacher from Longwood. Meredith, a live-wire who keeps everyone on their toes, will go to kindergarten next fall. Pat Asby Robinson's husband is running for reelection as Commonwealth Attorney in Newport News. She was elected a vice-president in the Democratic Wives Club.

Right: William Clark, 3½, son of Rosemary Henry Thomas, '62.

How proud we were to see our favorite class sponsor receive such acclaim when he returned for Founders Day last March. Student Building is now French Hall, a well deserved honor for "Charlie Hop," who has meant so much to so many girls over the years. We were deeply appreciative of all the notes and cards he received during his last operation. We were pleased to see that he had recuperated in order to return to the campus. I understand that Margaret Beavers Reed, Shirley Hardy McCray, Kitty Nelson Hubbard, and Jo Hillsman Winters were among those present for the festivities.

We have lost contact with some of our class members. Should you know anything about any of the following, please let me know: Pat Jones, Mary Mayo Stenger, Shirley Paxson, Joyce Pulley Bryant, Caroline Stoneman Wells, and Elsie Atade Webb. I am afraid that this is all the news I have for this year. I do hope that more of you will drop me a line before the next letter in June, 1970. Best wishes to each of you.

Newstime again, but this year we're a little low as only 28 of you answered, but many thanks to those of you who did. My summer will be spent touring the British Isles and Europe with friends. We set up our own tour and plan to spend six weeks, seeing the country. One of my stops will be to visit Kate Kriebbiel Lawrence in Nuremberg, Germany. Her husband is stationed there with the 2nd Armored Cav. division for the next years. Nancy Anderson Camp and family are busy in Raleigh, N. C., where her husband is employed at N. C. State and is working on his doctorate which he hopes to complete next year. Moonyeen Warren Walsh was down Va. way in April to visit family and friends. Moonyeen and Jack are planning a 2-week vacation in July on their new 37-ft. boat. Their two-year-old son, Sean, keeps Moonyeen busy; so she has given up teaching for awhile.

Cornelia Anne Batte Roberts teaches first grade, enjoys club and church work and keeping up with Anne Courtney, 4, and Clay, 2. Cornelia saw Margie Allgood Harrison this past year when Margie substituted in their school. Jane Karicofe Elliott has moved to Tallahassee, Fla., where her husband has started work on his Master's in Fine Arts at Fla. State. Jane has a job in the Psychology Dept. at FSU. Virginia Anderson Russell and family are back in Richmond, after living in Danville for one year. Pete has his own law office in Richmond, and Virginia is librarian at Tuckahoe Jr. H. S. Their daughter, Rhonda, is fourteen now and will be a cheerleader next year. During the winter the family spent some time skiing, but Virginia still is having trouble standing up.

Carol King Robertson and family traveled west to San Antonio and east to Montreal last summer. Carol's year has been spent in Presbyterian work and church teaching. As a room mother she keeps up also with Brian's school activities. This summer the Robertsons anticipate a little work on the house and a camping journey to Wyoming and Yellowstone Park.

Gwen White Pruitt and family will be leaving Dover Air Force Base in August because Dan was assigned to an Air Force Training job with Industry Program at Westinghouse in Baltimore, Md. Lucille Ferguson spent Easter vacation with Gwen and family. She is teaching Home Ec. in Sandston. Carolyn Ward Fronfelser and family are busy in Waverly. She has two little ones to keep up with plus club work, church work, etc. Nancy Drudge Fawcett and family are still in Blacksburg where Ray is working on his Ph.D. in physics. They hope to leave there in 1970. Nancy is busy teaching five-year-olds at the Methodist church kindergarten. Jane Lloyd Westphal and family will be moving from Quantico in June when her husband must return to Vietnam. Jane will be living in Newport News where they have bought a new house. In June Jeanne Vestal Hellstrom is making the big move back to the States from Okinawa. Her husband will be in Thailand for the next year; Jeanne will be at home again in Virginia Beach and teaching P.E. at Court House Elementary School. Mary Anne Barnett Trapp and family seem now to be settled in Camden, S. C. They did come to Richmond for the Easter holidays and visited with family and friends.

Jackie Sawyer Taplin is now working in Richmond at Va. Commonwealth University (old R.P.I.). She is acting director of the Counseling Center there, but hopes to work on her M.A. in the fall of '70. Jane Rupert Hall and family are heading for a two-year tour of the Philippines in June. Her one big worry is the monsoons and typhoons—poor girl! Betsy Ruckman Modlin is busy down Tex. way, keeping up with three boys, ages 2, 3, and 6. She should be physically fit!

Jackie Trader Kavanaugh is busy getting settled in a new house and keeping up with her 2-year-old daughter. Jackie also finds time to do some volunteer work for the blind-re-organizing services; collecting volunteers, assigning them to certain jobs, etc. She is hoping to help organize a L. C. Alumnae chapter in Atlanta—good luck.

Judy Alexander Heermann has moved south to Columbia, S. C., from Ripley, W. Va. Bob is the Minister of Education at the First Presbyterian Church of Columbia. Their 3 children are Lauri, 7, Jay, 4, and Wendy who was born last summer. Judy is busy house-keeping, sewing, gardening, and painting, plus teaching a teenage Sunday school class. If time permits, she hopes to take a few classes at the U. of S. C. next fall.

Nancy Baker Cooper is teaching, after eight years of being a "homemaker." Both her children are in school now, and her husband is a Senior Planner at the Naval Shipyard. It was good to hear from Ellen W'ebb Dempsy and to learn of the addition to her family. Ellen is back to work at the State Dept. while Richard completes his work on his Ph.D. at GWU.

Also good to hear from Rubenette Miller Niemann and family from Elmira, N. Y. Her husband is with Corning Glassworks. They will be moving into a new home soon. She hears from Anne Jeter Collins who is in Taiwan with her husband Bill. Mary Ann Foster Rust and Randy have moved to Upper Marlboro, Md.

Anne Garrett Bailey and family are moving from Gainesville, Ga., to Greensboro, N. C., in June. Her husband is the plant industrial engineer of the Greensboro division of AMO, Inc., which is an electronics firm. Anne Foster Duke and husband are now teaching English at Va. Commonwealth University and are working on their doctoral degrees. Suzie Barr Kendall is busy with her two children in Winchester. Carol Lasb Pugh is serving as President of her chapter of Beta Sigma Phi in W. Nyack, N. Y., bowling, and skiing. Husband Randy is still working with "Man of La Mancha" in N. Y.

Was nice to get a long letter from Jane Cryte Sowards from Leesburg. Al is still Principal of Leesburg Elementary School, and Jane is bookkeeper for the Federal School Program. In 1968 the family took a four-week trip to Cal. and enjoyed all the beautiful places between Va. and there. Many thanks for the long letter from Shirley Alcock Warfield from Tulsa. Shirley is busy with A.A.U.W., forming a Welcome Wagon Organization. She even ran into a L. C. graduate of '52, and the girl's husband was a Hampden-Sydney grad. When Shirley isn't keeping up with her three children, she does volunteer work with the Republican Women's Club and church work.

Until next time—do send in your news and changes of address so that we can keep in touch.

The news of this year was the reunion! Since I was not able to attend, I am writing this letter for many people who know much more news than I do. All of the reports of the reunion have been very good, and I have heard over and over again how nice everyone looked and what a memorable occasion it was. We should certainly offer a word of appreciation to Lillian and the Richmond area girls who helped her and to Nancy Andrews whose aid and hospitality helped to make the day.

Our president has moved, so please take note of her new address. Lil and Lewis plan to build and have been hunting for the right lot. I know that it was difficult for them to leave their many friends in the Richmond area. We wish them the very best of luck!

Betty Brown Calpeper Holland, Bill, and their four children moved to Virginia Beach in July. Bill has completed his medical studies and will be specializing in cardiology. The twins are now eight, and the girls are six and four. Greeting Betty and her family in Virginia Beach will be "Bee-dee" Statton McMillan, Jo Lynn Holland Chaffin, and Betty Griggs Barco. Betty Barco responded this year for the group from the beach. They enjoyed the reunion and especially the night spent at Wee Dee Norman Hoffman's cottage. After the cocktail party, the group formed a car caravan and traveled about 25 miles outside of Farmville to the cottage on a lake. They were awake until the wee hours, going over old times and admiring family pictures. The group included Jo Lynn Holland Chaffin Catherine Cornell, 4½, and Jennifer Darby, 2, daughters of Louisa Booth Noble, '60.

Betty Griggs Barco, Mary Ellen Moore Mitchell, Joan Lee Thomas Jenkins, Wayne Bon-den Dunbar, Burks Keith Scarborough, "Bee-dee" Stratton McMillan, Aggie Lourey Frazier, and "Weedie" Betty Barco keeps in touch with Gin Kayk Lynch who lives in Gloucester. Gin had a boy in March. Check the list of births and marriages which appears elsewhere in the Bulletin. I won't list them all here.

After the reunion, I received a nice report from Lillian. We just missed the Jarman Cup for attendance. The Class of 1919 had 75% of its living members present—three out of four! Charlie Hop was there, of course, and Dr. and Mrs. Lankford had dessert with the group after the luncheon. Before the reunion, I spoke with Betty Spivey Sellers twice by phone. Betty and I had hoped to be able to make the trip to Farmville, but this could not be arranged. Betty lives in Savannah, and her husband was due to begin his second tour of duty in Vietnam this fall. Betty is a TV teacher, doing the Romper Room Show in the Savannah area. She keeps busy with this, her family, and activities of the Officer's Wives Club.

I wish I had space to list those who attended the reunion. There were sixty-three class members or associate class members present. Several of these were people from whom I have never received a letter—Peggy Blankinship Woody, Wayne Boydon Dunbar, Nancy Forrest, Carole Vick, and some others. A very few people have responded with the notes in Christmas cards, so please write this year. Now for a run through of some news. Starting here at home, the Ray family now numbers four. Luther Beebe Ray, IV, decided to come to see us a bit earlier than expected, and we welcomed a little brother for Betsy in June. I can't manage much work between his eight or nine feedings each day. We still live in Augusta and will probably be here for another year. Luther is a Major in the Army and is enjoying his work in personnel management at Fort Gordon. Please give us a call if you are ever in the Augusta area. We were in Virginia in October for a week and visited Longwood as we passed through Farmville. I was in Suffolk in December and encountered Barbara Odum Wright and her family, while visiting in the hospital. I do wish I were where I could talk to more of you. One little baby boy necessitated redoing two rooms of our house, so we spent the time between Easter and Memorial Day, engaged in redoing the guest room for Betsy and Betsy's room for the baby. We plan to spend a week at Jekyll Island, Ga., just before Labor Day.

Molly Workman was married in April and is now Mrs. MacLeod. Virilinda Joyner entertained for Molly and Mac one evening before the wedding, and I called and spoke with the bride-to-be. Liz Nichols Thornby called me recently. Liz stays busy with her teaching and transporting two children to all of the required places. The oldest, Billy, is learning to drive.

Gwen Melton Baucum had a son in March; so she was not able to get to the reunion. Elsie Dick Hood and family were still in England, but were due to leave for the States in May. Betty Ray Laxenby Markhan found Fla. a bit too far to permit the trip. This year, Betty Ray's parents moved to Fla.; so she is enjoying some good babysitting service.

Virilinda Joyner spent her Easter vacation in Fla. She planned to go to the beach during the summer and also to Atlanta and to New Orleans. Helen Jean Young is teaching in Clifton Forge. During the summer she planned to be director of the kindergarten and remedial summer program for the school and, then, to travel to Pittsburgh to see Joan O'Connell Nader ('60) and her family.

Julia Grey Wallace Sweeney and family are happy to be back in Virginia Beach. Linda Doles Dougherty, Paul, and Kent are in Frankfurt, Germany, where Paul is associated with the American Express Company. They looked forward to returning to the States for six weeks this year. Margie Laymon Forte reported that Barbara Heck Bruno and Jerry had been to visit. Jerry attended graduate school during the past year. Sandra Kilmon Phillips and Hatten have moved into their new home near Salisbury, Md. They enjoy having a larger home and a nice wooded lot near a small creek.

Merle Ridinger Weingart lives in Hartford, Conn. She works with teenage girls who are committed to a residential treatment center. Her daughter Karen is three, and has been a great comfort as Dick was killed instantly in an automobile accident in July '68. He had just been named academic dean at the Hartford Seminary.

Helen Hillman Drummond has moved from Canada to Ft. Hood, Tex. Jim has been promoted to Lt. Colonel in the Army. Martha Rucker Coleman, in Atlanta, spent the spring fighting the flu bug and the remodelers. She says that after the months of problems have passed, the modern kitchen and the self-cleaning oven are worth the price of the confusion. Martha reports that Pat Hudson NeSmith ('64) has formed a Longwood group in Atlanta.

Nancy Cross Johnston has given up teaching for awhile, and she and John are anxiously awaiting the birth of their first child. They live in South Boston. Dottie Cothorn Nugent sent a picture of her pretty little girl, Meg. Dottie is an officer in the Martinsville chapter of the SPCA and is breeding Siamese cats. She spends time as a story teller for the library and is studying to renew her teaching certificate. Dottie's husband, Ralph, is an engineer with DuPont, working with nylon. Liz Nichols Thornby reports that Ruth Looper Hartman and Paul came by one evening for a visit with the Thornbys. Ruth was to be listed in the next edition of WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN WOMEN. The Hartman family includes two adopted daughters, and it was nice to hear some news of them.

Betty Rawls Unwin spent last year in Hampton where she taught first grade. Dave was in Vietnam and due to return in September. Betty was looking forward to the R & R trip to Hawaii in June, after which she'll spend the summer at home with little Andy. They'll be moving to Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., in the fall.

This year, Joann Fivel is in New Haven. She had a fellowship for individual study at Yale. The program is designed to allow teachers to broaden their background, without being concerned about grades or money. Joann reports that she sees the Schlegels occasionally. Ann Glover O'Dell and Denton have moved to Oxford, Miss. Denton is Minister of Christian Education for the presbytery which covers the northern third of Miss. Ann taught Spanish last year in an all-negro high school in Tallahatchie County, Miss. She says that it was a unique experience and that her students, who often couldn't buy their lunch, gave her lovely gifts at the end of the year.

JoAnn Sloop Simmers and Marvin live in Lynchburg. Marvin has been working on his Master's degree at the Presbyterian School of Christian Education. Jackie Harper Meador, also in Lynchburg, spent the past year as director and teacher for a new nursery day school. Max received his MEd. from UVA. last August. Jackie has also taken two classes to renew her teaching certificate. Of course we all had to take note of the fact that this was the year for the renewal! I sent mine off to Richmond in January, and it never came back. Thus far, I have not bothered to investigate because I can't imagine that I could ever have the time to return to work.

One of the nicest letters which I received was from Mary Ellen Moore Mitchell. Meme enjoyed the reunion. She was granted sabbatical leave by the Newport News School Board and spent the past year at William and Mary, working on her Master's degree. She received also a graduate assistantship and worked at the W & M Reading Center. This fall Meme was to work as the Director of the Laboratory Center for Reading in Newport News. Last summer she and Joan Lee Thomas Jenkins were in a small antique shop at Nags Head. Meme says that she was staring at a girl and realized that the girl was staring at her. Then she recognized Ann Glover O'Dell who was visiting and on her way back to Miss! Jean Turner Groome and Bob, who have been in Ill.,

Jan and Freya Holtrop Verheul, '61x, and daughters Esther, 4½, and Inger, 2½, who are living in Spain.

are moving back into the house which they own across the street from Meme. Aggie Lowry Frazier and family are in Wilson, N. C. Last year Tommy won two all-expense-paid trips, and Aggie and Tommy went to Freeport, Bahamas, for five days and later to Las Vegas, Hawaii, and San Francisco for two weeks. Carolyn Copeland Dix, Bill, and Suzanne are enjoying their new home in Rocky Mount. Carolyn taught third grade last year, and they all looked forward to a summer of camping.

I guess that is all that I know. If I left you out, please forgive me as I have written this at five-minute intervals over a period of a week. Don't forget a note at Christmas time. Please keep in touch! Ten years passed in a hurry and in fifteen more, we'll be calling for a 25th reunion and the 100th anniversary of the college. Maybe I'll get there then and hope you all will too.

From around the world, around the nation, comes news of our classmates. Only a few remain in Outer Mongolia. After a year at Teacher's College, Columbia Univ., continuing work on her doctorate in art education, Barbara Bishop has returned to Longwood as associate professor in the art department. She and Connie Goodman Ryan have discussed our Reunion Plans for 1970, and we definitely plan to have lunch in the Tea Room and a cocktail party during Founders Day. Connie is living in Medford Lakes, N. J., and even though far away, she is quite interested in making our reunion as successful as possible! Jean O'Connell Nader is back in the USA after four years of delightful travelling and teaching in the Far East, during which time she married Howard. He is a dentist, now beginning practice outside Pittsburgh, Pa. Their children are John Anthony, 2, and Jennifer, 7 months. Ann Scott Perkins' husband Bob is back from Vietnam and working with VEPCO while Ann still works for the Army at Bellwood. Todd will be in the second grade. She talked to Chris Wilson Johnson in Cal., while on her way to meet Bob for "R & R" in Hawaii. She sees Chris Jones Ferguson and Ann Clark Cornell at work. "Clarke" is now a program analyst for the state. Diane Doughty Tobin and Frank have adopted a beautiful little girl, Jennifer. Diane enjoys her work in Junior Woman's Club. A ray of Cal. sunshine came in Chris Wilson Johnson's orange stationery from Santa Monica. Benny is Head Conservator at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art and is in the process of establishing the best such laboratory in the West for conservation and restoration of works of art. With Mark (7) and Elena (6) in school, Chris will have more time for volunteer work in the UCLA Art Council. She sees Dr. Barry Dunbar who taught at L. C. and is now at UCLA; she and Benny met Carolyn DeHaven Dodds and Jerry for dinner in San Francisco. Carolyn is now in Waukesha, Wis., where Jerry is doing research in radiology in Milwaukee. Out in

Valencia, Cal., we found Sandra Parker Griffith whose husband is with Pharmaseal Laboratories. They love touring in the West and plan a trip to Mexico this summer. With three pre-schoolers—Blake, Christian, and Katherine—Sandra still finds time to reach a kindergarten class at Sunday School. She corresponds with Pat Lowery Waters in Atlanta, Ga., and was delighted to be hostess to Anna Belle Pope for a week on her return to the U.S. after a month's vacation in Hawaii! Ann Jenkins Parker sent air-mail news from Schillerstrasse, Germany, where she, her husband, and son William have been living for seventeen months. Ann's husband is in a new DuPont plant training German personnel. They have travelled extensively, but were home last year and went by L. C. to see "the amazing new growth." Up at Ferrum Junior College we find Becky McGrath Daugherty whose husband Jim teaches drama and English. Following the productions and keeping up with young Alex keeps Becky on the go. Ann Mixon Wilson and Gerald reside in Roanoke where life with energetic young boys—Allen, 2, and David, 1—keeps the pendulum swinging. Down near Virginia Beach Annis Norfleet Murphy loves teaching along with being mother to a young son and a daughter. She has even learned to sew. Norma Redmon Richmond resides near Mechanicsville and loves horses as much as ever. She and Annis looked the same and laughed as much as ever at Founders Day. Joyce Pendleton Harrell and Frank are now in Plymouth, N. C., where Frank is working with a farm equipment firm. Joyce is enjoying a teaching career along with her family of two boys, Shel and Kent. In Smithfield Nancy Allen Laine continues her teaching career in home economics at John Yeates High School, and Bill has just been installed as President of the local J.C.'s. Nancy Knight Klutz resides in Franklin where chuck is with Southampton Memorial Hospital, and she teaches in elementary school; they have a little boy. At the State Department in the nation's capital, we ran into Joanne Tench, a Spanish Linguist, who loves the big city and is working on her doctorate. Her Christmas letter is always fascinating and filled with news of her work and travels to Europe and to Mexico. She was featured on a full-page-color spread in the "Washington Post" and really looked glamorous. Back to San Jose, Cal., where Tae Waldmley Glasson and Joe, a sales representative for a data processing firm, and Tae Kristin, now two, live. Although Tae is retired from her job as programmer, she loves being in their new home and not working. Barbara Cobeland Saunders was voted "Outstanding Member of the Year" by the Suffolk Junior Woman's Club. She and Edith Ward Byrum are faithful members of our area alumnae association. Edith teaches in Chesapeake, enjoys club work, church activities, takes night classes, and has two children—Steven and Susan. Ann Elliott Brooks writes from the rolling hills of Charlottesville that she is substitute teaching and taking classes in Library Science and will be back into full-time teaching before long. Four-year-old twins, Felicia and Elliott, and husband Curtis complete the family. She and Mary Ann Walker Shindle and Barbara Stephenson Fields and her two children had a get-together recently. More twins! Amanda and Alan were the jackpot for Yvonne Patterson Edwards and Horace David (9) and Kerry (6) will each have a baby to rock in Newport News. Chris Jones Ferguson and George are moving back home to South Hill, after living in Richmond eight years; their daughter, Cynthia, is three. Linda Jo Saunders Kent and Don are in Alexandria where Don is an attorney and little Lisa is two. She sees Nancy Ferguson Soyars in Danville when they both are back home. Nancy and her husband have two sons, and they are living in Charlotte, N. C. Beverly Lipford Yeager's news from the beach contained a marvelous surprise—she has lost seventy pounds and has a 13-year-old stepson. Her husband is Carroll Von Gaskin Yeager, Jr. Whew! Bev is crazy about her first-grade teaching position. She sends news that Ann McDonald Grogan is living in Martinsville and has two adorable little boys. Ann Snyder Simmons reports that it is good to be back in Va. after three years at Hamilton Air Force Base near San Francisco where they adopted a bouncing big boy who is now eighteen months old. Howell is working with a consultant engineering firm in Fairfax, and Ann will be teaching second grade there this fall. She is eager to hear from any classmates in the area. Barbara Rossiter Goodwyn and Bill have two daughters—Lauri (7) and Traci (5). They reside in Chester; Bill is an assistant vice-president with Lawyers Title Insurance in Richmond. Junior Woman's Club and Church activities are keeping her busy. At the head of the Business Department at Dinwiddie High School we find Sylvia Cogville Chambers who has just been awarded her Master's in business education. Her husband, Charley, is with N. Chambers & Son, and young Chuck—at two—is a future partner in the firm. Down in Newport News, Margaret Graham Flaherty is active in the Hampton Roads Junior League along with "watching the four kids in our new pool." She sends news that Demetria Koumparkis Costes is in Springfield, Va. In New Holland, Pa., Jo Ann Garner Wagstaff is the proud owner of a new six-foot Baldwin Grand piano. With Kevin (5) and Brian (1) she still manages to teach piano, organ, guitar and to direct the five choirs at her church. From Rochester, Minn., came my first response for news—none other than Sara Oliver Erwin who has been getting her Longwood news via the Hampden-Sydney bulletin! Don and Sara have one daughter, Ginny (5); they will be setting out on a first camping venture to Wis. this summer. They have been from MCV in Va. to Edwards Air Force Base in the desert of Cal. and have landed at the Mayo Clinic in the cold north country with many exciting trips in between. Don will soon be in his third-year residency in Internal Medicine. She is the office staff for her husband's business, after retiring from eight years of teaching, when young Jeff came along. Speak Arabic, anyone? Arlene McKay Fitzgerald and Ben are in Alexandria while he is attending the Army Language Institute, for Arabic. After a year he will begin a tour in the Middle East with the United Nations Truce Supervisory Organization, and Arlene is eager to go along, if world conditions allow. She sends news of Gay Athworth Robinson located in Fort Sheridan, Ill. She and Robbie have two children—Jennifer and Stephanie. Freida Hamlet Whitlow is leading a full life, after retiring from seven years of teaching, marrying Welford, building a new farm home, and becoming a mother for Phillip (2) and Anita Jo (1), and being listed among "Outstanding Young Women of America." Emily Umbarger continues her studies in English at UNC, since finishing Master's work at the U. of Southern Fla. in Tampa. After a vacation in the Bahamas, teaching at Richmond Technical Institute during the summer, Emily will be in Rockingham, N. C., next year. She keeps up with Callie Johnson Bowers whose husband is an Army Captain at Fort Sill, Okla. Aloha! From Judy Alston Shumaker in Pearl City, Hawaii. Her's was a long letter describing their travels—exploring mysterious castles in Turkey to Omaha, Neb., on to Hawaii, the most beautiful state in the union. Her daughter, Margaret, is ready to learn the Hula; and son, Cecil, is ready for his own surf board even though he is just four and hasn't learned to swim yet. Husband Cecil is flying on "Upkeep" on Oahu as teletype operator. It was quite a thrill meeting and talking with Mrs. Nixon when the First Family was in Hawaii. Louise Boelte, a summer school grad, writes that 1970 will conclude her 47th year teaching in Halifax County, beginning in a one-room school with seven grades in 1923. Today we find her with fifth graders at Wilson Memorial. Rita Weinberg Lawhorne has two children—a daughter (6) and a son (4). She and her husband, who is treasurer at Hampden-Sydney, live in Farmville. Rita participates annually in the local production of a Broadway play. Sara Cade Kerby, Carl, and son Kendall have a new home in Waynesboro. Brenda Rae Dreury Fennell and Tommy are in Portsmouth where Tommy is a lawyer. They have two daughters. Nancy Barce Griggs and Tommy still live at Virginia Beach. Nancy Childress Smith and Billy are out in Bon Air, Richmond, with their two children. Judy Carr McLeomore and Harvey live in Franklin where he is with Union Camp Corporation, Blake and Alice are their children. Congratulations to Jo Dearing Smith on her election as a director on the Alumnae Board of our National Association. Her family totals five—farmer John; Marshall, second grader; Debra (5); and Todd (2). She and "Bishop" will be planning our 10th celebration; each of us can help make it a great event by drumming up interest and planning car pools well in advance. We still need addresses of 10 classmates; we did locate Demetria, Gay, and Ann Snyder. A million thanks to each of you who kept the cobwebs out of my P. O. box in June. Each letter was exciting and beautifully written. If you didn't respond, send a note at Christmas. Good news doesn't grow stale for a long time. If you haven't visited our alma mater recently, plan to come on Friday for Founders Day to view the magnificent campus and to meet the "Big Four": Dr. Willett, Col. Carr, Dean Blackwell, and Mr. Dalton. You will wish you were a student again. It has been a marvelous experience, serving as second vice-president of alumnae. Meeting new people, spending the night at the alumnae house for board meetings, keeping up with the new Longwood, and working with Liz Jones have been highlights of my life during the past two years. To those of you who think of Longwood as long ago and far away, go to your looking-glass and view deeply to see what is there. None of us would be exactly what we are today had not Longwood cast its spell on our personality or our profession or even our romantic ties. Do Come Back! Life in the Village of Chuckatuck is happy, peaceful, and exciting. I served Mrs. Bill Battle tea at Meadowbrook Farms when she stopped by on the campaign trail; we will hate to see our dear Governor Mills Godwin leave the capital. My husband Cornelius is still farming and flying radio control model airplanes for fun; Herbert is a third grader at Isle of Wight Academy and is a good combination scholar and sport. Annah is four and keeps our grandmother and great-grandmother in the upstairs apartment from getting lonely. We are waiting for a new little Duff in December. I enjoy life and love the garden and yard work. Be looking for you at Founders Day.

Dear '61ers,

The absence of class news in the ALUMNAE NEWS has been due to lack of class funds. Under these conditions, it has been impossible to keep in touch with each of you. With our 10th reunion coming up, we should be able to reorganize so that our correspondence will be assured.

Until March, 1971, we can have news of our class included in the various editions if you will write to me. When you write, be sure to include news of classmates. Each of you—write soon! It's impossible for me to individually contact the 200 or so of you. I need your help now.

To the Class of '62, I send my thanks for your cooperation in helping me secure news for our magazine. Each day I looked forward to receiving your letters and enjoyed reading all of them. I know you'll enjoy, too, reading about the events in the lives of our classmates.

A very inviting and friendly letter to all of us was from Mary Lee Warmer Scott. Mary wrote, "Any class member coming to Farmville—please look us up. We'll give you a guided tour of our expanding campus"; and "although the enrollment has doubled since our graduation, the friendliness and Longwood Spirit still remain an integral part of campus life." Mary is President of the Colonial Club, a group of faculty and administrative wives, women faculty, and staff at Longwood. Also, she has completed requirements for her Master's Degree in education and received her degree in June, 1969. Her husband, Marvin, is Chairman of the Department of Natural Sciences at Longwood. Their daughter, Kathryn (3), keeps Mary busy.

Other classmates have received Master's degrees recently; Jean Cloud did her graduate work in teaching the handicapped, which she now does in Alexandria, Niki Fallis received her Master's degree in guidance and counseling and is, presently, in the Guidance Department at G. W. High School, Danville. Next year she will become Director of Counseling and Testing and Instructor of Education, at Stratford College, Danville.

Also, Jo Savage Orser fulfilled requirements for a Master's in counseling. She has worked part-time; but has enjoyed caring for her son, Stephen Edward, more recently. Jo and her husband, Ed, spent the past year in Tiffin, at Heidelberg College (a small liberal arts co-ed school), where Ed taught. Next year they will move to Baltimore where Ed will be in the American Studies Department at U. of Md. Jo looks forward to getting a bit closer to their families in Va.

Also, away from her "home state" while husband, Jim, gets his Doctors is Linda Poff Wood. Linda keeps busy with their six-year-old son, Scott, in Pullman, Wash.

"Have done quite a bit of moving in the last year," says Shirley Mills Henry. Her husband, Ronnie, flies the F-100, and his stations have had them in Ga., Phoenix, Ariz., and now London, England, where he is at RAF Latenheath. Shirley and two girls, Sharon, 5, and Sheri, 18 months, have traveled to Holland for the tulip festival and have toured London. She expects to go to Italy in September. Shirley asks that if anyone "gets over here," please look us up. She lives about 70 miles north of London at RAF Latenheath, Suffolk, and will be there until October, 1971.

Kackie Turner Marchi and her husband, Dennis, lived and traveled in Germany for three years before he was sent to Vietnam in August, 1967. During this tour of duty, Kackie met him in Hawaii on R & R and had a fabulous time. Kackie and husband are now stationed for a career course at Fort Holabird in Baltimore, Md., and has been reassigned there with the command. Thus, they are building a new home in Craften, Md., where Kackie will teach 4th grade.

Gwendolyn Watkins Pearce says her husband is in Vietnam on his second tour of duty there. She is living in North Little Rock, Ark., until he returns in September, when they expect to move to Fort Benning, Ga.

Shirley Powell McPhillips lived and taught in Fairfax County, Alexandria area until 1968. She and husband, Edward, moved to Tenafly, N. J., where she teaches 5th grade, and Edward is continuing in the acting profession. She and her husband spent one entire summer by touring the British Isles and visiting his homeland. Edward is doing television commercials—"Virginia Slims"—and plays in summer stock in NYC. She reports, "no children yet—one marvelous pedigree Persian Cat."

Molly Lambert is in "the English Department" in Metlakatla High School, Metlakatla, Alaska. She will fly to Va. in June for a vacation and will pack up her car and drive back as far as Prince Rupert. Then ferry to Ketchikan, catch a boat from Ketchikan over to Annetta Island, and then back to Metlakatla, where she will resume her teaching duties for another year!

Another classmate looking forward to a month-long European vacation this year is Sandra Weaver Huff. She and husband both work at Union Carbide, Oak Ridge; Sandra, in biochemistry. In addition, Sandra is Regional Delegate to the State for the Tenn. Mental Health Association's annual meeting. She says she likes her vocation, but is more and more involved in mental health work.

Nancy Pretty Farley is really interested, too, in having a longer news column this year for the Class of '62! She sent me information on several classmates. Nancy is enjoying her new home in Danville. Her daughter, Kathleen Anne, 5, and her son, Michael Ward, 7 months, keep her busy and even more proud of her home.

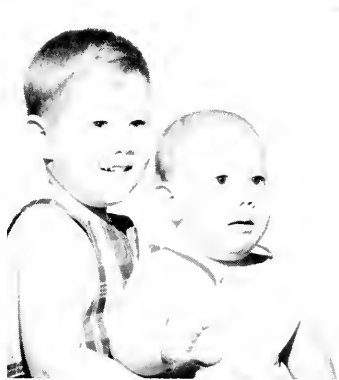

Patsy Skellie Prickett spends her time in Morristown, N. J., caring for her husband, Percy Prickett; son, Steven; and daughter, Jackie. Barbara Cole Payne enjoys housekeeping in Danville for husband Sammy, son, Kirk; and daughter, Deborah Anne. Also in Danville is Carolyn Grinstead Helms. Betsy Hurt Carter ('63) is very busy with her two sons: Bobby, 2, and Bill, 1. Her husband, Bob, is a lawyer in Appomattox. In sunny Fla. with husband, Jim, and two sons: Jeff, 6, and David, 4, is Margaret Hurd Foster. Dottie Nelson Duke lives in Mechanicsville and is busy caring for husband Mac and two daughters: Lisa and Tracy. A son, Hal, and a daughter, Mary Elizabeth, keep Eleanor Bradford Farrington occupied. Eleanor, husband Bill, and children live in Centreville; Ellie Brown Marks stays on the go with daughter, Karen, and son, Robert. She, husband Clyde, and children reside in Lynchburg.

Starting her second year in Okinawa, where husband, J. C., is stationed, is Judy Jones Thaxington ('63). She takes classes in Japanese and Chinese cooking and Japanese flower arrangement, in which she seems to have become quite proficient. In addition, Judy has been part-time teacher and nurses' aide in the Veterans' Hospital.

Diana Snow Campbell taught school for four years before retiring to take care of husband, Mike, and son, Landon, aged 2. After her husband completed graduate work at U. of Va., they moved to Denton, Tex., where Mike teaches history at North Tex. State U.

Pat Williamson Burcher lives in Richmond, staying busy with the Junior Woman's Club and her family. Becky Carpenter Clayton and new husband, Charles, live in Durham, N. C.

For six years Page Tolleson Talley taught school—three years in Orange County Public Schools, teaching English and drama. High school productions directed by Page David, 2½, and Steven, 14 mos., sons of Judy Smith Liles, '62.

Sharon, 5, and Sheri, 11 mos., daughters of Shirley Mills Henry, '62.

Sarah, 18 mos., and Tray, 4, children of Gayle Jones Fears, '62.

were Diary of Anne Frank and The Admirable Crichton which were her favorites. Also, Page became President of the Junior Woman's Club of Orange in February, 1969; and she was voted Outstanding Junior by her club for 1968 and will be listed in Who's Who Among Young Women in America in the 1969 edition. Page will retire soon from teaching, but will have enough "extra" to keep her busy.

Mary Kay Rice Van Hooser taught school for three years in Waynesboro, but is now retired from teaching to care for her two children: Kara (3), and Nathan (1), and husband, Roger. She says, "and love every hectic moment." Also retired from teaching school is Cape Sammis Applegate, but she is busy as a mother and "teacher" of her three girls, ages 5, 3, and 1. Her husband, Jeff, is Field Sales Manager for the David M. Lea Company. Extra activities are spent enjoying the Bon Air Junior Woman's Club. Pat O'Connor Hilliard retired from teaching school temporarily to care for son, Monty, but will return to the Norfolk School System in September. Her husband, Bill, is attending classes at Old Dominion and is employed by Armour and Company. She said, "Most of our time is spent enjoying our son."

Margaret Tatterton Sutton has lived in Williamsburg for the past five years, where she has also taught Home Economics. Her husband, Gene, works for Colonial Williamsburg, Inc. Margaret plans to return to teaching when daughter, Susan (5), and son, Douglas (2), enter school. Jackie Davis Darnell and husband, Howard, live in Richmond.

Agnes Massie Weaver and husband, Carl, both enjoy teaching; she, seventh grade in Henrico County, and he, Virginia Commonwealth University. They have one child, Krieger.

Jerra Barksdale Wise and husband, Jim, are now living in Roanoke, after spending a few years in Tenn. and Mo. Jerra is retiring from teaching to take care of 4-year-old Benne Sylvryn. Active in community events is Brenda Dod Raine. Her first activity is caring for Michaux Raine, IV, age 6, and Susannah R. Raine, age 3. In addition, she does substitute teaching in Rocky Mount where her husband is a partner in a law firm. Brenda teaches Sunday School, helps to gather clothes for the needy in the county, and is now working with an appointed group to start a church (Episcopal) kindergarten for the fall. Some people thrive on work!

Betsy Wilson Price enjoys caring for her home and sons: Scott (2), and Mark Deitrick, 3 months. Betsy says she is looking forward to reading the Alumnae Magazine and all about our classmates.

Pat Sadler Sturgeon has been living in Fla. for two years and loves it. She and husband, Dan, have two robust boys: John (2), and Bob (1).

After teaching school for a short time, Kitty Gilbert Eastridge found she did not care for it. She is now head of the Accounting Department for a law firm in Fairfax. She is proud of her son, Glen P. Eastridge, Jr., (3). Her husband, Glen, is a surveyor for the Va. Dept. of Highways. She would love to hear from anyone in the Fairfax area.

Another new mother is "Betsy" Kelsey Hulvey, who is busy caring for her daughter, Elizabeth Kelsey. Betsy and husband, Tom, lived in Charlottesville while he did a residency in Orthopedic surgery. Betsy worked as a children's librarian in an elementary school in Albemarle County during that time.

Now she and her family live in Abingdon where Tom will begin his private practice at Johnston Memorial Hospital.

Taylor Rowell Barlow sent news of others as well as herself. I like that kind of "newsy" help! Taylor is still teaching the 4th grade in Smithfield. She writes, too, that she was President of the Junior Woman's Club this year. In addition, she reports that Judy Waldo Rhoades has a new son, Forrest Terrence, Jr., and that Susan Bierer Bibb has a new daughter, Diane, Lynn.

Jeanine McKenzie Allen and husband, Lorie, have moved to Charlottesville where he is working on his Master's in Management. She described their daughter, Cheryl, as a good "little helper" now and growing up so fast! Other activities include teaching water colors for fun to neighbors, doing volunteer work at the U. of Va. Hospital, and gardening and sewing.

Gayle Jones Fears' biggest news this year is their move to Fredericksburg where they have bought a new home. Her husband, Stuart, is now Administrative Assistant to Quarles Petroleum, Inc.—a Shell Oil jobber. Gayle has a son, Tray (4), and daughter, Sarah, 18 months old. In addition, she keeps books at home for a nursing home and sings in the Presbyterian Church choir. She and her husband are active in the Jaycees and Jaycees and are extremely happy in their new location.

Thriving on activity and loving it is Virginia Lee Kemp Bauserman. She and husband, Willard, live in Hampton where he is Vice-President and General Manager of the Chamberlain Laundry, Inc. Virginia says her biggest news is son, Willard Andrew, III, who is a pure delight to them. She and her husband enjoy boating and water skiing and also the activities of the Warwick Yacht and Country Club. In addition, Virginia works with the Youth in her neighborhood church, is a member of the Peninsula Alumnae Chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha, and is looking forward to serving as Chairman of the Public Affairs Department for the 1969-70 year for the Colonial Place Junior Woman's Club.

I received also a note from Jane Martin Wood who teaches science at Linkhorn Jr. High in Lynchburg. She and husband, Chip, have recently bought a home in Lynchburg where her husband works for a consulting engineer firm. Also, Jane will attend V.P.I. for a graduate course this summer. In addition, Jane writes that Betty Patteson Monally lives near her and that Betty stays busy with a son and daughter. Ginny Moss George is also busy with her new home and her son and daughter in Lynchburg.

As for me, Judy Smith Liles, I have never been so busy! David, Jr., now 3, can't ask enough questions; and Steven, now 2, can't stay outside and play enough. I enjoy staying home with them and am glad I don't work full time. I do teach night school—short-hand in the Adult Vocational School, Portsmouth, which keeps me up to date. Also, I am President (for the third year) of the Phi Mu Alumnae Chapter here and was voted Outstanding Phi Mu of our local chapter this year. My husband and I both are active in our church. He teaches a Sunday School class, and I am Secretary of our Official Board. David, Sr., is a Nuclear Inspector at the Norfolk Naval Ship Yard, Portsmouth. We spend our summers at the pool or at the beach. Anyone coming to this area, please call or visit us.

I hope that each of you will make it a point to write me each spring to keep me abreast of your news. I welcome each letter and any news of others you may know. Thank you for your cooperation in getting this news.

Madeline MacNeil, '62, during the filming of "Maddie Does Her Thing In Spring" at the Belle Grove estate. For the past year has performed as a professional folksinger at the Wayside Inn in Middletown.

Many thanks to Barbara Ann Cole Payne, Betsy Il'ison Price, Jane Hanger Longacre, Eleanor Bradford Farrington, and Sue Beardmore, who responded to my plea and reported news from the members in their areas of the Class of '62. From them I was able to find out for you what some of our class are doing in Danville, Norfolk, the Peninsula, and the Washington, D. C. area. I wonder what's happening in Richmond, where a number of our classmates seem to be. I'd love to hear from more of you wherever you are.

Barbara Ann Cole Payne returned to teaching last year in the Danville Public Schools. She and Sammy, an industrial engineer for Dan River Mills, have two children: Deborah Ann (3), and Kirk (6).

Others in Danville have retired from teaching. Judy Giles Robertson and Dalton are living on a farm in nearby Pittsylvania County. They have two girls: Robyn (4), and Renee (1), who require Judy's skills as a homemaker and mother. Also practicing those skills is Carolyn Grinstead Helms. She and Vernon, an engineer for Corning Glass, will become parents in September. Glenda Chamberlain Boswell and Martin are in Danville, too, where she is a secretary for the Dean of Instruction at the community college.

In the Norfolk area are Pauline Brightwell VanBeuschten, who has been awarded her Master's degree and has a new son; and Hannah Drummond Burgess. Teaching at Virginia Beach are Emma Critcher Davis, Carolyn Davis Finley, and Trina Childress. Trina will this year be at U. Va., working on her Master's degree. Also at Virginia Beach, but not teaching, is Nancy Wallace Bryant who has two girls: Leigh (7) and Beth (3).

Living on the Peninsula are some new mothers; in Newport News is Jane Hanger Longacre who has a one-year-old son, Chuck, and a new house; Liz Eller Underwood, living in Franklin, has a new daughter, Ann Nelson.

From the Washington, D. C. area I found that Sandie Farish Green, Nancy Huffaker Floyd, and Jean Cloud are residing in Alexandria. Sandie and Cliff have started a home decorating and remodeling business after receiving many compliments and inquiries about their own home. In addition to that enterprise and caring for her son and daughter, Sandie is also raising toy poodles. After a year in Fla., Nancy and Bill returned to Alexandria where he is a management intern at the Office of Education, and Nancy is the Staff Assistant for Information and Research at the American Association of Junior Colleges, in Washington. Jean, after a summer of traveling, will be teaching third grade this fall at Rolling Valley School in Fairfax County. This year Jean will not be teaching physically handicapped children as before, but I understand she is still helping others.

Also in that area is Eleanor Bradford Farrington and her family in Centreville. From Eleanor I heard that Marge Freese Steinkne and Dick are in Lynchburg and have two children: Suzanne and Keith.

From Sue Beardmore, who is in Arlington and teaching eighth grade U. S. History, I received news about others in the area. Pat Hickey Masri and Sid are living in Annandale and have a son, David (1).

Speaking of Annandale, Winnie Egolf McCuan, expecting her first child in July, returned to the U. S. in May from Tripoli, Libya. Mary Leach Elmore also will return to Fairfax County, after having been awarded her Master's degree in remedial reading from the U. Va.

Elsewhere, Lois Peters Meredith and Sid are living in Omaha, Neb. They have a son, Michael (1). In Cal. are Judy Detrich Brown and Dennis, who have been moving around quite a bit. At the time this letter had to be written, they were in San Francisco, with an aquarium and two cats. Judy had just finished teaching English to eleven hard-core, unemployed men from minority groups. At that time their plans for fall were uncertain, with Dennis considering work on his doctor's degree at Penn or Syracuse. We hear that Jackie Poole Perez also is in Monrovia, Cal. Marian Meyer Brown and Charlie and their three children have moved to Richmond. Judy Jones Tharrington ('63) and J. C. were in Okinawa the last I heard, from where J. C. was periodically being sent to Vietnam. Sue Caravella Peterson and Bradley may be in Germany where she was hoping they'd be sent.

Well, that's it (thanks to my help!) from the A's to the I's for the Class of '62. Even with more news this time, you can no doubt think of people you'd like to know about. We'd like to know too! If you will remember us and spread the word, maybe next year we'll have news of everybody. Don't forget to send us your new address, if you haven't told us. Oh, Buddy and I (Peggy Green Olney) have moved to Hillsborough, N. C., where Buddy is the minister at the Presbyterian church. Our one-year-old girl, Stacey, is keeping me busy—but not so busy I don't want to hear from you. We were happy to be able to get together this year with Ann Howell Griffin and Bill in nearby Cary, N. C. Ann received her Master's degree in biology from the U. of N. C., while Bill did his work at N. C. State. They plan to return to Richmond in the fall, where Ann will probably teach.

Robyn, 4, and Renee, 7 mos., children of Judy Giles Robertson, '62.

Right: Henry Latham Hodges, III, "Hank", son of Ann Greene Hodges, '63.

Keaton Holland Garber has one boy, Sandy, and is expecting in October. I (Sue Caravella Petersen) saw Patti Barnes Wood and children, Margaret and Ken, this May. She has been taking portrait painting lessons and has many other "homey" projects under way.

Nan McLaughlin McVey has three boys now—the third addition arrived this spring. Betty Pattenon McNally has a boy and a girl. Taylor Russell Barlow and husband, Bill, are thinking about a move to Richmond. They are now in Smithfield where Taylor teaches, and Bill practices law.

In April, Ginger Culpepper Alexander wrote that she and son Tony would be visiting with her parents in Valdosta, Ga. (2 hrs. from Ft. Rucker where we are). I had a nice one day visit while they were there. (Ginger and husband Charles live in Roanoke.)

Nancy Wishart Langdon, husband Grant, and three children are living on a large dairy farm in Copake, N. Y.

Brad and I are now at Ft. Rucker, Ala. He returned from Vietnam in Oct.; then we went to Luxembourg, Germany, Ireland, and Austria for a vacation.

The response to 1969 news requests was terrific! So—here goes with a potpourri of Green-and-White activities and whereabouts:

First of all Margaret Vaughan, a most faithful correspondent, wrote during the Christmas holidays with news of many classmates. Elaine Lohr Alfano and husband Tommy have two children and have recently built a new home in Ashland. Tinsley Crump Preston lived at home and taught in Henrico County while Pat served in Vietnam; they planned to be in Norfolk after February. Rosilyn Wright is working in a library in Portsmouth. Jane Witten Goller, husband Manny, and their two children are in Richmond. Jerry Clarke Chaney, husband Bill, and daughter Kelly are returning to civilian life this summer and hope to settle near Kenbridge. Anne Peters Troisno and her husband live in Lake Katrine, N. Y., and expected a baby in April. By the way, Margaret is teaching in Loudoun County and hoped to complete her Master's in math this summer.

Dudley Brooks Buck and her husband both work at the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center in Staunton and plan to enroll at UVA in the fall; they have no children, but plan to breed their Afghan Hound and begin a kennel soon. Pat Sweeney Slaughter and Lewis have been in Waynesboro for six years and love it; he is plant superintendent at Reynolds Metals, and son Steve starts to school in the fall. Also in Waynesboro are Ellie Bogan Woosley, husband Larry, and new daughter Cameron; Ellie taught fifth grade for three years and planned to teach an afternoon kindergarten class this fall. Carolyn Buscemi Miller, attorney Phil, and their two children live in Staunton.

Retired from teaching is Rose Pettit Noyes after the December arrival of Catherine Atwood; Ned is still with DelMonte in Roanoke and they spend their time antique hunting and water skiing. Rose wrote also that Gari Dickson Laird and David have moved from their farm and are buying a house in Richmond. Susan Lane Foard and Bob are glad to be back in Roanoke; little Beverly Anne arrived on March 5, but Susan manages to continue work on her Master's through a National Science Foundation grant. Betty Chappell Wallace, Ed, and little Terry Glenn have also settled in Roanoke after three years with the Army; Ed is practicing dentistry there.

Busily taking care of year-old Billy and teaching in the Adult Education Program is Ellen Brady Brohard; they are living in Annandale. Ellen had seen Carol Hall Lukens, who is living in Norristown, Pa., while Horace finishes school. She told also of the birth of a second son, Andrew Carlton, to Joyce Outland Bradt in March.

Mary Warren Hof enjoyed teaching in Okinawa last year, but she is now a happy bride in Arlington; she and Bill are both teaching and working on Master's degrees. Frieda Boykin Cathey is President of the Junior Woman's Club of McLean this year, and Tom is an electrical engineer with Control Data Corporation; they returned to Va. in January, 1968, after living in Cal.

Small town life is "agreeing tremendously" with Janice Harris Overbey and lawyer Buck; both have Scout troops, and Janice is teaching and working with the church, garden club, sorority, etc. She wrote also about Kay Nottingham Lee's first child, a daughter, and Carol Nye Parod's first daughter after two sons. Betsy Hurt Carter, Bob and their two sons moved to Appomattox last year; he is a lawyer and Betsy is a busy housewife. Nell Martin Jones is delighted with Harold Lewis, Jr., who was born only a month after the class Reunion last year. Nell substituted for Jane Bowling Mays when Jane's new daughter, Michelle Lynne, was born in April. Ellen Terry Tunnicliff's serviceman husband is still stationed in Hawaii, and she and little Lisa Jo love it there.

Cathy Atkins Traylor wrote about her wonderful new husband. They are living in Petersburg and both work for Allied Chemical. Rebecca Rountree Webb is teaching in Colonial Heights and looked forward to a two-month tour of Europe this summer. Sarah Decker Johnson and Walter have lived in Tex., Ala., and Fla., but hope they are now permanently settled in Fredericksburg; Walter is an Eastern pilot who flies out of Washington. Their two daughters often play with Ann Shoua Rose's three-year-old Chris.

Joyce Dunkley Brinkley, her husband, and son Mark are living in Suffolk. They have just built a new home, and Joyce is teaching in a private school. Nelda McPherson Emert's husband is a state trooper in Stafford County, and she taught first grade until little Chris was born in December. Courtney Douell Mann and Page are living in Williamsburg where he works for Dow-Badische. She had news of Hattie Lasley Palmer, who has moved to Valparaiso with husband Harvey and their year-old son; Hattie formerly worked in Washington and in Burma.

Marilyn Miller Oates writes that she taught for nearly five years and that Robb was "finally" born in November. Marilyn lives in Chesapeake and often sees Libby Lee Beale at sorority alumnae meetings. Libby and Jack Beale are teaching at Indian River High School. Also in Chesapeake are Shirley Russell Alexander, husband Gilbert, and their two children; the family often goes along when he travels as a government engineer, and they visited Cal., N. Y., Md., Ala., and Ga. last year. Sue Wilhelm Nichols' husband is Director of Testing, Guidance and Research for Chesapeake Public Schools. They and their two children will be in Charlottesville next year while he works on his Doctorate.

Joyce Powell Still is busy with three-year-old Michael and Patrick, who was born in April. Bill is working on his Master's at William and Mary, and Joyce is a precinct leader and secretary of the City Republican Committee.

Salle Sims Jones and Harry spent four years with the Air Force in Fla., and have since been in graduate school at UVA; Sally finished in January and Harry will be through in August. She wasn't sure where they would be next year. Barbara Moyer Willis was also in Charlottesville for the summer while her husband taught history. Mary Lou Plunkett Howerton and Ben plan to be in Charlottesville for at least two more years while he completes work on his Doctorate. Ben is now principal of Johnson School, takes graduate courses at night, and has taught UVA extension courses; Mary Lou has temporarily retired to care for Benny, III, born in April, 1968.

In the Farmville area are Jane Anthony Crawley, Bill, and kindergarten Terry. Bill is in the tobacco business, and Jane works at Longwood. Rose wrote that Susan Harwood Paul's second daughter was born in January. Barbara Gray Martin Robinson and Don will go into the veal calf business at Dalshep Farm in Cartersville this fall; Beegie still finds time to teach at the high school there, and Don will be teaching and coaching at Fluvanna this year. Betty Boyd Riggs, whose address we do not have, wrote that she is still teaching and that Larry has accepted a varsity basketball job for next year.

In Charlotte, N. C., are Sherrill Hadlow Suiter and Joyce Candiff Highsmith. Sherrill, Roger, and four-year-old Steven Scott have been there for three years; he is a chemist with ICI America, and Sherrill planned to do some tutoring in September. She wrote that Peggy Hughes Johnson, husband Larry, and their two children are in Knoxville and that Judy Pollard Hawthorne is active in Richmond community affairs. Judy and Walter have a son and a daughter. Joyce and Bill Highsmith are the proud parents of their first son, William Cochran, III, born this spring; she was eager to see all the changes at Longwood when her younger sister graduated this year. Joyce had also heard from Signe Young Marchal in Waynesboro; Signe is President of the Junior Women's Club, and Doug heads the Jaycees there. Carol Buckner Brown and Jay have just built a new home in Plymouth, N. C., where Jay works with the Weyerhaeuser Paper Company; Carol stays on the run with Michael (6), Becky (4) and newborn Keith. Nancy Hague Ragsdale's Bill graduated from Duke Divinity School and is associated with the First United Methodist Church in Hickory, N. C.; they have been married for six years and have a boy and girl. Nancy said that Betty Lee Doggett is still teaching in Richmond and that Dianne Wade Hierholzer planned to move to Charlotte in June, 1969.

Ann Greene Hodges and Rusty have certainly had an exciting year! Since their wedding in August last year, they have bought a new home in Columbia and are bursting with excitement about the baby expected in August, 1969. Rusty is teaching under the NROTC program at the U. of S. C., and Ann is decorating the house and playing bridge and golf. She said the world really seemed small when she ran into Nancy Hood Fagaldi there in Columbia; Hood's husband is stationed at Fort Jackson and they have two boys. Completing a two-year tour of duty in Charleston, S. C., are Naval Officer John and Charlene Owen McKay. Charlene has enjoyed meeting his ship in Montreal and in the Caribbean and now looks forward to moving cross country with new John, III, to their next assignment in Monterey, Cal.

Despite the pressures of her own thesis and Randy's written exams for his Doctorate, Bobbi Goodman Fitzgerald in Athens, Ga., certainly manages to keep up with many classmates! She had seen Becky Brebb Taylor ('62) and found they were also living in Athens; they have one son, and husband Joe was to graduate from the school of Veterinary Medicine this June. Wanda Barnett Bell ('64), Billy, and their little boy are in Atlanta, where Wanda works for the Civil Rights Division of the Anti-Defamation League. Bobbi had also seen Donna Frantzen Kramer and Jerry and said Donna was working at UVA. She often talks to and sees Brenda Smith Grieves who, along with husband Bob, is constantly expanding their wig business. They have opened new outlets in Charlotte, Key West, Fla., and even in Puerto Rico.

Carol Gregory wrote from Fort McClellan, Ala., where she was in training as a protocol escort for the Army. She was excited about plans for an August wedding and expected to be in Salt Lake City, Utah, during the next year while Steve serves with the Army in Vietnam. Shelby Lucy Hawthorne and Billy have been at the U. of Tenn. in Knoxville for the past three years; she has completed a Master's in math, and he is working on a Doctorate. They have one daughter, Alice Michel.

A newsy letter came from Melinda W'alker Edwards; they are living in Reisterstown, Md., where Wally works for the McCormick spice firm. Melinda taught in Baltimore County until little Carter Randolph was born in November, 1968. She had seen Judy Frye Shroder, Margaret McCue Hutchinson, and Callie Foldesi Carruba. She said that Judy Bright Munson and Tom were living in Newport News and expected their first child in November. Bobbi Loh O'Brien, Michael, and their two children are living in Mt. Prospect, Ill. Diane Whitley Spazak, John, and their year-old son planned to move to a new home in Bel Air, Md., by August. Becky Reamy Bickenstaff and Robert "have an adorable little house in the country" near Wilmington, Del.; Robert is a research engineer for DuPont, and Becky gave up teaching to care for David Christopher who was born in December. She sent news of Shirley Moody Wells who is working on a Master's at UVA.

Roberta Cobb Woolridge works with W. E. Hutton and Co. on Wall Street, and husband Ed is the Chief Dental Officer at Governor's Island, N. Y. Cindy Gay Reardon has one daughter, Cathy, and expects another child in November; they are living in Hathorne, Mass., while her husband finishes his Master's and then hopes to return to Va. She wrote that Weezie Powell is teaching at Virginia Beach and that she sometimes sees Lucy Swink Damiani in Burlington, Mass. They have two children, and Roland coaches and teaches at Lexington High while Lucy tutors in math three nights a week.

Jean Lowry Fuller and Walter were married in January, 1969, and are living in the Kansas City area; she expected to receive her Master's from the U. of N. M. in June. Jean also wrote that Betty Jones Prince has a daughter, born in August, 1968. John and Alice White Trainer have been in Okla. since 1967, and John is working on a Doctorate in parasitology at the University; Alice has a Master's in cytogenetics and has been working in cancer research, but planned to resign in August when their first child is expected. Pam Bullen Warden, Jim, and their two children are back in Cal. after two years in Japan, and Jim is doing surgical residency at the Naval Hospital in San Diego.

News of Annice Bailey Schuler came all the way from Venezuela, where Bill works for Creole Petroleum. She planned to travel with her three children to Norfolk in July to attend her high school class reunion and hoped to see many Longwood friends then.

Our beloved Charlie Hop wrote of his trip to Longwood for Founders Day, 1969, and of his delight in having the Student Building named for him. He sent his best wishes to all and would love to hear from everyone:

Mr. R. H. French

Bill and I are very happy to be home again in Charleston where he is associated with the brokerage firm of Wheat and Company. I have retired from teaching, but am sure that Rendy the Weimaraner and getting settled in a new home will keep me more than busy.

Why didn't we hear from YOU? Please keep the Alumnae Office informed of your current address—and be planning for Founders Day, 1973!

Our fifth class reunion in March proved to be very successful as 47 of our classmates returned to the Longwood campus amid remarks of "How good you look!", "My, hasn't the campus changed?" and "Would you like to see some pictures of my family?"

Pat Soret Smith had a baby boy, Mason Soret, in January. Because of the increase in their family, the Smiths moved to a larger home where Pat planned to retire from teaching for several more years. Last summer they visited the Washington area and talked with Edwyna McMullen who married James Scott Wingo last fall and is continuing her nursing career.

Joan Perry Brock stays busy with her two girls, part-time bookkeeping, and tutoring. She and Macon see Lynne Osteen Beale and Bill often. Lynne is teaching and living in Norfolk where Bill is with IBM. The Beales and the Brocks visited Nancy Burke Hefflin and Roger who live in Portsmouth where Nancy teaches and Roger is with C & P.

Having received her M.A. degree in French at the U. of Ky, Ginny Sturm will be teaching in Paris this year. She planned to spend some time this summer with Mary Ann Liford Reynolds who is presently working for John Kenneth Galbraith in Cambridge, Mass. Mary Ann is expecting her first child this fall.

Patsy Williams Hamrick reports that Dave has retired from teaching and is now a computer programmer for Carolina Power and Light Co., in Garner, N. C. Their son, Heath, is 2. Carolyn Munt Thacker is expecting her second child in December. She reports that Donna Arnold married in August, 1968.

See Moseley Whorton's husband, Jim, has received a Ph.D. in History of Science, and they have moved to Seattle where Jim is doing post doctoral work at the U. of Wash. on a grant from the Macy Foundation. Sue is retiring from teaching.

Betty Ann Rex Spiers is living in Morgantown, W. Va., where she and her husband are both working on their Master's degree in Music Education at WVU. Judy Beck Simmons and Bob have settled in a new home in Waynesboro where he is a Design Engineer with DuPont. Judy is busy with their son, Scott, neighborhood coffee gatherings, and bridge, while awaiting the arrival of their second child in July. Ginny Summers Chiostergi has moved from Waynesboro to Wilmington, Del., where Bob is in the Technical Service division of DuPont. This past year Ginny did substitute teaching (or babysitting, as Ginny put it) in everything from 4th grade to French and higher math.

Marjorie Twilley McDonald sent her news from Wiesbaden, Germany, and says that, when she and Peter return to the States the first of the year, they should bring a little 6-month-old bundle of joy. Meantime they spent last Christmas in Spain and a weekend in May among the millions of tulips and spring flowers in Holland. During her 6th month of pregnancy Marie ventured off with a Wife's Club group on a three-day cruise of the islands of Greece and four days in Athens. She reports that the food on the ship (7-course meals twice a day), riding donkeys to the outlying areas of the islands, and exploring the ruins and sites made famous by the Greek dramas, were highlights of the tour—especially for a pregnant woman!

Myrtle Thomas Duck had another boy in March, '69; this kept her from coming to the reunion. Katie Wood Chamberlin had her third girl in as many years; so they now have one blonde, one redhead, and one brunette. She and Ashby planned to spend the summer weekends at their cottage on the Potomac River; so she boned up on her swimming by taking a course at the Y this past winter.

Wanda Robertson Miller retired from teaching for a year and traveled through Europe with Susan McKown Fowlkes ('67). They were following their husbands who were attached to the air wing on the carrier Forrestal. They got in touch with Jerry Bullock Hand ('66) who is in Germany.

Barbara Sours Welch who lives in Melbourne, Fla., is busy with Kim, her 2-year-old daughter, and Doug, who was born in February, '69. She and Denny bought a sailboat last year and planned to race it this summer. Barbara says they had an enjoyable visit from Merle Talley last fall. Toni Raymond Gardy has joined the ranks of the retired teachers and is enjoying Suffolk where Jeff is practicing law.

Judy Pantrea Stone visited in Norfolk last Easter and saw Doris Harrison. She spends her time taking care of Ken, who is a sales engineer for Trane Air Conditioning; Kimberly, age 2; and Spencer, who is 9 months old. In her spare time she is tutoring remedial reading at home, needle-pointing, dining room chair seats, toile painting, and decoupage.

Among those in Richmond are Pat Brooks, Linda Everly, and Betsy MacCorkle who are sharing an apartment. Betsy and Linda are still teaching while Pat is working on her Master's degree at VCU. Joyce Waldburger Greenwell is also in Richmond, teaching at Tucker High School where she is literary sponsor of the yearbook and does the choreography for the spring musical. Her husband, John, graduated from the U. of R. in August, 1968, and they treated themselves to a trip to London, Paris, and Amsterdam.

Expecting their second child in October, Betty Thompson Gibbs said that she, husband Don, and son Scott planned to travel to Winnipeg, Canada, this summer while they are still living at Grand Forks AFB, N. D., where Dan is a pilot. Barbara Poland Raine is expecting her first child in October. Dudley will finish his GP Residency in June, 1970, and they planned to travel through Ariz., N. M., Yellowstone, and Grand Tetons

Parks via campgrounds this summer. Barbara did substitute teaching in the Denver public schools last year.

Rowena Yates is teaching at Lynn Junior High School in Woodbridge. Phyllis Matheis Groves lives in Natural Bridge where she will teach 3rd grade. Gary is on the administrative staff of James Lee's Carpets in Glasgow. Joy Smith McCool is busy with Mike (3) and Ann who was a year old in April. She and Don moved into a new home in Springfield last Christmas.

Mary Kay Orr received her M.S. in Education with a major in guidance and a minor in business education from Madison College in August, '68. She is teaching at Stafford Senior High School in Falmouth where she is the chairman of the Business Department, Senior Class Guidance Counselor, SCA Advisor, and Director of Student Activities. Judy Garnett Howe ('64x) and her family have bought a farm in Chesterfield County, outside of Richmond. Before leaving Ill., Judy modeled for a Panhellenic Fashion Show and also for the Newcomer's Club. She is busy sewing for her daughters Jill (4) and Suzannah (2). Judy says she has discovered the joy—fattening though it may be—of baking all the bread for her family.

Alta Stricklin George has moved back to Albuquerque where she stays at home with her year-old son Mike. Also staying at home with her son Chris is Rena Weld Wheeler whose husband John teaches speech at Marshall U. in Huntington, W. Va. Marie Murphy Garrett has become an assistant professor of English at Patrick Henry College of UVA in Martinsville where she has found the teacher's dream—12 hours of classes per week with a weekend that begins at 1 P.M. on Thursday, and composition classes that have only from 8 to 15 students!

Sue Spelman Elliott has received her Master's degree, and Rob has passed the V.A. Bar Exam. The Elliots have moved to Virginia Beach where Sue is a reading teacher while Rob practices law and attends Old Dominion College, working on his MBA.

Priscilla Sallé Condyles lives in Royal Oak, Mich., where Ed is with M.O.N.Y. in Detroit. Pris had plans to teach or work on her Master's at the U. of Mich. Bonnie Underwood Robertson reports that she is busy raising dogs, gardening, and working 120 acres of soy beans, and caring for her daughters Elizabeth (4) and Sharon (1).

Stuart King Flowers, who is teaching at Prince George High School, was elected President of the Colonial Heights Jaycees for this year and was the recipient of an award for her activities in the Jaycees during the past year. Her daughter, Jennifer, was 3 in May. After having taught 5th grade in Richmond for the past 2 years, Linda Nelson Ellington has retired to await arrival of her first child in October. Her husband Pete will graduate from VCU in June, 1970, where he is majoring in secondary education. Barbara Ramsey Conner was expecting her first child in June and retired from teaching in January, 1969.

Anne Lawrence Elmes and her family are still in Lexington where David teaches at W & L. This past summer he was director for National Science Foundation research. They have moved to a big old house between two fraternity houses; this Ann says, "has been loads of fun." Shelby Webb Rogers has moved to Reston where Jim is with Computer Response Corp. in Washington, D. C. Shelby plans to stay busy with two-year-old Jennifer and doing Junior League work as a provisional member in D. C.

While Jim attends Bradley U. in Peoria, Ill., doing graduate work in speech and drama, Joan Pritchett Pirkle plans to teach in the public schools there. Ella Louise Roster Thomas is teaching Home Economics in Brevard, County, Fla., and says she has seen many of the Apollo launches. This summer they planned to enjoy the many beaches around Patrick AFB.

Joan Voliva Kerns is teaching World History at Bayside Junior High School where she is chairman of the Social Studies Department. Nancy Hovey-King Morris is in Portland, Ore., where John is a supervisor in data control for Pacific Power and Light. They keep busy with their two girls, a dog and a cat, and square dance activities. Pam Croy is living in Pearisburg where she is a guidance counselor and sponsor of the cheerleaders at Giles High School. This last year she was honored by having the yearbook dedicated to her. Pam spent much of her time this last summer as Giles County campaign manager for William Battle. Lois Obenshain is teaching P.E. at Stonewall Jackson Jr. High in Roanoke. She recently visited with Shirley Metcalf Jenkins and Charlie in Newport News; they have a little girl one-year-old.

I manage to stay busy with Cathy, our 15-month-old daughter, and we are now waiting the arrival of our second child who is expected at any time. Last summer Johnny and I took a week "away from it all" at Myrtle Beach while Grandmother Combs babysat for us as she did again in the fall so that we could go to New York City for a few days. It was good hearing from all of you. Many thanks to all of you who contributed to our postage fund which will enable us to contact you for several more years. Please don't hesitate to send your news at any time and do encourage those you didn't read about to let us know what they are doing. Now, for Barbie's news.

Wasn't our Founders Day "Reunioning" fun! Nearly fifty of your '64 classmates donned their best (minus hats?) and returned to the campus, where it seemed as if we'd never left. Old times and new baby pictures were swapped with pride. To quote your retiring secretary, Evelyn, "seeing how attractive my classmates were, more so than in '64, made me feel less that the quarter-century hump of youth had taken all charm with it." Receiving your letters this spring has been more fun as Carol and I begin serving as your "gossip gatherers." Seriously, a lot of wonderful things have been going on among our classmates this year. Trips and babies seem to tip the scales.

Carolyn Anderson Coleman is teaching kindergarten in Appomattox while Dan is serving in Vietnam. When he returns this summer, Carolyn will meet him with their new daughter who was born in January. She and Dan met in Hawaii this spring for R & R. Bobbie Cadow Rutherford keeps active with two young sons and planning trips. Their family will spend a week in June at Ocean City, and she and Woody have already made reservations for a trip to Bermuda in April, 1970. She had a visit from Linda Everly this spring. Linda is in Richmond, sharing an apartment with Betsy MacCorkle and Pat Brooks.

Jeanette Elder Crosswhite's husband, Dean, is a math professor at East Tenn. State U. in Johnson City, where she teaches music education and piano at Milligan College. She says they "met last summer and didn't waste any time!" Dana Brewer Nigaglioni and Ruben have just finished their first year of teaching at the Catholic U. of Puerto Rico. Ruben teaches in the law school and is also establishing his own practice. Dana teaches world history classes in Spanish! They look forward to a long vacation in Va. this June as well as to a reunion with several classmates. Jeannie Kafer is anticipating a European trip in September and plans to spend some time in the Rhine River area. She and Rowena Yates plan to attend Betty Ann Rex's wedding in June. Jeannie writes that Betty Howard Hutchinson still loves gardening, looking after Andy, teaching at the Country Day School in Leesburg, and her job as church organist.

Judith Hackney Peay combines her love of homemaking and an interest in community improvement in West Point, where she is currently working with the Jaycees, trying to establish a town-sponsored summer recreation program. She is also active with the Junior Woman's Club and says she often feels like the town "radical." Susan Brittingham Beasley will work next fall with the Developmental Reading Program at Maury High School in Norfolk. She will have a busy year, serving as President of the Norfolk Sigma Kappa Alumnae Chapter, Chairman of the Sub-Advisory Council for the faculty, and as a representative to the Association of Classroom Teachers. She expects a visit from Emily Bonney Friedrich in August. Community involvement also finds Evelyn Gray Harris doing volunteer work for the Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, for she is quite committed to the need in this area. She and her husband took a trip to Columbus, Miss., through the backwoods of Ala. and Miss. This spring she has been diligently making a bridesmaid dress for Betty Ann's wedding.

Lynn McCutchen Thomas and Jimmy went on a cruise to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and St. Thomas last August, a trip Jimmy won in a National Ford Sales Contest. How lucky! And congratulations, Lynn, on being listed in the 1968 editions of "Outstanding Young People of the South" and "The Register of Prominent Americans." Lynn was disappointed in not being able to attend Founders Day, but the birth of a son, Scott, kept her away. Janet Lacy Martin was also deterred by the birth of her third child, Andrew, that weekend. She and her family have made a 1,300-mile move to a suburb of Minneapolis, Minn. Peggy Jenkins Layne is spending the summer in Nashville, Tenn., where Tommy is taking extra hours at George Peabody College for his Master's degree. Cynthia Alcock Rizzo and Joseph are taking an eight-month jaunt to the U. of Neb. where he will continue his studies. She writes that Nora Lee Haller Gulbicki is now living in N. J. where her husband is with the New York City division of the FBI. Paula Kirby Blundell has also moved back to N. J. where she enjoys "playing homemaker and mother" to her new daughter Karyn, born last November. Cindy Davenport Eberwine is thrilled to be back in Va. where husband John is managing the farms for Eberwine Brothers in Nansemond County. She urges us "to buy lots of spinach." Cindy sends pictures of her two children. Carol Benton Robinson and Bobby are enjoying gardening. Carol hopes to receive her Master's degree in June, 1970.

Traveling extensively last year in Taiwan, India, Bangkok, Hong Kong, and Japan, Susan Boatwright Kelley is staying home in Okinawa this year to care for their new son, Paul Edward. She plans to teach again in September and to return to the States in June, 1970, to work on her Master's degree, while Paul is in Vietnam.

Barbara Hewitt will teach in Colonial Heights again next year but plans to take off the first semester to receive certification in school librarianship at V.C.U. Mary Iva Cook Jones has been teaching math at Tucker High School where she coached the High School Bowl team on to become the champions. After teaching at Collegiate this summer, she plans to retire and become a full-time housewife. Retiring to the home front seems to be what many of us have already done. Anne Downey Brockenbrough reported at Founders Day that she has retired to care for their new son, Jimmy. Barbie Dorn Fosnocht, Bruce, and Susan—17-month-old daughter—have moved to Reston, one of the model cities which Barbie says is quite lovely. Bruce is now Project Manager of General Technologies Corporation. Sandy Cowab Pemberton and Charlotte McClung Holmes are both in the process of furnishing and decorating new homes. Sandy taught home ec. last year in Martinsville "under ideal surroundings." Charlotte sent an adorable picture of daughter Cheryl. Please, girls, send black and white pictures if possible, as the color photos are not accepted for the magazine. Charlotte and her family are looking forward to a week at Myrtle Beach this summer with Melanie Wilkes Byrd and Frank. Martha Rowe Bryant Croft keeps busy with two children, bridge, and crewel work in South Hill. They are planning a trip to Ft. Lauderdale this summer. Gail Jones Brandt keeps busy with her two children, but took time off to attend Founders Day!

The newest arrival for the year is the son of Mary Ann Debnam Eure and Jack. David was born on May 31. Mary Ann also has a daughter, Ann Dalton. Jack is still at Parris Island, S. C., but they hope to return to Va. next year. Jean Bristow Venable has completed her degree at V.C.U. and is now working on her Master's. She and her two daughters live in Richmond where Jean teaches second grade. Sylvia Jennings Henderson and Glen live in Richmond, and she will teach in Chesterfield County. I found Kathy Shelton Koch in my Junior Woman's Club. She, Buddy, and daughter Laura have a new home in Richmond. Kathy too has retired to take up the life of homemaker and mother. This is still my chief occupation. I, Barbie Fields Lucord, have two sons: Bruce (4) and Mark Robert (2). Buddy and I managed to get away for a honeymoon cruise to Nassau last summer.

Daughters of Bonnie Underwood Robertson, '64, Elizabeth, four, and Sharon, one.

I, Marcia Hynes Amos, am taking it upon myself once again to give the news, i.e. gossip, of the class of '65. I am just sorry more girls have not written me information.

Most of my tidbits come from the D. C.-Northern Va. area. I attended the wedding in April of Pam Gustafson to Art Spencer (who works with my husband in Washington). It was a beautiful day and the bride was lovely. A wedding breakfast was held after the 10 a.m. service. Amy Haley Watkins was there from Halifax County. She has two children and plans to teach this fall.

Cot Sykes (Pam's former roommate) was unable to attend because she was at a conference in N. C. She plans to go to school this summer then to travel to Hawaii to visit Betty Wright Allman and her husband, Steve, who are living in our 50th state. Sandra Craig Rowe (who was in Hawaii in Jan.) is waiting for Art's June return from Vietnam; she's presently living with her parents in Roanoke as is Carolyn Anderson Coleman ('64) whose husband is also in Vietnam.

Lynn Guerin Johnson was in Hawaii in December. She's working part-time and waiting for Tony's return from his 2nd Vietnam tour. She's in Ga. with her family, but they plan to move West when Tony returns. Sarah Jane Lynch has remarried and is living in Wash. State. Barbara Jo Crumley Bunch and her husband, Allen, have moved into a new home in Highland Springs. B. J. has a summer job, and is busy home decorating and gardening. "Sissy" Shute McClellan and George are in Alexandria where they both teach. Their summer plans include beach and mountain vacations. I received a note from Susan Ribble Pratt who is now living in Gaithersburg, Md., after a move from Eure, Pa. Susan is interested in hearing about Longwood functions in the D. C. area.

Dixie Grant writes from her new address in Spartanburg, S. C., where she will begin work at Spartanburg College this fall. She is ending 2 years as Dean of Women at Isothermal Community College. This past summer she was at Blue Mt. Camp in Pa. and promised to visit me on her way north. She also writes that Joyce Neal is alive and well in Charlotte, and Bobbi Rice is off to Germany for 2 years.

I hear that Jeri Rauls Speers ('66) is in Richmond, and Milly Woodward is working in Md. Mary Jane Brittingham Bill and Fred will be leaving Richmond when Fred graduates from dental school. Bonnie Ramey Shurley is in Virginia Beach, and Cor tells me she saw Ann Gordon Hueston. Scotty Whitehead Baker, and Nancy Connell McCaw ('64) at Susan Hawks' wedding.

My sister just completed her freshman year at Longwood, and I have enjoyed visiting the campus again and hearing about it in her letters. We took her back after spring vacation, and I was able to visit Mrs. Baber and introduce her to my 2-year-old son, Bill. He had a grand time, running back and forth over Chi in front of Wheeler! Mrs. Baber had been quite ill this winter but was looking very well when we visited in March. She misses us and wants to see a big turnout for our 5th year reunion coming up in 1970. Please come.

And also—drop me a line—don't be the disappearing class of 1965! Now for news from Betty Wright Allman.

I, Betty Wright Allman, am now living in Hawaii where my husband, Steve is stationed aboard a nuclear submarine. Have seen several classmates during the year and would like to report what I can. Mamie Payne Maxwell is living in Cincinnati where her husband, Bob, is a lawyer. My mother sent me a newspaper clipping of Kay Cobb Grizzard's wedding. They are in Richmond. Sarah Jane Lynch Kenyon and husband, Jerry, vacationed in Hawaii during August. We did enjoy seeing them and touring the island, and of course talking over some of the "ole college days"! We played "remember when" on such important issues as circus skits, painting the bell, water pageants, hiding from Mrs. Overton, feathers in the Rotunda, our version of "Gangrene" at the song contest, sneak-day, and going down to the college shop for a beer-err... coke!! Both husbands wondered when we found time to study... good question, huh?? Also in August Tod Sykes came over for a visit. She had just finished her third summer of Master's degree work at Duke. Tod's teaching in the D. C. area and is tooling around in a new Firebird. She and Mary Jane Brittingham Bell spent a day at Virginia Beach this summer, and it seems that Mary Jane and Fred are back in Churchland where Fred is doing intern work in dentistry at Norfolk General Hospital. Pat Rowe is teaching in San Diego this year. Norita Sizer has seen her name on a register book at the Volcanoes National Park Headquarters! She had been there the day before, and I spied the Richmond, Virginia, address. Hope Marcy comes up with some more news from her area, I'm sort of out of touch with Longwood out here. Aloha!

First of all, thanks to all the members of the Class of '67 who sent such interesting letters.

In Central Va. we find Patricia Barnes McGuire, living in Hopewell and teaching in Colonial Heights. Sandra Franklin Williams, who has been teaching in Colonial Heights, will soon be moving with her husband Mark to Memphis, Tenn. Joyce Albro worked this year as a caseworker at the Richmond Welfare Department and hopes to enter VCU, in September, for graduate work in psychology. Susanne Crisp Tweed plans to continue as food service instructor at Bon Air School for Girls in Richmond. Susanne tells us that the very first food service class at the school was recently graduated.

From Springfield in Northern Va., we received a very informative letter from Pat Finn Graves who had news about several members of the Class of '67. First, Pat told about her "Christmas(y)" wedding on December 21, 1968, when she became Mrs. Michael Graves. Girls in our class who were in the wedding were Nancy Fey Futch, Cheryl Roberts Bradbury, Doris Koehler, Tootsie Kay Vest, and Karen Walton. Pat wrote also that Cheryl Roberts Bradbury and her husband have been stationed at Fort Benning in Columbus, Ga., this past year, but are returning to their hometown of Charlottesville in June. Cheryl will teach next year while Tommy is studying at the U. of Va. Nancy Fey Futch has been teaching a second-third grade combination class in Vienna, Va., and living with her parents in McLean, awaiting her husband Tommy's return from Vietnam in September. Doris Koehler taught Business Ed. this year at Garfield High School in Prince William County and is still living in Woodbridge with Bonnie Stratton ('68) and Karen Walton. Karen has taken two graduate courses this year; after her marriage on June 28, she and her husband will live in Alexandria. Pat continues on to say that Tootsie Kay Vest and her husband Dudley, are living in Richmond while he is studying at MCV. Lucy Flannagan Rankin and her husband, Richard, are also in Richmond where Lucy is teaching English. Vicki Doss will continue to teach Home Economics in Colonial Heights. Pat closes her letter, which is really appreciated as it was an alumnae newsletter in itself, by saying that she will continue next year, teaching fourth grade at Quantico Dependents' School and will be taking a graduate course through the UVA extension in Springfield this summer.

In Western Va., Erma Jo Carter Underwood has been teaching second grade at Stanleytown Elementary School in Collinsville. Erma Jo and her husband have anniversary #1 on June 22. In Martinsville, Linda Byrd Moore will be teaching non-graded primary at Joseph Martin School next year. Carolyn Jean Blevins Hudson and family have moved back to Va. from Omaha, and she is now living in Roanoke with her husband and two little girls: Gaynell Michelle (Mickey) and Cherie Renee.

From Eastern Va., Marie Anderson, who has been living in Williamsburg, became Mrs. John K. Potts on June 21, 1969, and is living in Atlanta, Ga., where John will attend Ga. Tech. Rene Fishburne McSwain and husband, Shackford, asked that we please announce the arrival of their first baby, Jeffrey Drayton, born April 7, 1969, at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Portsmouth.

From out of state, we heard from Patricia Clifton White who is teaching French and English at a public high school in Nashville, Tenn. She is also taking courses at Middle Tenn. State U. in Murfreesboro, toward an M.A. in Psychology with certification in guidance and counseling. Pat's husband is working toward a Ph.D. in church history at Vanderbilt U. Pat writes that Ann Fox Cassada is also living in Nashville while her husband is studying at Vanderbilt toward a Ph.D. in history. Linda Enright was graduated in May from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., with a Master's degree in Religious Education. She writes that she is proud of this degree but not so happy as she will be to get her "MRS degree" on June 21 in Richmond. She met her future husband, Grant C. Urquhart, at the Seminary, where he was doing graduate study. As of July 1 they will live in Forest City, N. C., where Grant will serve as Minister of Education in a Baptist church, and Linda plans to teach. Linda hopes all our Longwood sisters are as happy as she is! Kay Collins Titus taught 7th grade Art at Sidney Lanier Intermediate School in Fairfax County for 1½ years after graduation. Then on December 28, 1968, she was married and moved with husband Rick to Iowa City, where he is in the Urban and Regional Planning Graduate School. Kay says that they will be in the Iowa City area until August, 1969, when they will probably be moving to New York City. Kay is presently employed as a secretary for the Division of Rehabilitation, Education and Services in Iowa City.

Susan Moore Sheffield and her husband, Walt, have been living in Germany for the past year; Susan taught seventh grade social studies there. After touring Italy, Spain, and Morocco, Susan and Walt plan to return to the States. Ginny Poindexter, planning a June wedding, will live in Edgewood, Md., and Ginny will teach third grade there. Helen Turner is planning an August wedding to Wiley Thomas Nance; they will live in Martinsville. Helen will be teaching at a county high school where she has taught since graduation.

Beth Ottwell Harman is living with her parents in Portsmouth while her husband, Beggie Harman, is in Vietnam. She will be teaching again in the fall in the Chesapeake Public Schools.

Janice Smith has been traveling in the western states during the past year. She has been quite happy teaching in an "ideal situation," a class of 15 second and third graders at Aylett County Day School.

Mollie Smith Snead plans to move to Charlottesville when her husband, Ray, finishes his tour of duty in the Army this August. There Ray will begin studying law at the U. of Va. Mollie is presently busy rearing her son, Rayner V., III, born on Christmas Eve.

Rosalie Palumbo Brinson is living and working in Charlottesville. Her husband, Jim, is taking graduate courses at the U. of Va. They are expecting their first child in late October.

Connie Graham Melton, her husband, and their daughter, Tracy, are living in Turkey. Connie says they miss the "good ole U.S.A." Jane Winfree Williams and her husband, Charles, are still living in Richmond. Jane works for a real estate agency, and Charles will be entering his final year at T. C. Williams Law School in the fall.

Being a working wife takes up most of Lois Sneade Neighbors' time. She is working for Scott Paper Co. in Atlanta, Ga., and is working on her Master's degree in night school. Janie Wall Evans and Ronald, who is in the Air Force, have lived in Tex., Portsmouth, and Turkey, and have visited Istanbul, Athens, Rome, and London, and are now living in Laurel, Md. Janie has taught home economics at a junior high school in Portsmouth; she is looking forward to working this summer for Dow Jones Stock Exchange; this will be a new experience for her. Sue Ramsey has been teaching elementary music at the Beach for the past two years. She recently became engaged and is planning a late summer wedding. She and Bill will probably live in Newport, R. I., or in the Boston area. Ellen Miller has been teaching speech and drama at Jefferson High School in Fairfax County. She plans to spend the summer in Europe where she will visit her family in Germany and will tour.

In August she plans to work in Vietnam as Entertainment Director for the Special Services with the Department of Army, after which she hopes to go to Hong Kong or Honolulu for Rest and Recuperation leave.

Betty Ryalls has been teaching English 8 and 9 at Louisa County High School and plans to return to Louisa next year. This summer she plans to begin work on her Master's at the U.Va. Katherine Still Dunnivant married Ed Dunnivant, a VPI graduate. They are planning to move from Manassas to Henrico where Kathy will teach at Fairfield Junior High, if she cannot get transferred to a senior high.

Family of Nan Hovey-King, '64x, and John Morris, Tammie, 4½ and Terrie, 2.

H Heather Lou and John, Jr., children of Cynthia Davenport Eberwine, '64.

Debra Smith has taught chemistry for two years at Kecoughtan High School. She co-sponsored the senior class with Donna O'Malley who plans to be married in August and to move to Mont. Debra is teaching a science enrichment program for advanced sixth graders this summer.

Susan Trainer continues to work in the Child and Family Services Division of the Virginia Beach Department of Public Welfare. She values the experience as a "rewarding" and "challenging" one. Susan plans a wedding in the fall. Patty Manuel Shottwell and her husband bill are moving to Lake Charles, La. He is employed by Hercules, Inc., and Patty will teach first grade in Lake Charles.

Becky White, after spending the summer of 1968 in Prague, Czechoslovakia, as Richmond's Community Ambassador, made 110 speeches around the city this year and taught a class of 35 "precious" fourth graders. After a second visit to Czechoslovakia this summer, Becky plans to return to Duke U. to complete a Master's degree. She is one of 5 receiving the John J. Schesler Graduate Award on the basis of academic standing, leadership, ability, churchmanship, and character.

Ruth Peck Roberts and husband Phil have returned from a two-year tour of duty in Belgium, where Ruthie did a great deal of work with an orphanage. Brenda Gibson Gilman and son, Paul Ellis, are living in Wertheim, Germany, where her husband, Larry, is stationed with the Army. Carolyn Keyes visited with the Gilmans on her trip to Europe this past summer. Carolyn attended the Betty Mallory-Brabrand wedding last April and saw Ginny Poindexter, Edie Loving, and Martha Boswell.

Gail Gooch is teaching at John Marshall in Richmond, and June Herndon is teaching elementary school in Chesterfield County. Recently June and Linda Frye visited Linda Reams McKittick and son in Blackstone. Nancy Janer Peterson and husband, Alan, are living in R. I., where he is stationed as a Navy pilot. Nancy is now in her second year of teaching at North Kingstown High School.

Mike and Julie Glass Paulette are living in Richmond where he is employed by a bank, and she is a housewife. Anne Lancaster Hall is living in Fort Knox, Ky., where her husband is stationed with the Army. Bridesmaids in the Lancaster-Hall wedding last March were Margaret Jackson Bell, Deedie Holdren, and Rosemary McCormick Bell, with Becky White as wedding director.

Carol Lee Beumer is working at The Community Hospital of Roanoke Valley and occasionally sees Frances Roane and Diane Dixon Bower. Rene Krebs is giving up her work at the Social Service Bureau in Richmond and hopes to return to work in Roanoke. Last fall she and Mary Beirne travelled in Europe. Jeannette Fallen spent the past summer in summer school at the U. of Ky., and is teaching at Woodbridge Senior High in Prince William County.

Ginny Hammond Bryant lived in Greenwich Village this past summer while her husband worked in a N. Y. bank. Ginny is now teaching second grade in Charlottesville while Henry finishes his MBA. Suzanne Kellam Miles, Tom, and child are now living in Laredo, Tex., where he is in pilot school for the USAF. Suzanne occasionally sees Claudia Crutchlow Clark who now lives in Greensboro, N. C. Nancy Worsham is living in Norfolk and working on her M.A. at ODC. Penny Livingston Warren and husband, Larry, are living in N. Y., and she is attending graduate school full time.

Linda Georgie Sharff and husband Richard are living in Henrico Co. where he teaches, and she takes care of son, Richie. Linda New Oliff and husband, Frank, have moved into their new home in Chesterfield Co., where Linda continues to teach. Also living in Chesterfield Co. is Susan Glover Walker and family. Linda Shultz will join the Bridgewater faculty this fall as an instructor in Spanish. Living overseas for ten years, she attended schools in Paraguay, Colombia, and Iran.

Can you believe it? We've been graduates for over a year now! It is fun to find out what each has been doing during that time, and we want to thank you for your responses. Our class has been spread out over the state, the nation, and the world.

Most of us have returned to the classroom again, but find ourselves on the other side of the desk. Quite a switch! Betty Thomas-Roberts taught math in her Alma Mater, Bluestone, in Clarksville this year. Helen Jean Haynie ('67x) taught at Petersburg High School and plans to attend the U. of Va. Graduate School of Education this summer. She is also planning a wedding for the end of the summer. Terrell Jackson taught kindergarten in Lexington this year. Cheryl Hall Tuthill taught fourth grade at Virginia Beach and plans to return in the fall. Jim is working on his Master's while teaching and coaching at Norview High School. Judy Hall Parker taught seventh grade math in Greensville County this year. We are glad to hear Tommy returned safely from Vietnam last summer and that they are finally enjoying settling down to a normal life after three years of marriage. Brenda Johnson Proffitt also welcomed a returning husband from a "vacation" in the Orient. She has been teaching Earth Science and Biology in Portsmouth. She and Bill plan to make their home in Colonial Heights while he is stationed at Fort Lee.

Cookie Hiatt Peatross taught science, health, and physical education to fourth graders in Hanover County this year. She plans to attend VCU and to teach summer school. Betty Hynson Hall taught business subjects at Colonial Beach where she was sponsor of FBIA. She and Jim are buying a home in Montross. Brenda Harris Wilmouth is a new bride as of April. She taught at E. C. Glass in Lynchburg this year. Charlotte Hays Mansfield taught math in four grades in Nansemond County. Carolyn Hingerty Dunderlow taught science to sixth and seventh graders in Holland, Va.

Janet Thompson plans a wedding for the summer. She taught second grade at Virginia Beach this year. Kathy Stone taught first grade, and Bettie Horner taught fourth at Pinchbeck in Henrico. Kathy plans a July wedding and will make a new home in Richmond. Carolyn Hudgins taught first grade in Matthews County. She plans a summer wedding and will be living in West Point, Va.

Margaret Ann Stomback taught art in high school in Cumberland County and plans to return for the third year there. Phyllis Hammer Yates has worked as an editorial assistant in a public relations office in the summer of '68. She also was sponsor of the yearbook at her school in Fairfax, while teaching seventh and eighth grade English.

Candy Thomas Price has become director of a newly created reading clinic in Appomattox. She has a three-year-old son, Mark Thomas Price, and is happy to have her husband home from the Navy.

Not everyone has been teaching in Va., however. Dorothy Thurston Bossert, who is in Colorado Springs, Col., has been substituting but plans to teach next in her home town of Mantua, N. J. Barbara Hall Cooley taught seventh grade social studies in Livingston, N. J., this year and will teach in The Barnard School for Girls in New York City next fall. Robert has recently obtained his office title at the First National City Bank on Wall Street. Jo Ann Cage Gidewell has moved to San Diego, Cal., and is teaching in a nursery school. Eva Tinsman Pratt spent six months in Thailand but returned to Conn. where she substituted this year and is making a new home especially for a new member due in her family in October.

Vicki Jeter McNemar, who should be included in the '67 class news, has taught English in high school for three years and has moved to N. C. to make her home. She was the director of the senior class play, Blithe Spirit, this year and enjoyed it in spite of the hard work. Don't worry, Vicki, we'll get you with the right class soon!

Not all of us are teachers. Jeannie Via Gordon has a new job with a trade association in D. C., as an executive secretary. She and John had lived in Ga. and Baltimore, but she is back home while he serves in Vietnam. Lisa Hammer has an exciting job, too. She has been working with "The Nuclear Power Generation Division" of the Babcock and Wilcox Company in Lynchburg as a Nuclear Engineer. They are presently designing a nuclear reactor for the Duke Power Company in N. C.

As for our world travelers—Sherry Grimes Kympton has gone to Germany for two years. Jean Hendricks toured Europe during the summer of '68 with her sister and two friends. She returned to Newport News to teach health and physical education and has plans for more travel in '69—heading West—so I hear!

Marilyn Green has an exciting and fascinating summer ahead of her. She will go to Greece as Richmond's Ambassador for the Experiment in International Living Program. Although she has to spend many hours learning Greek, she is overjoyed at the opportunity to know the people and to share in their way of life. She taught world history at T. J. High School this year and has tentative plans for graduate school next year for a M.A. in Guidance and Counseling.

It was great hearing from those who responded to our requests for news. We hope more people will fill us in on what they have been doing, for the next issue of the magazine.

Right: Helen Barnard, '69, now a stewardess with Delta Airlines.

Hi, Fellow Grads! Can you believe we are actually just that—graduates? It seems funny for a September to roll around without packing up our suitcases and making the journey to Farmville again. Most of us are pretty well settled by now, either working, being wives, or going to graduate school.

Virginia Beach hired many Longwood graduates. The school board gave a breakfast for all their teachers, and it really looked more like a Longwood reunion than anything else. Teaching in Virginia Beach are Kathy Mapp, Janet Sofley, Linda Hudson, Stephanie DuRoss, Jenny Gregory, Linda Etheridge, Sandra Sink, Maywood Martin, Jo Ann Black, Pat Halstead, Cathy Jester, Judy Meadows, Judy Owens, Stacey Dodge, Becky Powers, Sandra Dew, Kay Robertson, Peggy Eddy, Noreen Corcoran, and Carolyn Brockmeyer. Henrico hired Beth Rice Boyd, Peggy Schults, Carolyn Hubbard, Pattie Kingsley, Ann Bowles Staples, and Mary Jones Shields. Cathy Hasi Hatfield and Alice Cundiff signed with Chesapeake. Judy Kingsley, Janis Wilhelm, Donna Brantley, and Carolyn Key are teaching in Chesterfield Co. Carol Skelly is teaching in Roanoke Co.

Not all Longwood grads are teaching. Polly Prince is with the home economics department in Wytheville, and Nancy Ikenberry is doing social work in Roanoke. Terry Knight is with the merchandising department of Miller and Rhoads.

Several of our classmates are going to graduate school. They include Patti Pawl, Jinx Washington, and Mary Masse. Taking graduate courses while teaching are Jenny Gregory and Linda Hudson.

Jeanette Thrasher, who completed degree requirements in August, 1968, taught at William Fleming High School in Roanoke during the past year. She plans to teach there again this year. During the summer of 1969, she worked for Kelley Service—a part-time employment agency—and found herself doing various and sundry jobs. Dorothy F. Kesler Winstead received her Normal Professional from L. C. in 1938 and has taught 4th grade in Fluvanna Co. and Norfolk for 19 years. She is now teaching at Sherwood Forest Elementary School in Norfolk. Mrs. Winstead has a daughter, Randia, and 2 sons, Dennie and Richard. Diane W'oodlee Nance taught 3rd grade at R. C. Longan Elem. School in Henrico Co. this past year; however, this year she has been "promoted" and is teaching 5th grade—at the same school.

Patricia AlGeebe Sanzo is in her 2nd year as a business student this past year and received an M.S. in Mathematics at Radford College in August, 1969. She has been appointed to the faculty at Radford College for the 1969-70 session and will teach mathematics. She was recently accepted at VPI to begin graduate work Sept., 1969, toward the Ph.D. degree in Statistics and hopes to get a fellowship to go full time for the 1970-71 session. Her husband, Joseph, received the M.S. degree from L. C. in June, 1969. He is presently a project engineer with Hercules, Inc., at Radford Army Ammunition Plant. Sue and Joseph recently bought a home in Blacksburg and like that area very much. Carole Hogg Dix is working at Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company as secretary to the Senior Vice-President.

Susan Turner spent 8 weeks in Europe with Johanne Kennedy ('68) and two other girls. They toured 9 countries. In Sept., Susan began her 2nd year of teaching 3rd grade at Carver in Henrico Co. From Nov., 1968, to June, 1969, Stella Bryant taught 11th grade English at Clarke Co. High School. In Sept. she began teaching 8th and 10th grade English at Kenston Forest Academy in Norway Co.—Blackstone, Va. During the summer she attended summer school at William & Mary. Since Feb. Anne Levis Rylands has been employed at the NASA Scientific & Technical Information Facility in College Park, Md., as an indexer in the Special Products Branch of the Facility. Anne's husband accepted a position with the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. in Columbus, Ohio, and they moved there at the end of Sept. Heard from Sue Ross who said getting something for alumnae news made her feel 10 years older! She taught at a high school in Cleveland, Ohio, from Jan.-June, 1969, and during the summer she worked for the Cleveland Board of Education. In Sept. she left for a 10-week tour of Europe. She is still her witty self. When she returns from Europe, she will be broke and unemployed. She wonders whether she could take out a want-ad section in the alumnae bulletin! There is no change in her Vital Statistics—so she says—still single—desperate—approaching hopelessness!

Diane O'Berry worked for First & Merchants Bank, Norfolk, as secretary to the Vice-President, and she is making plans for her Oct. wedding. Nancy Aiello Gehley works as a Computer Programmer for the Dept. of Navy. She has begun graduate work toward a degree in Computer Science. Her husband, Dennis, who graduated from the U. of Va., was commissioned into the U. S. Army in August. They will be going to Indianapolis, Ind., for two months where Dennis will attend Finance School at Ft. Benjamin Harrison. Afterward they will be assigned to Germany for 2 years and, then, hope to settle in Washington where Dennis will work for the General Accounting Office in D. C. Mary Katharine Carroll Godsey has been substitute teaching in Hopewell since her graduation in Jan., 1969. When I received word from her, she was hoping to join the faculty at Hopewell High School as a business education teacher. Her husband, William, is a project engineer for Hercules, Inc.

Upon graduation in Jan., 1969, Rebecca Vimpeny Hatcher taught 7th grade science at Tuckahoe Jr. High School in Henrico Co. In the fall she began teaching at Tuckahoe Elem. School in Henrico. Ann Reames Marshall works as a Food Promotion Specialist with the Va. Dept. of Agriculture in Richmond. She says her job takes her all over the state, promoting Va. products by doing radio and TV tapes and shows and food demonstrations. She also does recipe booklets and news releases for all Va. papers. Her husband, James, is a computer programmer at Philip Morris, Inc. Lana Jane Stern teaches Grade 1 at Forest Hill School in Lynchburg. Dorothy Heptinstall Stepha is been working at the Dept. of Electric Utilities, City of Jacksonville Beach, Fla., as their first Home Economist since March, 1969. She has made TV appearances, been on radio, and has written several articles for a local newspaper.

After finishing in Jan., Judy Jerrill Strehan began teaching home ec. at the Parker-Gray Middle School in Alexandria where she is also teaching this year. Her husband, Paul, is a Sgt. in the USMC and is stationed at Andrews Air Force Base. Phyllis Robinson is working for WROV Radio in Roanoke. Betty Sheldon Baldwin is teaching 2nd grade at Drakes Branch Elem. School in Charlotte Co. Ann Smith Wright and her husband, Bill, honeymooned in Italy after their June wedding. They were in Virginia Beach until August 1 when they moved to Henrico Co. Ann is teaching 2nd grade at Bethlehem Elementary School in the county, and Bill is in graduate school in Richmond. Donna Barnes signed a contract with Mathews Co. to teach 4 English classes and 1 French class. Peggy Vaughan is teaching at Pinchbeck Elementary School and living at home. "Untrue to Longwood's tradition, I won't be joining the teaching ranks this fall," says Kathy Zimmerman. She has begun permanent work with the Life Insurance Company of Va. as their receptionist.

Lynne Rachel Chambers is teaching geography at Falling Creek Junior High School in Chesterfield Co., while her husband, Jim, completes his senior year at the Univ. of Richmond. Candy Jamison Dowdy and Jane Richardson ('71) were bridesmaids in her wedding in June. Suzanne Terry Emerson worked at the Engineer's Office at the County of Henrico from April-August, 1969. In the fall she began teaching 5th grade at Chalkley Elementary School in Chesterfield Co. Verla Henderson Wall is teaching 3rd grade at Englewood Hills Elementary School, Englewood, Ohio, a suburb of Dayton. Her husband, Reis, is in the U. S. Air Force. They just moved from Fla., where they were previously stationed. This summer Brenda Holly worked for Blue Cross-Blue Shield and began teaching at Highland Springs High School in Henrico Co. in Sept.

Vicki Forsht had her usual bit of humor to add to the news. Said changing jobs has been her main occupation. After graduation in March, 1969, she taught 9th grade English at Surattsville Junior High School in Md. Because of overcrowded conditions, her room was a trailer—leaked when it rained, froze you out in the winter, and roasts one in the summer. She finished there on June 20. She spent 7 glorious days in Nassau. In September she began teaching English-American Literature in Surattsville, Md.

Judy McBride is in Danville teaching business subjects at George Washington High School. During the summer she toured Europe for three weeks and visited with some of LC's other alumnae in Paris. Laura Clark made the scene at Virginia Beach this summer by working at the Homestead Hotel. She is teaching choral music at Kempville Jr. High School at Virginia Beach. Peggy Shults and Patty Kingsley are sharing an apartment in Richmond. Peggy is teaching at Skipwith Elementary School in Henrico Co. Mary Hamner worked for the Dept. of the Navy this summer and began teaching at Woodbridge High School, Prince William Co. She has destroyed her conservative teacher's image by buying a 1969 Dodge Charger. Carol Anthony began working at the Executive Office Building of Reynolds Metals Co. the first part of July, 1969. During the month of June, she vacationed at the beach. Becky Bartholomew is in graduate school at the U. of Richmond, working on her M.A. in English. Her fiancé was a member of the Baptist Student Union Drama Team this summer; so she was at home holding the fort by working in the public library.

Patricia Bates is teaching English in Culpeper. In preparation for this she taught reading improvement this summer! Danny, her fiancé, was in N. J. for 10 weeks and then in Ft. Polk, La., for 2 months—in the service. Being the rich school teacher that she is, Tricia bought a new car—1969 Mustang, Acapulco Blue.
